'SUFFERING IN VIET NAM . . .

Thant Quits; Cites Hopeless Task

. . . A REPROACH TO HUMANITY'

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U Thant announced today he will quit as United Nations secretary-general when his current five-year term expires Nov. 3 and will not seek re-election.

In a 1,000-word letter of resignation, Thant cited the UN's financial difficulties and the grave international situation, which he said he believed was remorselessly leading to major war.

He said the sufferings of the people of Viet Nam were "a constant reproach to the conscience of humanity" and that "tragic error" was being made in reliance on force in the "deceptive pursuit of peace."

An informant said Thant asked the Security Council to recommend a successor to the General Assembly.

The decision of the soft-spoken Burmese, taken despite heavy pressure from UN members, including Russia and the United States raised the prospect of an east-west clash over selection of a candidate for the post.

Thant also alluded to the absence of Communist China from the UN, saying that he had "a sense of dissatisfaction with the fact that the organization has not yet achieved universality of membership." He said:

"I believe I am not alone in this feeling. Many of the problems facing the world today, be they regional or global, become more intractable because of this circumstance.

"This is true, for example, of the lack of progress in such vital fields as disarmament."

The text of the letter, sent to every member state's delegation here, was not immediately released officially by the UN, but the contents became known from early recipients of the document.

Thant said he was sure his decision not to stand for a second term would not be misconstrued and he was leaving the Security Council unfettered in the appointment of his successor.

Informed sources said urgent consultations now would be held privately among council members and the council might meet behind closed doors within a few days, though probably not during the weekend.

Thant's decision raised the prospect of new East - West wrangling over a successor, similar to that in 1961, before the Burmese was chosen.

18% Not Ceiling PM Tells House

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today that the 18-per-cent wage increase over two years provided in the government's strike-ending railway bill can be revised upwards through mediation or, possibly, arbitration.

He was replying to David Lewis (NDP-York South) who maintained that earlier statements by cabinet ministers had left the impression that 18 per cent would be a ceiling.

Mr. Pearson spoke in the Commons after the government formally proposed an amendment to write 1967 minimum wage increases into its bill to halt the strike which began last Friday. The bill already contained 1966 increases of 4 per cent, retroactive to January 1, and another 4 per cent retroactive to July 1.

The government's move was immediately followed by demands from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government also add a general statement of principle to remove the railwaymen's "fear of a continuing reduction of jobs."

Labor Minister Nicholson, replying to Mr. Diefenbaker, said the government gave assurance Wednesday night that fringe benefits and job security would be dealt with when the relevant section of the bill was reached.

'Moral Guarantee,' Says Gov't.

Several government spokesmen — including Mr. Pearson, Immigration Minister Marchand and Health Minister MacEachen — had argued that because the 1966 increases followed the recommendations of two conciliation board reports, the bill carried a "moral guarantee" that workers would end up with no less than the 18 per cent recommended by the boards for two years. The 18-per-cent proposals were rejected by the unions and the railway companies.

The Commons met at 10 a.m. — 4½ hours earlier than usual — to continue study of the 11-clause strike bill.

Mr. Pearson said fears that the 18 per cent will become a ceiling are based on "invalid and unwarranted" interpretations of government statements.

Mediation and, if that fails, arbitration would be free to revise that figure.

"There is nothing to justify the interpretation that this is a ceiling," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker poked fun at Mr. Marchand and Mr. MacEachen for their previous defence of the bill as written.

When the government changed its mind and agreed to the amendment the two ministers "were laid out flat on the floor."

"Even Cassius Clay never equalled knocking out two ministers within a few minutes," he said with a chuckle.

Demanding inclusion in the bill of a general statement of principle about fringe benefits and job security, Mr. Diefenbaker said he had in mind the fact that the unions rejected the conciliation board reports recommending 18-per-cent increases.

Each Individual to Get 18%

Mr. Pearson in reply said he can't speak for the union leaders but that he has confidence in the law-abiding character of Canadians.

Mr. Nicholson accepted a proposal by H. A. Olson (SC — Medicine Hat) that the bill provide a specific guarantee that each individual employee receive at least an 18 per cent increase if the dispute goes before an arbitration board.

Meanwhile, leaders of the unions refused comment today after holding an hour-long meeting in a downtown hotel.

"We want to see the legislation as passed before making any statements," said W. J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. (In Vancouver leaders of the province's 10,000 strikers said their members likely will reject the latest back-to-work proposal. (The chairman of the workers' strike committee said the unions want more than the 18 per cent increase included in the Commons bill "and we don't believe there is much chance" of this under the bill.

("If the legislation passes and the men don't go back, it will be interesting to see the government try to arrest more than 100,000 men," said John Patrick O'Brien.

Compulsory Arbitration Big Fear

(Mr. O'Brien said the men are "afraid of compulsory arbitration," provided for in the legislation if no agreement is reached through further negotiation by Nov. 15.)

The break in a fractious three-day debate came at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday when Labor Minister Nicholson announced the amendment to the legislation.

The original bill introduced Monday set down a four-per-cent increase effective last Jan. 1 and another four per cent effective last July 1. Wage rates for 1967 were left to negotiation or arbitration.

This eight-per-cent interim settlement was denounced as totally inadequate by strike leaders and the Conservative and New Democratic parties.

Threats were voiced that the workers would defy Parliament and remain on strike.

The cabinet met several times Wednesday and ministers began

95 Die in Crash Of U.K. Airliner

WRECKAGE of chartered British airliner lies under trees on Yugoslavia hillside after crash killed 95 of 117 persons aboard. (AP Wirephoto.)

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — A British airliner carrying 117 persons on a vacation to Yugoslavia crashed and burned today as it came in for a landing and 95 persons were killed.

Officials here said 80 persons died when the plane plunged into a woods shortly after midnight Wednesday night in cloudy weather near the airport of this mountain city.

The other victims died in hospitals or on the way. Officials said that of the 22 survivors, two were in serious condition but the others were out of danger.

Rescue workers said those who survived had nearly all been seated in the back of the plane.

WEPT WITH SHOCK

When the first rescuers appeared, about a dozen survivors were stumbling about, weeping in shock and hysteria.

The airliner crashed shortly after midnight on a flight from Luton Airport, 30 miles north of London.

The plane had just cleared the snow - covered peaks of north Yugoslavia's Julian Alps which rim this prosperous and modern capital of Slovenia. It was coming in for a normal landing when it crashed in a field near the runway.

ALL TOURISTS

In the confusion of the crash there were conflicting reports whether the plane crashed while landing or while taking off on a return flight. But authorities confirmed that the crash occurred as the plane was coming in from London, two hours and 25 minutes after takeoff.

The Britannia 102 plunged into a field near Ljubljana's Brnik Airport in the vicinity of the village of Modemnda.

COMPANY CHARTERS

Britannia Airways does charter work for British travel agencies. The company was formerly called Eucavia Limited, and is a subsidiary operation of Lord Thomson, Canadian-born publisher.

The plane that crashed was a Britannia airliner of a type that used to be known as "the whispering giant." The plane and the airline have the same name by coincidence.

The last major crash involving a British - owned airliner was on March 5 when a British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 jet crashed near Tokyo with the loss of 124 lives.

Britannias have a generally good safety record. The last one to crash, also a charter plane, came down in the mountains near Innsbruck, Austria, in February, 1964, killing 83 persons.

BOAC used to run a fleet of Britannias which are powered by four Bristol Siddeley turboprop engines. But the state-owned airline withdrew them from service when pure jet planes became available in large numbers.

The Ljubljana disaster was Britannia Airways' first accident since the company was formed five years ago.

CABINET TOO BUSY

Election First, Then Ferries

Premier Bennett will not go out of his way to meet with licensed officers of the British Columbia ferry service who are threatening to quit en masse if their demands for collective bargaining are not met by next Thursday.

Capt. Cecil Rhodes, secretary of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, today said he will make further efforts to see Mr. Bennett today to arrange an immediate meeting.

He was unable to contact Mr. Bennett in Vancouver Wednesday although reporters did and were told by the premier that the guild will have to go through regular channels.

Mr. Bennett said the representatives of the 250 licensed officers involved should see the ferry authority and civil service commission officials first about their problems.

If they still are not satisfied, they can arrange to meet with the cabinet in the normal way, he said.

"However, it would be difficult to arrange a meeting with the cabinet this week since they're all out campaigning in different parts of the province," Mr. Bennett said.

PM to List Priorities

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the government will announce legislative priorities, including medical care insurance, as soon as the Commons completes study of rail strike and transportation legislation.

GI Shoots Vietnamese Woman

SAIGON (CP) — A Vietnamese woman selling bread on a busy Saigon street was killed today when an American soldier took a shot at a taxi driver.

The shooting took place just before noon in a block crowded with bars, restaurants and American billets. Within minutes the area was swarming with American military police and Vietnamese policemen on the alert for Viet Cong violence aimed at disrupting the Sept. 11 election.

PFC Wallace Frazier, 21, of Philadelphia was detained in connection with the death. Two other soldiers with Frazier were taken into custody but were released later.

An official said an American soldier got out of the taxi at the busy intersection and an argument with the driver took place.

One pistol shot was fired, hitting 33-year-old Dam Thi Mong, who was selling bread a few yards away, in the heart.

Her husband and children wept over her body as it lay beside laden food baskets.

Mayor Seeks Troops

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — A Negro man was critically wounded by a shotgun blast in front of his home early today, touching off sporadic violence in Dayton's predominately Negro west side. The mayor declared a state of emergency and asked for national guard troops to keep order.

DE GAULLE ON VIET NAM:

'States Won't Lose Prestige on Pull-Out'

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters)—President de Gaulle of France today urged the United States to agree to withdraw its forces from Viet Nam and accept internationally-guaranteed neutralization of the Indochina area.

In a major speech before 60,000 persons in Phnom Penh's vast Olympic Stadium, the French president declared the United States is so powerful and has such prestige that it could afford to give up an "expedition" in a faraway land that has no benefit or justification.

Acceptance of an international arrangement bringing peace to this important area would in no way finally injure American pride, thwart U.S. ideals or jeopardize its interests, he said.

De Gaulle said France is certain the Viet Nam war will lead to no military solution, "short of the universe moving toward catastrophe."

ISN'T COMMUNIST VIEW

De Gaulle did not call for withdrawal of American forces as a prelude to negotiations—as North Viet Nam and its Communist supporters have demanded—but said:

"The possibility and even more, the opening of such a vast and difficult negotiation (to end the war) would obviously depend on the decisions and commitments which America would previously have chosen to take and enter into to repatriate its forces at an appropriate and fixed period of time."

De Gaulle took a gloomy view of the results if the U.S. does not follow the course he suggested.

"If this does not happen," he said, no mediation will offer any prospect of success, and this is why France, for its part, has never envisioned and does not envision proposing any."

While admitting that "it is unbelievable that the American military display should ever be annihilated in the field," de

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — The Coast Guard reported today an Italian tanker with 40 men aboard was adrift in storm tossed seas. The ship's engine room was reported flooding and at least one man was dead.

'COME UP HERE AND WRESTLE,' SAYS LOFFMARK

Ralph Takes Up Arms Against Hecklers

By TERRY IZZARD

The Social Credit party's secret strongarm man revealed himself Wednesday night.

He's Ralph Loffmark.

His challenge came during an explosive 10-minute slanging session after Mr. Loffmark said there were no working men among NDP members in the legislature.

"Are there any in the Social Credit government?" shouted one excited member of the audience.

When no one wanted to twist arms, he taunted:

"I've met your sort before and they last about two days (doing a hard day's work)."

While no one was prepared to test their physical strength against the fighting minister, there was no shortage of verbal contestants.

Several members of the audience were provoked by Mr. Loffmark's comparison of the New Democratic Party with East Germany's socialist party.

"If the socialist state of East Germany is convinced a socialist government is good for them, would they need machine-guns?" asked Mr. Loffmark.

"These guns are pointed at the people being held in there — at people who want to leave. They see no future for themselves.

Shouted someone from the floor: "You can do better than that."

"Tell us about Viet Nam," said another.

"This is as good as Seven Days."

And another: "What about the machine-guns?"

The chairman twice tried to restore order but each time was waved back to his seat by Mr. Loffmark.

Takeover First Aim Of NDP

By JIM HUME
Times Staff Reporter

MERRITT—An immediate government takeover of automobile insurance was promised by NDP Leader Robert Strachan Wednesday when he addressed his most enthusiastic audience of the present election campaign.

Mr. Strachan told the 150-strong, constantly applauding crowd that the time had come to end the money-gouging tactics of private insurance companies.

Speaking in support of William Hartley who is involved in a two-way fight with Social Credit in the Yale-Lillooet riding, Mr. Strachan was again sharply critical of Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

"This man has failed the farmer completely," he said. "He is the biggest problem agriculture has in this province."

For the first time on his present tour Mr. Stradhan said his party was fully prepared to form a government on Sept. 13.

CABINET PLANS

"We could and will have a cabinet of outstanding men with outstanding ideas when the people throw out the Socreds on Sept. 12."

One of the major promises made by Mr. Strachan was a complete revision of social welfare payments.

"In 1952 $137,000 dollars was paid out in social assistance in this riding," he said.

"Some of that money went to physically disabled and deserted wives but the vast majority went to able-bodied men who do not have a job.

"In 1966, those payments will reach $470,000 in this riding and Social Credit is bragging about this. They should be thoroughly ashamed. When we are elected we shall introduce a program to bring secondary industry to the province of B.C. and wipe out the need for welfare payments by finding jobs for every able-bodied man and woman."

7-YEAR ITCH

Mr. Strachan referred to Mr. Bennett's seven year program as "A seven-year itch."

"Three years ago he introduced a seven-year plan which has never been even partially fullfilled. Now he calls another election with another seven-year plan. I think that before calling the present election he must have consulted the entrails of a chicken.

Mr. Strachan was scheduled to speak in Vancouver at noon today, in Abbottsford tonight and tomorrow morning flies to Prince Rupert and Terrace.

Gaulle said that only an agreement along the lines of the 1954 Geneva accord could settle the war.

"Exactly as for the agreement of 1954, the object of this one would be to establish and guarantee the neutrality of the peoples of Indochina and their right of self-determination as these people actually are and leaving to each of them full responsibilities for its own affairs.

SUGGESTS LIST

"The contracting parties, therefore, would be the real powers in action there and, among the other states, at least the five world powers."

The five world powers as defined in the United Nations charter are France, Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China. Since France recognizes Communist China, de Gaulle apparently included that government among the five.

The speech, regarded as the most important of de Gaulle's around - the - world tour, came after a 35-minute talk he had here with a high North Vietnamese government representative, Nguyen Thuong.

A French spokesman said de Gaulle was given a personal message from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh Wednesday as he met privately with Thuong.

The spokesman said the note was being studied.

At a dinner given by Prince Norodom Sihanouk for the visiting president Wednesday night, the Cambodian premier toasted de Gaulle as the one man who might be able to exert moral pressure to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

Police Hunt More Bodies

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Police started a search in heavy fog today in an area two miles outside the city limits, on the possibility that there may be more bodies there beside those of two women already found.

Results of an autopsy announced today disclosed the second victim, still unidentified, died of strangulation.

Her body was found Wednesday about 100 yards from where the partly-clothed body of Dorreen Lucy Hardy, 18, of MacDiarmid, Ont., was found Sunday.

A Swedish freighter, diverted from its course, was attempting to make headway to the distressed vessel but reported progress was slow.

hinting at an 18-per-cent statutory wage boost.

Mr. Nicholson made it official by reading an amendment providing for two increases in 1967 — four per cent Jan. 1 and six per cent July 1.

Today's sitting was to continue without a break until the bill passed all stages.

Senate approval, royal assent and proclamation of the law in the Canada Gazette were due to follow quickly.

The big question was whether the strikers would obey the bill and return to work as soon as it became law.

The bill cleared a major hurdle Wednesday when it received a second reading — approval in principle — by a vote of 138 to 103.

The 122 Liberals backing the measure were joined by eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs, independents Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke) and J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) and a Conservative who broke the party line, J. Patrick Nowlan (Digby-Annapolis-Kings). (See story on Page 3.)

Earlier, an amendment by Mr. Diefenbaker to kill the bill in its original form went down 138 to 110.

HAD EXCHANGE

Wednesday's debate, running more than five hours longer than usual for Wednesdays, featured a sharp exchange between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker.

The Conservative chieftain said the minority government had its back to the wall and had no alternative but to amend its bill to make it more equitable.

Mr. Pearson shot back that he would not imitate the "chaotic excitability" of the Opposition leader. He accused Mr. Diefenbaker of trying to exploit a grave national emergency in a narrow, partisan way.

He charged that his long-time rival was more interested in ending the government than ending the strike.

Complaints by CPR President Ian Sinclair that the government's plan for ending the strike does not compensate the railways for the increased 1966 wage costs involved were rejected Wednesday by Mr. Pearson.

"I suggest to Mr. Sinclair that he read the bill a little more carefully," Mr. Pearson said in a brisk reply to Thomas A. Bell (PC — Saint John-Albert.)

29,000 on Strike

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia's huge copper-mining industry was virtually at a standstill today as the number of African strikers rose to more than 29,000—about 85 per cent of the labor force.

'Can't Prosecute 118,000 People'

OTTAWA (CP) — A striking railway worker ignoring a government back - to - work order could face a two-year prison term under the Criminal Code.

But sources here said today the difficulties of prosecuting and enforcing the penalties are formidable and the government has apparently not investigated their use.

"You can't prosecute 118,000 people," said a lawyer close to the government.

He suggested that the real weapon in the strike-ending bill now before Parliament is not its punitive elements but its power to moral suasion.

"If the voice of Parliament is considered representative, it must have a very strong persuasive effect."

Section 107 of the Criminal Code says anyone contravening an act of Parliament is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to imprisonment for two years.

Any prosecutions would have to be selective and would take time to prepare and complete.

The government bill orders the companies to resume operation forthwith and the union leaders to withdraw any strike authorization or order.

Experts said one of the most difficult points in any government move would be the legal position of union leaders.

Although these leaders might counsel union members to return to work, if the union members in fact ignored the counsel it might not save the leaders from prosecution.

It also threatened to raise once again the Soviet issue of a "troika" — or three - pronged — directorate which theoretically would represent East, West and neutrals.

There still was a possibility of a movement among security council members to draft Thant for the job, and even a possibility that he might succumb to the pressure being applied by many nations.

(In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said today he hopes it will be possible to convince Thant to remain in his post. He told the Commons that he and Prime Minister Pearson have already urged the secretary-general to carry on.)

However, there seemed a note of finality in Thant's words.

The statement from Thant immediately gave rise to conjecture over possible successors. Many have been mentioned, but it was too early to say whether any one man had anything near an inside chance.

Africans mentioned include Mongi Slim, former assembly president from Tunisia; UN Ambassador Chief S. O. A. Debo from Nigeria and some others. Asians include UN Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, who is the only candidate for the presidency of the General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

Thant, a 57-year-old Burmese Buddhist, was elected secretary-general after the death of Dag Hammarskjold, a Swede, in a plane crash Sept. 17, 1961, in Africa. Thant's five-year term as secretary-general runs out Nov. 3.

Saanich Asked For $19,400

'HE'S A LIAR' CHARGES JOEY

CORNER BROOK (CP) — Premier Smallwood denied flatly today that there have been any secret negotiations between Newfoundland and Quebec over the Labrador boundary.

In a statement issued here he said former Quebec premier Jean Lesage is "an unmitigated liar" if he said such a thing.

The volatile Newfoundland leader, now in the midst of a campaign for the September 8 provincial election, said Churchill Falls "will run through eternity without being developed rather than change one single inch of the Labrador-Quebec boundary".

In Quebec Wednesday Mr. Lesage said he believes it is impossible for Quebec to sign an agreement to buy Churchill Falls power from Newfoundland without first settling the Labrador boundary question to Quebec's satisfaction.

"If Mr. Lesage is correctly quoted, then he is an unmitigated liar," Mr. Smallwood said today. "In all my negotiations with him, over three years in private and in public, I rejected and spurned every demand, request, suggestion he made to change the Labrador boundary by even one inch. I did so in jack-blunt, categorical fashion.

"I made it clear beyond any possibility of misunderstanding that his decision was final and unchangeable. I rejected with equal emphasis all of his crazy demands or proposals in connection with the development of Churchill Falls.

"Mr. Lesage speaks of secret negotiations to change the border. All the negotiations for more than three years were secret and always the answer was the same, namely, that Newfoundland rejected and spurned any demand, request or suggestion to change the boundary by as much as one inch."

ever socialism's been tried it has been rejected.

He showed he hadn't lost his sense of humor by replying to a question on the cost of an election:

"About the same as it is in Saskatchewan."

Speaking in support of Saanich and the Island incumbent John Tisdalle, he eventually abandoned his speech and answered questions from the floor.

BREAK BARRIERS

On Canadian trade, he said: "We must break down the barriers between Canada and the United States and Great Britain.

"This doesn't mean to say we should be dictated by them. It is essential so we can sell in their markets."

He denied there was any such thing as alienation of Canada's natural resources.

With the audience a little more subdued, Mr. Loffmark got on to education.

Asked if he agreed out-of-town students should receive more aid than in-town students, Mr. Loffmark said:

"Certainly. I've supported this idea for the past 30 years.

'TOUGH TIME'

"Out-of-town students have a tougher time than the commuter. I think it's only fair that out-of-town students should be treated differently than the commuter.

"I also think it should be different for female students as they are unable to earn as much in the summer."

Asked if the government would be prepared to endorse a policy for out-of-town students to receive an equalization grant, the minister replied:

Battling high seas, fog and mechanical difficulties, they pulled into Nootka on the west coast Aug. 29, the same date on which Capt. Vancouver met the Spanish explorer Quadra in the same spot.

B.C. TO BE 51st STATE?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Centre, independent candidate Gerard A. Goeujon was loudly booed, hissed and laughed at when he promised to introduce a private members bill, if elected, proposing that B.C. become the 51st state of the United States.

He said he thought his bill would get at least 51 per cent support from MLA's including Trade Minister Loffmark and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

TORY MP BREAKS RANKS ON RAILWAY ISSUE

'I Might Be Called a Judas Iscariot'

OTTAWA (CP) — J. Patrick Nowland (PC—Digby-Annapolis-Kings) broke with the party caucus Wednesday night and told the Commons he will vote for the Liberal government's strike-ending legislation.

The rookie MP, whose father was a Conservative finance minister, said that in a time of national emergency he has found the caucus to be a collar "that chokes judgment and opinion."

Mr. Nowlan said he might be called "a Judas Iscariot" for breaking party ranks on the issue but he felt it had to be done. He had wrestled with his conscience and come to the conclusion that Parliament was more important than caucus.

Division in Parliament on such an issue might sow the seeds of division in the country.

He said "the cynical" had told him not to speak out because the government bill was going to pass anyway.

"In this situation, if ever there was a time to speak from principle, it is this time," he said.

Gesturing behind him to a curtained corridor where a number of Conservative MPs were smoking, Mr. Nowlan said it was time "the courage and strength behind the curtain was transferred to the chamber. We were called here to resolve the strike."

In one breath MPs said Parliament was supreme and in the next they worried whether the bill would work — whether the strikers would return if it became law, he said.

He felt the course Parliament had been following in the last three days was that of making a collective agreement and this was wrong.

NOWLAN

If the bill failed, the government would have failed and would have to resign.

Mr. Nowlan said he believes that in a choice of Parliament or anarchy, responsible union members would feel as he did and choose Parliament.

He hoped they would accept the law and mediate until a settlement with the railways was reached.

"The phantoms" that had confused Parliament — "The Munsingers, the Spencers" and so on — had to be set aside in the national interest and action taken to resolve the strike.

TOO TOUGH FOR PM TO BE TOUGH ENOUGH?

OTTAWA (CP)—In the friendliest way possible, Colin Campbell (NDP—Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands) suggested in the Commons Wednesday that Prime Minister Pearson should have been born out of wedlock.

"A leader has to be capable on occasion of being a bastard and unfortunately the prime minister can't be," the New Democrat MP suggested during debate on the government's bill to end the rail strike.

Canterbury Backs U.S. In Viet Nam Struggle

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Archbishop of Canterbury said Wednesday the necessity for co-existence between Christianity and communism now has become a fact although the two remain incompatible.

"Both recognize that there is one and there is the other and neither is going to be destroyed by violence," Most Rev. michael Ramsey said at a press conference.

"If one of any faith also possesses humanity deeper than any individual ideology, that is the real promise that one day we will find our way to peace."

The archbishop, who arrived here Tuesday night by plane from Montreal, leaves today for Halifax on the second leg of a tour from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

He said the United States has a moral right to be in Viet Nam "and is there with the right motive — withstanding Communist aggression." However, if the struggle continued it would be "no good at all."

The 61 - year - old spiritual leder of 42,000,000 Anglicans throughout the world said it would be completely wrong to acquiesce to independence for Rhodesia unless there is a real safeguard for progress to majority rule and unless there is a settlement for all peoples of Rodesia."

MORALITY IS POSITIVE

Commenting on what has been termed the new morality, Dr. Ramsey said it is important to show that Christian morality is positive and not negative. The impression that religious morality meant negative prohibitions had been given too often in the past.

On the "God is dead" issue, he said the formula is used by different people in different contexts. "It sometimes means only that there's a decline in religion and a greater advance in modern religious secularism."

On the subject of Christian unity, he said there has been a new spirit of friendship and co-operation between Roman Catholics and Anglicans spreading in many parts of the world since the Vatican Council and he was confident he would find many illustrations of this new spirit in Canada. However, there were "places and areas" where the older antagonisms still survived.

Of John Lennon's remark about the Beatles being more popular than Jesus, Dr. Ramsey said: To be more popular than Jesus proves absolutely nothing at all. Jesus Christ didn't come into the world to be judged on popularity. It's an irrelevent issue."

The archbishop conducted a service of witness and thanksgiving before 3,500 persons at the Lady Beaverbrook Rink Wednesday night. The service was also heard on radio.

Sask. Won't Lose Its Entire Payment

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Sharp hinted in the Commons today that Saskatchewan will not lose its entire $35,000,000 share in the new federal formula for equalization payments to the provinces.

But Mr. Sharp said some payments will be lower than under the existing program.

Reports from last month's premiers' conference in Toronto indicated Saskatchewan stood to have its entire $35,000,000 payment wiped out.

Questioned on this point by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, Mr. Sharp said no proposals as such were made to any provinces in the first place.

Federal officials had simply visited provincial capitals to discuss "certain principles."

"Saskatchewan's Premier Ross Thatcher had drawn the inference that there would be no payments to Saskatchewan," said Mr. Sharp, but no such arrangement had ever been intended.

China Leaders Tone Down Activities of Red Guards

PEKING (Reuters) — China's top leaders have told teen-age Red Guards they must become a disciplined, militant army and not use force in their campaign to promote the "great proletarian cultural revolution."

The New China news agency today published a report of the rally, attended by Communist Chairman Mao Tse-tung, from which foreign correspondents were barred.

The main speakers were Defence Minister Lin Piao, again officially described as Mao's "close comrade in arms," and Prime Minister Chou En - lai, who is being given third place behind Mao and Lin in new listings of the party hierarchy.

"The Red Guards must be built into a highly-organized disciplined, militant army," said Chou, "with high political consciousness and become a reliable reserve force of the liberation army."

Lin told the Red Guards to carry out the struggle by reasoning and not by coercion or force.

"Don't hit people," he said.

Observers said Chou's declaration appeared to foreshadow establishment of a permanent organization for the Red Guards, indicating reduced importance for the Communist Youth League.

The league's millions of members, ranging in age from about 12 to 28, might now be siphoned off into the Red Guards, they said.

Lin said the main target of the cultural revolution was "those persons in power who have wormed their way into the party and are taking the capitalist road," but he gave no names.

An editorial in the party's theoretical journal, Red Flag, said the main targets of the cultural revolution were those in authority inside the party taking the capitalist road and "reactionary bourgeois academic authorities."

PM SUPPORTS DISCUSSION

OTTAWA (CP)—A Commons defence committee discussion of the firing of Rear-Admiral William Landymore and subsequent events would be appropriate, Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday.

He made the statement in the Commons in reply to Michael Forrestall (PC—Halifax) who asked whether the government aimed at not referring the armed forces unification dispute to the committee.

Dief Seeks Pledge Of No Force

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker asked assurance from the government today that Canada will not resort to force in the Rhodesian siuation.

Prime Minister Pearson replied in the Commons that the government has already stated its views on this point—an apparent reference to External Affairs Minister Martin's statements deprecating use of force by any country against Rhodesia.

Mr. Pearson said he may make a statement Friday on the stand Canada will take at the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opening in London Sept. 6.

He told NDP Leader Douglas, however, that adoption of a rigid policy beforehand sometimes handicaps discussions.

Former Tory Backs Socreds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ald. Ernie Broome, a former Progressive Conservative MP, says he'll support Social Credit in the Sept. 12 provincial election.

Mr. Broome, defeated in 1962 and an unsuccessful Conservative candidate in the provincial Point Grey riding in 1963, was chairman at a Point Grey Social Credit campaign meeting Tuesday night.

"I'm tired of seeing Vancouver being a pawn in this election," he said. "I think the province is doing the right thing by the city. That's why I'm here tonight."

Let's Get It Clear

THE GUARANTEE OF A WAGE increase of 18 per cent over two years for each individual worker now involved in the railway strike is a fair and reasonable basis on which to return to work. This floor is now an integral part of the government's legislation: the strikers are guaranteed the basic increase and may augment it through the negotiations and possible arbitration to follow.

The purpose of the interim settlement is to get the railways running as quickly as possible, and the union, with its interests now protected, should make immediate arrangements to return to work.

The government is again placed in the invidious position of having been forced into a concession which apparently was intended all the time. As Immigration Minister Marchand told the Commons yesterday, the government recognized a "moral guarantee" that the workers would not get less than an 18 per cent increase—the amount recommended in mediation—but this was not spelled out in the legislation.

Now, under pressure from inside and outside parliament, the government has made this an integral part of the bill. Unfortunately the handling of the legislation has been inept and the administration loses much of the credit it should have been accorded for its proposed settlement. The problem, however, may not be solved even with passage of the bill.

The union leaders up to now have insisted that they will not accept even the 18 per cent level of raises, still less the back-to-work order contained in the legislation or the prospect of compulsory arbitration if the negotiation deadline is exceeded.

It is at this point that the unions will part company with many Canadians, who recognize that parliament must be paramount if Canada is to remain a nation. There can be no mass refusal to obey the law of the country by any segment of the population, not even by trade unions, and yesterday's threat to resort to anarchy in support of union demands should cut the strikers off from public sympathy they may previously have enjoyed.

Standing Room Only

IT IS INTERESTING THAT THE recommendation of the Saanich Sports Centre Committee for a recreation centre in the municipality should include provision for senior citizens' facilities. It is high time that the other municipalities took a serious look at their own programs for elderly residents.

The growth in use of the Silver Threads centre on Centennial Square has been so phenomenal that the facilities there are now taxed beyond capacity. Such a response clearly indicates a need — and the need is not being fully met.

The answer lies in provision of branch accommodation in other parts of Greater Victoria, in order to take some of the pressure off the central building and its limited resources. The branches will not require the use of funds for expensive buildings — there are many halls and other facilities in various neighborhoods which would make suitable gathering places for elderly folk seeking recreation and companionship.

The municipalities should come to grips with the problem as quickly as possible. And the problem itself is further evidence of the need for regional rather than sectional planning for such social amenities.

What Kind of 'Cheap Talk'?

WHEN MR. GAGLARDI called on an audience in the riding of Opposition Leader Robert Strachan to give the administration another seven years and let Cowichan's Social Credit candidate "chirp on the right side of the house and get the things you want," he was asked a categorical question.

If a Social Credit member were returned by the riding, ran the inquiry, would the Cowichan Lake Road be completed in four years?

"That's not the kind of cheap talk you get from me," the minister replied.

Which prompts another question: What other kind of "cheap talk" do you get from a man who advises you to vote Social Credit "and get the things you want"?

Tried Any Algae?

IN THIS REGION INTEREST IN blue-green algae centres on means of its elimination from inland waters and, from a scientific point of view, on the effects of its proliferation on other life within the water.

But, scientists suggest, the Aztec civilization four hundred years ago may have found a means whereby the algae could be used for human food — an important nutritional supplement in certain centres where other edibles were in short supply.

So maybe there's some valuable potential in what we consider a nuisance and a menace to water life. We might eat it.

But what happened to the Aztecs?

Uh Huh

IN HIS RECENT ELECTION speech at Campbell River Mr. Bennett denied that either the home owner grant or the new promise to give certain persons $500 to help them acquire a home is an election gimmick.

And then he is quoted as saying: "As long as I am premier, I'll continue to give more money back to the people and if you don't like it, vote against us."

Which is about par for campaign oratory.

Statesmen and Politicians

An admirable and very commendable note was struck by Mr. J. Patrick Nowlan, the Conservative Member of Parliament who voted with the government in passing yesterday's second reading of the bill. While not in full accord with the bill itself, Mr. Nowlan abandoned politics for statesmanship when he declared that "Parliament is more important than the caucus." He also condemned members absent from the chamber by pointing out that "we were called here to resolve the strike."

Mr. Diefenbaker might well take not of his colleague's sentiments — and Mr. Douglas might too. Certainly the union leaders could emulate Mr. Nowlan's approach with credit to their cause. They should not claim to speak for 118,000 Canadian workers when they threaten publicly to flout the law of the land.

"As long as it doesn't run it may get me there . . ."

FROM OTTAWA — By MAURICE WESTERN

Complexities in the Transport Bill

OTTAWA—It was to be expected that the House would find itself tangled in procedural difficulties when it tackled the railway legislation on Monday afternoon. Parliament finds itself confronted with a problem which admits of no easy solution. The strike legislation and what may be called the MacPherson legislation are intended to complement each other in the sense that the railways are to be set free by the latter to earn greater revenues with which to meet the wage settlement.

Western

There was never any doubt that the opposition would insist upon production of the general legislation in order to appraise the specific measure for restoring railway operations.

It is much simpler however to overcome a procedural difficulty than it is to deal with the problem underlying it. For the bill dealing with transportation reform is extremely complex, certain to require protracted consideration and of such a nature that its probable effects upon railway revenues can only be surmised. It is apparently the view of railway management that the new policies can be tested only in operation. But Parliament must deal with an immediate crisis; it cannot wait until time has revealed the financial implications of all these untested policies.

MacPherson Base

Mr. Pickersgill, in his explanatory statement, notes that the legislation is "based essentially upon the proposal of the MacPherson commission." He does not say that it implements the report. This would be impossible, given the changes of the past five years. But this points up the difficulties. The MacPherson subsidies were carefully calculated on the basis of studies of an actual situation. Now however we are probing in the dark. New and different subsidies are proposed but the economic — and possibly political — reasoning behind them has yet to be revealed.

The MacPherson commission, which had a very clear view of the transportation problem proposed three types of subsidies. By far the greater part of the railway deficit was attributed to uneconomic passenger service. The companies were to receive subsidies, on a steeply diminishing scale while they freed themselves of these burdens over a five-year period. The last payments would have been made in 1965.

Subsidies

Secondly, there were to be subsidies, never exceeding $13 million for branch line rationalization, a longer process which might take up to 15 years. Finally, there was to be payments to the railways to compensate them for the low statutory grain rates. The loss, if any, was to be reviewed after five years.

One has the immediate impressions that the MacPherson proposals have been considerably watered down. There is now to be one transitional subsidy replacing three. It will start at the present level of subsidies, $110 million. These have no relation to the MacPherson subsidies, being mere stop-gap measures. They are higher than the combined subsidies set out in the report. They are not to start declining until 1968 and will then fall off over eight years at the rate of 12½ per cent a year. This seems much less drastic than the MacPherson proposal which, in relation to uneconomic passenger services, foresaw cuts starting at 20 and increasing to 100 per cent.

The report was tough because the commissioners were not trying to make things easy for the railways; they were determined to impose efficiency upon the companies. In contrast the legislation leaves some interesting loopholes. According to the minister's explanation, "provision is made for the new commission to recommend subsidy payments to the railways to cover the losses of either uneconomic branch lines or uneconomic passenger services which the commission may decide should not be abandoned in the public interest at the present time. These special subsidies will be deductable from the transitional subsidies so long as they are smaller than the transitional subsidies."

Could Be Larger

Evidentally this is a back-handed way of saying that they may be larger than the diminishing transitional subsidies. Here one must note a significant difference from the report. Mr. MacPherson and his colleagues would have made the elimination of an uneconomic passenger service dependent simply upon demonstrated loss. Now the commission may decide on continuation in the name of public interest. But since in that event the railways will be able to claim the subsidy, the incentive to fight for the greater efficiency would appear seriously diminished.

It is difficult to escape the suspicion that this particular change owes less to the economic philosophy expounded in the report than to the political clamor of recent months over the proposed elimination of the Dominion.

Some of the changes evident in the 1966 legislation are decided improvements. Where rationalizations can turn previously uneconomic runs into paying services, there is no case for line abandonment. The present bill seems to place much more emphasis upon such remedial actions as the exchange of branch lines and running rights between companies. In this respect the commission may recommend, but where a recommendation is not accepted by one of the companies the commission may also report to the governor-in-council for such action as may be considered in the public interest.

Radical Change

The most radical change however is the creation of a new super-commission to supplant the present Transport Board and other agencies and to preside over all forms of transportation in the federal domain. This idea is quite foreign to the MacPherson report. Whether it will mean in practise the encouragement of competition between different carriers in conformity with the proclaimed objective of an economic and efficient transportation system is highly doubtful.

It might very easily lead to policies insuring the greatest possible comfort to the government's chosen instrument. We have already been advised by one minister that the commission will have "global responsibility among other things for the regulations between various modes of transport of rates, competition . . ."

It is a curious addition to a bill inspired by a report which sought to limit regulations to an unavoidable minimum.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Guaranteed Minimum Income

Ever since the last federal election the Old Age Pension has been a political football, and inflation goes steadily on. It is two years since the raise to $100 was requested, now it is dubious if the $100 would purchase any more than the $75 did when first found so inadequate.

There have been two conferences held, and the inadequacy verified, and recommendations made to the government, at Ottawa, which insists on throwing the ball to the provinces. Meanwhile the aged develop malnutrition and senility.

I would like to suggest the Deficit Pension Plan be tried, as it works so well in England. There, a small income tax form is issued, to be filled by all who do not qualify to pay income tax, the government furnishes the deficit between the person's receipts, or earnings, up to the minimum taxable level. For example a person with no income at all would receive $1,500; if that is the figure set as a minimum base. But if he had income of $1,000, the government would pay $500.

This system eliminates paying those who pay income tax, also the hated means test, and paying an army of workers. Drugs are free save for a small fee.

The prime minister has stated he will meet any raise the provinces offer, What has our premier offered?—Phyllis Johnson, Milne's Landing.

Aging Government

On September 12, a provincial election has been forced on us by a one-man government, which now holds a large majority of seats in the house, so he can put all these last minute election bribes into force. Why couldn't he have done these things instead of putting the province to the enormous expense of an election?

I hope the voters will take note of this, and will not re-elect this weak 14-year-old government where only one man runs the country.

In our legislature we have many members of calibre like Ray Perrault, Alan MacFarlane, Dr. McGeer, H. McKay, or men like R. Strachan, Dave Barrett, Frank Calder, A. Macdonald, and other new candidates just nominated like David Elrix. They could form a government far superior to what we have now.—A Voter.

NOTHING TO IT

About a year ago, I was lunching with an old friend. Over coffee, we congratulated ourselves on having given up smoking, and we went on to tell each other how easy it had been and how smoothly we had drifted into the blissful, un-enslaved state of the non-smoker. We agreed that we had achieved this without any hangover of nervous disability and we smiled upon each other in mutual self-satisfaction. It was only then that I realized that, while we were talking, my friend was steadily eating his way into the earpiece of his spectacles and that I was endlessly fitting and most carefully refitting the cap of my fountain pen to the barrel.

TRAVEL IN SPAIN — By JAMES H. GRAY

Cheerful Laughter Amid Poverty

IF there is one quality which all tourists develop, it is the urge to advise other tourists where to go and what to see. Without exception, our friends who had been to Europe told us:

Gray

"Stay out of France where the people are unpleasant; and skip Italy, it is a vast slum. But don't miss Spain. You'll love Spain! It's the most picturesque and delightful country in Europe!"

This is a minority report on Spain—the nothing country of the western world. It is picturesque, for those who find the most grinding poverty picturesque; delightful if a population living in squalor excites delight; entrancing if the greatest gulf between rich and poor since Biblican days is entrancing.

But there is something worse. Spain shatters our universally held western illusion that there is an essential relationship between freedom, justice and prosperity on the one hand and contentment on the other. The people of Spain know nothing of freedom, justice or prosperity, and they are the happiest people we saw in a tour of six countries.

The glitter of Spain is everywhere apparent to tourists who come in from the northwest through San Sebastion. Franco's summer capital is a wonderland of luxury apartments along a beach that extends to infinity. The streets are jammed with expensive cars, beautiful women and handsome men. The children by the thousands have a polished, well-cared-for and well-fed look. There is laughter and gaiety everywhere.

Far Back in Past

Turn the corner, on the road south of San Sebastion and you are back to the dawn of history. Between the unbelievably mean and miserable villages are strung out the farms of the peasants. In Spain, only the great landowners live on their farms. The peasants huddle together in villages and commute to their fields on burros, often a good ten miles away. To work their fields they have a two or three-hour journey at dawn, climaxed by the same trip home at dark.

The fields, over most of northern Spain, are worked today as they were worked 2,000 years ago. A peasant woman guides the oxen while her husband handles the plow. Cultivation is with a hoe, and often a short handled hoe. Harvesting is done with scythes or sickles.

On the grain patches, the wheat is garnered into sheaves, bound by hand and carried to a central spot. It is thrashed by a burro treading the layered sheaves to trample the kernels of grain from the straw. Then the wheat is swept into piles and loaded into sacks which the burros carry to the local millers.

Slowly, Slowly

That is Spain, where everything is done the hard way, by stoop labor, by back labor, by hand labor. And it is done slowly, whether the work consists of examining a passport, mixing mortar or doing the family wash in a muddy creek. Building construction, meal service, and business transactions all proceed at a common pace — dead slow. Only the taxi drivers of Madrid develop a mania for speed that borders on the homicidal.

It is true, of course, that the huge grain farms and rice paddies of southern Spain have been mechanized. But none of the advantages of mechanization rub off on the workers or peasants. The peasant villages of the south are in no way different from the peasant villages of the north.

Along the coast from Gibraltar to Barcelona there is a succession of huge apartment developments financed mainly by Swiss, German and English money. The workers on these projects are hauled out in ancient trucks to a daylight to dark working day.

Sweat-Shops

In the cities hours of labor are completely unregulated. Women in a sweat-shop shirt plant in Madrid were still at their sewing machines when we strolled by their window at midnight.

There are no trade unions in Spain for trades unionism is as anathema to the Franco regime as Protestant Christianity. Both are unlawful. Strikes for higher wages or better working conditions are, therefore, impossible.

Three Spanish workers who attended a workers congress in Holland last year were arrested on their return and were recently sent to jail for four months.

The point of these sentences is not that simple freedom is so suppressed in Spain. It is that The Times of London correspondent interpreted them as indicating a "liberalization" of the Franco regime. The prosecution had demanded sentences of three years in prison.

Pleasant and Courteous

Yet, living and dying without ever knowing the meaning of political freedom or social justice, seemingly leaves the Spanish people unmarked. After the surliness we encountered in southern France, the pleasantness and unfailing courtesy of the Spaniards was indeed a delight. The people who collected on the village streets at dusk were happy people, obviously happy people. In the cities on their evening promenade the conversations of the strollers was laced with laughter. Wherever we went the people smiled easily, even pridefully. Certainly when the five-foot Spanish guides talked of their country's history, their mein was of men seven feet tall. And the happiest, pleasantest people we encountered on our tour were the waiters in the hotel in a Barcelona slum.

It was a shattering discovery for anyone to whom freedom of conscience has always been an essential to existence. Spain was a frightening experience.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From The Times of Sept. 1, 1906:

Some bad feeling among Oak Bay sportsmen and gun owners has been caused by a recent ruling by Oak Bay council that "no person shall without the permission of the reeve of the municipality discharge any cannon, gun, rifle, revolver, fowling piece or any firearm within the limits of the municipality."

Many dissenters feel that with so much open country in the area there is no reason for such a stringent law. But, on questioning, council members said they felt hunters could do their shooting in the Saanich area.

Next Race Riot: Any Place, Anytime

30 to 40 Cities Face Possibility of Bloodshed

By JOYCE EGGINTON

NEW YORK — Between 30 and 40 cities in the United States face the possibility of race riots, with bloodshed, looting and murder. The riots could break out in any of the cities at any time with virtually no way of predicting them.

This is the informed opinion of U.S. Attorney-General Nicholas Katzenbach, who is careful not to name the cities. But he says that they all hold for Negroes the same frustrations, the same problems and the same tensions — and this is true of every metropolis in the United States.

Several things have happened to the Negro revolution under Lyndon Johnson's presidency. It has been given heart by the most liberal legislation this country has known since Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves. It has moved from the slow, rural atmosphere of the Deep South to the angry, overcrowded ghettoes of the North. It has forsaken its hymn-singing, turn-the-other-cheek philosophy in favor of demands for "black power." It has uncovered deep-seated prejudices in white men who used to boast of tolerance. It has become divided within itself on the means of attaining equality. Irrevocably, it has grown impatient.

Barely Affected Northern Negroes

Much of this would have happened with or without the president's civil rights legislation. Some of the new laws — like the ones which enforce voter registration, school integration and the rights of Negroes to service in hotels and restaurants — have eased the tensions in Southern states and brought a degree of appeasement there. But the same laws have barely affected the situation of Negroes in the North, which is infinitely more complicated and explosive. In many ways they have merely pointed up the impossibility of meeting the Negroes' demands by legislation alone.

Already there is enough legislation on the books to give American Negroes most of the rights they demand. In theory they should have equal education, equal job opportunities, freedom to live where they choose, economic and political power in direct relation to their number — which is about 19 millions, or one American in 10. In fact, the majority remain in substandard houses, their children in inferior schools, their half-educated teen-agers ill-equipped for the competitive labor market.

Direct Threat To Their Jobs

Recent efforts in the North to transfer masses of Negro children from poor "black" schools to middle-class white ones, and to move a few selected Negro families into middle-class white suburbs have produced a violent white reaction. This has been most marked among working-class whites, who see the constant arrival of unemployed Negroes — displaced by farm automation in the South — as a direct threat to their jobs.

This summer, in a mixed section of New York's Brooklyn, there was a three-way street battle between the old-established Italian immigrants, the more recently-arrived Puerto Ricans and the incoming Negroes.

Embittered whites in the neighborhood formed an organization called SPONGE — the Society for Prevention of Negroes Getting Everything. In Chicago, the most riot-torn city of 1966, the most violent white racists have been Americans of Slavic, Lithuanian, Polish and Irish descent, viciously protecting their suburban homes from Negro encroachment. Typical of their comments about Negroes was this from a Lithuanian-born woman who came to the United States after the Second World War: "So maybe they gotta live somewhere. But why here? Why with us?"

KING
. . . 'hatred already existed'

"We have revealed that in Chicago there is a blatant, social, hate-filled cancer," said Dr. Martin Luther King, leader of the recent civil rights demonstrations there. "Our civil rights efforts have not aroused hatred. They have brought out a hatred that already existed."

Southern whites are understandably smug about this turn of events. Through the racial violence of Little Rock, Arkansas; Birmingham, Alabama; New Orleans, Louisiana; Jackson, Mississippi, and the rest, they ignored the pious indignation of Northern whites, shrugged their shoulders, and muttered: "Wait until it's your turn."

Looking back, the campaign in the South was the easiest part of the Negro revolution. Inequalities there were so blatant that firm legislation was able to cure some of them overnight, opening up jobs, restaurants and hotels to Negroes, and entitling them to vote. Northern Negroes have long had these rights, but they live in worse squalor, surrounded by an atmosphere of despair and indifference unequalled in the South. Most of them have never known the benevolent paternalism of the Southern white landowner who "will always care for his niggers so long as they don't get uppity."

The revolution has moved North not only because this was the time and place for it to expand, but also because this is where so many of the Negroes have moved. Their steady trek from the southern farmlands, which could no longer employ them, to Northern cities, where they have swelled the ranks of the unskilled and unemployable, is comparable with the migration of West Indians to Britain after the war. The British government was able to control the influx when it became uncomfortable. America's northern cities are not. Their ghetto tenements have become jammed to overflowing, their welfare relief rolls hugely costly; their unemployment and crime rates have soared. Their Negroes have also become bitterly angry about the apparent failure of anyone to ease their lot.

This is why the "black power" movement has gathered strength. Although the phrase was first used as a rallying cry during the "Meredith march" through Mississippi in June, the new militant policy was carefully planned during the previous winter by dissident members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee — one of the youngest, smallest and most active of the civil rights organizations.

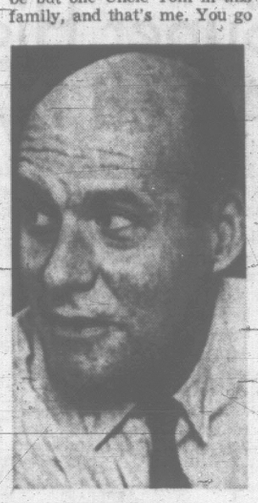
Previously SNCC had been an exponent of the non-violent, passive resistance policy which Dr. King used to set the Negro revolution rolling 11 years ago. Indeed, it was Dr. King who gave funds and blessing to SNCC when it was formed in 1960 by Negro and white college students, pledged to work together in the cause of integration.

Older Leaders Overthrown

This May, however, the dissidents succeeded in overthrowing the old leadership and electing as SNCC's new chairman Stokeley Carmichael, a 25-year-old Negro, who made it plain that he no longer welcomed whites to his movement, or a total dedication to non-violence as its policy.

Carmichael, who says he has never met a white man he can trust, was born in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, and brought to this country by his parents when he was 11. He came from a well integrated, multi-racial society where most of the teachers, police, civil servants and shopkeepers are Negro; where there are rich Negroes as well as wealthy whites. The poverty and discrimination against Negroes in American made him hate his color for a while, and then become militantly proud of it.

Today he is more responsible than anyone for substituting the word "black" for "colored" in the revolutionary lexicon. Carmichael, who holds a degree in philosophy (from a Negro university) is inspiring many educated young enthusiasts of his race, as well as the militant extremists who have been searching for a saviour since the assassination of Malcolm X. He has a dynamic personality, and is likely to increase in power and influence.



KATZENBACH
. . . doesn't say where

Another civil rights leader who has changed his organization's policy in line with the "black power" slogan, is Floyd McKissick of the Congress of Racial Equality. McKissick's anti-white attitude was also shaped by his background. He recalls that his father, a hotel porter in the South, hated living on white people's tips, and used to tell his son: "There isn't going to be but one Uncle Tom in this family, and that's me. You go out and get yourself an education so you don't become no Tom." An "Uncle Tom" is a derogatory description for a Negro who plays up to whites to further his own position.

Both SNCC and CORE have suffered heavy financial losses from their new policy which has lost them the support of liberal whites, but they are determined to pursue it.

Fortunately for the internal peace of America there is at the other extreme Dr. King, the Nobel prize winner, who still ranks as the most popular and compelling of the Negro leaders. The son of a Baptist minister, he came from the obscurity of a small Negro Baptist church in Montgomery, Alabama 11 years ago to lead his people in a successful boycott of a local bus company which discriminated against Negro passengers. This was the first milestone in the Negro revolution; the rest has grown from that.

Dr. King is opposed to "black power" because he believes in true integration, but he also believes that Negroes must be allowed to take their place as political leaders and to have immediate equality in education, housing and employment. His current drive in Chicago is directed against the unwritten policy of excluding Negroes from the better suburban neighborhoods. He is a man of total fearlessness and immense authority, but as he says: "I am trying desperately to keep the movement non-violent, but I cannot do it alone."

Whites Helped To Form Them

King, Carmichael and McKissick are the most prominent of the shirt-sleeve Negro organizers.

Then there are the more conservative "white collar" ones, most notable Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and Whitney Young of the Urban League. Both their organizations were pioneers, formed with the help of influential whites more than 50 years ago, with the NAACP still ranking as the largest and most important civil rights group in the country. Both have dissociated themselves from the "black power" campaign. Both are regarded by the young Negro militants as stuffy, middle-class and out of line — an understandable but unfair judgment considering the NAACP's many successful battles for Negro justice, long before CORE and SNCC were dreamed up.

Civil rights advances under Johnson have benefitted the minority more than the masses. The president has made several outstanding Negro appointments and for the first time there is a Negro in the cabinet and a Negro member of the Federal Reserve Board. This policy extends through many levels of government, and is spreading across the nation.

There has been an increase of more than 50 per cent in the Negro vote in the South — still not enough to sway national elections, but sufficient in a few areas to give Negroes a voice in local politics. In Alabama recently a Negro won the Democratic Party's nomination to be a county sheriff; and in Atlanta, Georgia, Senator Herman Talmadge — a conservative Georgia politician who comes from a political family of arch-segregationists — felt it worth his while to address a Negro luncheon club. Such things would have been undreamed of, even a year or two ago.

Grows Worse For Poor Negroes

In the meantime, the situation for poor Negroes, particularly in the Northern ghettoes, grows worse. They are statistics rather than individuals. Some 44 per cent of them are crowded into slums, compared with 13 per cent of whites. Their infant mortality rate is twice as high as for whites. Half of America's unemployed teen-agers are Negro, although they represent only 15 per cent of the population in this age group.

This is the crisis in the cities which has become America's most serious domestic problem. Much of it can be overcome only by the white power structure which governs these cities and which cannot do the job without federal help. Lacking a sufficiency of this help, the local authorities have acted clumsily, inadequately or not at all. Far from improving matters, some of the actions have backfired to encourage further riots. In Chicago, Dr. King pleaded with the mayor for some minor concessions to Negroes which were refused, but when riots broke out later that week, the mayor hastily reversed his decision. This quickly gave Negroes the message that the best way to get what they want is by violence.

It was the same in the Watts section of Los Angeles, where 35 people were killed and 4,000 arrested in the race riots of 1965.

Hopeful Promises By Johnson

On a national level, President Johnson has declared himself concerned about the situation and has made a number of hopeful promises to improve slum housing and provide job opportunities. But as time has gone on his attention has become increasingly diverted away from the war on poverty to the war in Viet Nam. Perhaps, too, because he is a country boy, he has failed to identify himself with the problems of the cities, and may well have failed to understand them. After some of the worst of the Chicago riots he brusquely reminded Negroes that they constitute only 10 per cent of the American population, and spoke of "giving" them justice and equality, as though these rights were to be rewards for good behavior.

There is no longer any question of giving or waiting. There is no longer much hope of a Negro revolution without bloodshed. Black power will not permit itself to be rejected — and whether the new order is brought about without national disruption is as unpredictable as the place where the next race riot will break out.

Fish Poisons May Provide New Drugs

LONDON — The poison secreted by fish and other marine animals may one day provide man with a new range of drugs.

According to an Australian scientist, Dr. Robert Endean, experiments have shown that chemicals produced by some shell fish may be a means of making paralyzed muscles contract, and that the poisons made by "sea cucumbers" can cause tumors in mice to dwindle.

Writing in the "Science Journal," Dr. Endean claims that the doorway to a vast under-water storehouse of new therapeutic drugs "is now ajar." He says that many of today's drugs, such as morphine, astrophine, and curare, were developed from chemicals made naturally by plants.

Among fish which Dr. Endean and his team are screening are certain species of mullet and "goat fish" which produce chemicals giving rise to nightmares and hallucinations when consumed by man.

The "red beard sponge" has been found to produce a useful antibiotic.

Indecision, Drift In Argentina

By JOHN GOSHKO

BUENOS AIRES — After two months in power, Argentina's military masters have learned that it's much easier to stage a coup than to operate a government.

For the regime of President Juan Carlos Ongania, which had promised a "revolution," of bold and far-reaching impact, has thus far been characterized mainly by indecision and drift.

In the economic area, which the regime has singled out as most in need of immediate attention, it has yet to come up with anything that could be called a policy. And while it gropes for direction, its temporizing measures increasingly bear an embarrassing resemblance to those advocated by Arturo Illia, the civilian president who was ousted by the military for alleged incompetence.

Beyond the economic sphere, the government's principal actions to date — its brutal crackdown on Argentina's universities and its comstockian drive to improve public morals — have made it appear alternately sinister and ridiculous before the outside world.

While such acts tend to solidify the image of an inherently authoritarian regime attempting to achieve its aims through fiat and force, most Argentines do not seem to share the outside suspicion that their country is roaring down the road to Fascism. The prevailing attitude here appears to be that the regime's strongarm tactics are less the product of ideology than of sheer ineptitude and frustration.

This cynical verdict stands in marked contrast to the high hopes and expectations that swept the Argentine populace in the wake of Ongania's ascension to power. In the short time since, the regime, with almost systematic thoroughness, has managed to disillusion virtually every major group in the country.

The intellectual community has been completely demoralized and disaffected by the attack on universities, the liberal elements within the Catholic Church, wary of the regime's efforts to cloak itself in a mantle of piety and Christian morality, have mounted a determined campaign to keep the two forces from embracing, and the ubiquitous man in the street who formerly sneered at the plodding Illia as "the turtle" now has taken to calling Ongania, a former army commander, "the armored turtle."

This sense of discomfiture extends also to the two groups which in their different ways were the main catalytic agents behind the June 28 coup: The labor movement-based followers of exiled dictator Juan D. Peron and the nation's big business interests.

The business leaders, who were the most active force agitating for the coup, originally seemed certain that the revolution would follow the course they had plotted. Inflation would be checked by firm, business-oriented measures that would "hurt a bit" but ultimately benefit everyone, labor would be deterred from its past ability to gain high wage increases without corresponding gains in productivity.

Until now, however, it hasn't worked out that way.

Prospect: The Postal Strike All Over Again But Magnified

By DOUGLAS FISHER

Parliament can order the rail unions to rescind what they call their withdrawal from the service, but it cannot order the men to obey their unions' directive to return to work.

Fisher

If an act of Parliament is defied by the union membership against the advice and instructions of the union leadership, Parliament will have shot its bolt. If this should occur government will be left to mediate from a position of weakness with no weapon in reserve and with no certainty that the workers' organizations speak for the strikers.

It would be the postal strike of 1965 over again, but greatly magnified.

William J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, has already abdicated union leadership. He has said that the locals of his unions will decide whether or not an act of Parliament is to be obeyed.

At the same time Mr. Smith tried to discourage the mediation which is now taking place. He wanted a strike and with it the inevitable compulsion. It will be recalled that the CBRT officers surrendered to rank-and-file demands and illegally conducted their strike vote before their conciliation board was even established.

★ ★ ★

As the CBRT has no strike fund there is no weapon there to be used, even if there was a leadership disposed to use it.

Stronger and more responsible leadership can be expected from the other unions, but membership defiance of an act of Parliament would create a very different problem for them.

Railway workers must be perplexed by what they are reading these days in the press and hearing on TV. Everyone is welcoming the proposed legislation which will allow the railways to raise their rates. This is not inflationary.

But railworkers cannot be paid the same as workers in outside industry. That would be inflationary and even disastrous.

To judge by the public media it is right and proper that the CPR and the CNR should pay the going prices for their diesels, their oil, their electricity and supplies, but when it comes to labor they should get it at cut rates.

What is the rationale of this double standard? In recession times we can't afford to pay rail workers just wages, and in prosperous times it would cause inflation. There is the real blueprint for a stagnant and declining economy.

The other contentious issue centres on the Freedman report recommendations. This has become a confrontation between government and unions, and not unions and management. The government has a choice of paths.

It could issue a memorandum of formal assurance that the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act will be amended to permit unions to open a contract for negotiation when it is established that a proposed technological change would materially affect working conditions.

Or the government could produce a special bill embodying the Freedman recommendations and applicable only to the railway industry. This could be a first step toward a special statute for railway industrial relations which Devid Lewis, MP for York South, has advocated.

If the government should foolishly put to arbitration this matter on which the parliamentary committee, a royal commission and a unanimous conciliation board have all made paralleled findings, it will sow more long term unrest than with compulsory arbitration itself.

It is doubtful if Parliament would agree to send this matter to arbitration along with wage and fringe issues. It certainly would excite a prolonged debate. And ommission of all reference to it as in the Prime Minister's TV address would be pounced on by opposition parties.

THE GALLUP POLL

Stricter Law Enforcement Wanted Against Motorists

The public is showing itself receptive to various ways of reducing the death toll on our highways.

As revealed recently by the Gallup Poll, Canadians blame the human element for accidents, more than faulty or high-powered cars.

In the present survey, all persons were asked what should be done to reduce the number and severity of automobile accidents. And again, the public indicates this problem, of increasing car accidents, must be solved through stiffer penalties against the drivers.

Chief among the answers given are:

1—stricter law enforcement and stiffer penalties	27%
2—better driver education and stricter examinations	17
3—increase safety features, cut down power of cars	7
4—raise minimum age for licences	7
5—reduce speeds	6
6—periodic re-testing of drivers	4
7—more careful driving, stop drinking and driving	4
8—other	12
9—no opinion	19

REBELS TO MARCH IF HOUSING ISN'T IMPROVED

Indians Serve Ultimatum on Slums

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — A rebel committee of Cowichan Indians has stirred up resentment against the squalid housing conditions on the reserve.

The rebels have given the band council a two months' ultimatum to get action from the federal authorities.

If no action is taken, Abraham Joe will lead a protest march on the Indian Affairs office in Vancouver.

"We will carry our fight to Ottawa if necessary," he said Wednesday.

The rebels drew 250 adults from the reserve to a protest meeting which condemned the "sub-standard, overcrowded and inadequate housing."

Mr. Joe said the federal "crash" program of $112 million to be spent in five years is going to give Cowichan reserve two new houses this year.

"We need 40 right now," he said.

A guided tour of the reserve slums Wednesday afternoon was a shocker.

Extreme poverty was seen in two broken down sheds which serve as home for 11 people.

Mrs. Emile Jim said: "Four of the children sleep in one bed, the rest lie on the floor."

●

There is no water, heat or power.

Nearest water is an outside standpipe.

And these so-called homes are only a stone's throw from the $20,000 residences in the white people's Quamichan Heights subdivision.

Mr. Joe said the Indians on the reserve sleep an average of 3.8 persons to a bedroom.

Only 11 per cent of the homes have any water supply.

Few even have toilets, sinks, or kitchens.

"I am prepared to fight. I'm sick and tired of living among these conditions."

●

Mr. Joe said he has been waiting 11 years for a new home.

Indians are not allowed by law to borrow money to build a house on the reserve.

None of the Indians I spoke to would admit that here perhaps lies the root of the trouble.

Indians will borrow from the loan sharks to buy a new car, but they won't borrow to build a house off the reserve.

ABRAHAM JOE

Mr. Joe believes reserve conditions can be improved if the Indians apply unified pressure.

In the past individual approaches to the authorities have simply been brushed aside, he said.

●

The Cowichan reserve has a maximum of 175 homes which house a population of 1,348 men, women and children.

That's nearly eight people to a home, and a majority of these houses have one bedroom.

Fortunately there is another side to the coin.

Mrs. George Daniels showed what an industrious Indian can do with a new home.

Mrs. Daniels takes a real pride in keeping it clean. It's a house any housewife would be happy to have.

It's an example of what life could be like for all reserve Indians.

1881 Coach On Move Despite Strike

DUNCAN — Despite the national strike at least one railroad coach was on the move Wednesday.

An 1881 parlour car was trucked down the Trans-Canada Highway to become a permanent feature of the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum.

When retired from active service she became the summer home of J. M. Cameron, E. & N. Superintendent.

It became a landmark at Shawnigan Lake.

They decided to donate the car to the B.C. Railway Historical Society in Victoria.

The society had nowhere to put it and gave the car to the museum.

Gerry Wellburn, Museum managing-director, said: "We will have to do quite a bit of restoration work on the car, but the original armchair furnishings are good order."

Sooke Fair On Sept. 10

Artists from East Sooke to Port Renfrew will display their paintings when the Sooke Community Association holds its annual fall fair on Sept. 10.

Prior to the opening, at 2 p.m. by W. L. Johnson, secretary of the B.C. Fairs' Association, said there will be a parade from the Fire Hall to Gibson's Shopping Center starting at 12.15 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded to the boys and girls with well-decorated vehicles, horses and riders.

A trophy will be given to the exhibitor with the greatest number of points in the fruit and vegetable classes.

Super Highway Asked by Socred

PORT ALBERNI—A super highway to northern Vancouver Island was suggested here Wednesday by Social Credit candidate Dr. Howie McDairmid.

He also said it is time the provincial government approached communication between the Island and mainland with a "long-term" outlook.

"There have been ferry delays all summer," he said. "It is obvious we need another system to the Island."

Dr. McDairmid said a system of freight ferries would take some of the load off the present system.

Another item on his list of Island needs was construction of a tunnel from the mainland to the Gulf Islands.

"HARDLY SCRATCHED"

"Vancouver Island has hardly been scratched. We need better roads and communication links. We need a super highway to the north of the island."

"We need roads and there is no use fooling around with ferries that will have to be replaced."

Dr. McDiarmid said if the government refuses to build a tunnel, the ferry authority should build special freight boats.

He said the Island is the second most populated area in B.C. and accounts for almost 35.2 per cent of the provincial forestry labor force, 58 per cent of the B.C. pulp capacity, 38 per cent of the log cut and 19 per cent of the lumber production.

Tidal Wave Warning System Due at Tofino

A tidal wave warning system will be installed on the west coast of Vancouver Island at Tofino next week.

It will form part of a nine-nation system to warn of "sea-quakes" or tsunamiis similar to that which occurred following the Alaska earthquake.

Installation of the water-level reporting station will be directed by Gerry C. Dohler, a tides expert with the federal department of mines and technical surveys.

Hawaii is the centre of the warning system which extends from Kodiak, Alaska, to Tokyo, Tahiti and La Punta, Chile.

BY SOCRED MLAs

'Local Problems Ignored'

Victoria Liberal candidate Frank Preston Wednesday attacked the silence of local Socred MLAs while problems sprang up in municipal government, university education, labor and hospitals here.

"In this region, we have watched our taxes rise and rise," he said. "Foolish men sit in the legislature cheering the premier as the municipal situation becomes intolerable."

He said the government plans to let the lack of hopital beds in this area become so acute that municipalities will be forced to build them instead of the province.

"Why didn't our Socred representatives point out to their government the serious need for hospital space? They obviously are out of touch with the people and they don't care," said Mr. Preston.

He said the seeds of the lock-out of carpenters and threatened ferry officers walk-out were planted long before the current election campaign.

"Why didn't our local representatives press for solution of these acute problems."

Greater Victoria backbenchers have failed to push the government to meet university students' requests for wider opportunity for all to go to college and have not prevented the government from refusing to support the school boards' Adult Studies Institute, he said.

Mr. Preston severly criticized Education and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson for failing to improve training and retraining programs for workers.

"The employment and labor picture is troubled . . . because this pallid minister runs both departments with 19th-century thinking," he charged.

New Democratic Party candidates in Victoria riding made their pitch to pensioners at a coffee party Wednesday.

Rev. Harold Allen told the group that the first CCF leader, J. S. Woodsworth, had been responsible for introducing old-age pensions in Canada and the NDP would raise the benefits if elected to power.

RENTAL HIKES

"And measures will be taken to see that increases are not eaten up by rental hikes as they have in the past," he said.

His running mate, Mrs. Dorcas Blair, said the NDP promise of establishing a prices review board to examine all increases in price of goods and services would help pensioners particularly during an inflationary period.

"Comprehensive, all-inclusive medicare including prescription drugs would be assured in B.C. by next summer," she said.

"And so would be a chronic care policy integrated with BCHIS. If surpluses can pay nearly $50 million in one year for the ferry system, it can equally well pay for taking over chronic care," she said.

Voters were urged by Esquimalt Liberal candidate David Elrix to look beyond the immediate present and elect a government ready to deal with current and future problems.

PREMIER AGEING

"The premier is 66 years old and the province will last much longer than his lifetime," he told a meeting in Langford Wednesday.

He said there was no justification for re-election of Socred incumbent Herbert Bruch because "he has been going along meekly with another man's ideas without any personal contribution on behalf of his constituents."

Edwin Haw, NDP candidate in Saanich and The Islands, told a Sidney audience Wednesday that virtual abdication of the Progressive Conservative party from the election contest is "ample proof" that big business has switched its financial support to the Socreds.

"We must have a change to a government whose policy is to legislate in the interest of the people, not corporate power," he said.

"A New Democratic government would rescind the Tory-type legislation now on the statute books and enact legislation that would help working people, farmers and those citizens who are on fixed incomes to enjoy a larger share of our provincial wealth at the expense, of course, of big business interests."

Lake Hike Planned

The intermediate branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at Douglas and Hillside for a trip to Langford Lake.

FISHERMAN DISAPPEARS

Missing is Edward Schroeder, 53.

Police said today Schroeder's 42-foot commercial troller, with life-saving equipment and a skiff intact, and a partial load of fish, had been anchored in Shelter Inlet.

Fugitive Now in Skirts?

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard had a new theory to ponder this week in the massive search for Harry Roberts, he may be going about dressed as a woman.

The 30-year-old former convict wanted for questioning in the murder of three London policemen, has been hunted by thousands of police for the last 21 days.

The theory that he may be disguised in women's clothes was put to the yard by a former friend, Diane Alexander. In an interview with police she claimed to have seen Roberts last Saturday night near her home in suburban Hornsey.

"We came face to face and recognized each other," said Miss Alexander, 40. "I was petrified. He turned and ran."

Back at her apartment, she related, "I found someone had been trying on my clothes. Two skirts and a dress were on the floor and zips were stretched and torn. Some of my clothes were missing."

Miss Alexander also told detectives that before the murder she once saw Roberts standing at a bus stop wearing a blonde wig, black dress, high-heeled shoes and a fur wrap.

Scotland Yard declined comment on her statement. Two men already have appeared on charges of murdering the three policemen.

Manitoba Again Faces Storm Over Marketing

WINNIPEG (CP) — Many unhappy Manitoba vegetable growers are ignoring marketing regulations twice rejected in a referendum.

Some estimates say up to 50 per cent of the 750 growers are defying the law which says they must sell their produce through the Manitoba Vegetable Marketing Commission.

It's a feud of long standing and the storm of controversy was whipped up again this month when commission manager Bill Daman said a crackdown on the errant producers would be sought.

Producers who "insist on breaking a provincial law" could be fined a maximum of $500 or sentenced to three months in jail, he warned.

Rookie Agriculture Minister Harry Enns moved in, announcing formation of a commission of inquiry into operations of the commission. A referendum on the future of the commission was also promised, perhaps within a year.

". . . It is reasonable that they should vote on whether they want this system continued," he said in a direct reversal from the stand taken by now retired agriculture minister George Hutton.

REFERENDUMS CRUX

The question of referendums has been the crux of the dispute since 1958 when the executive of the Vegetable Growers Association asked the provincial government for a marketing agency.

Growers in the $6,500,000-a-year industry rejected the suggestion by a four-per-cent margin in a mail-in referendum. Four years later, the proposal was revived and rejected by 40 votes in another mail-in.

But Mr. Daman says he has evidence there was something rotten in the referendums. Circulars sent to names on the referendum list resulted in an eight-inch-high pile returned because the names were unknown.

Mr. Hutton gave way and explained the reasoning to the Manitoba legislature this spring.

"Tremendous results" achieved by a potato marketing commission was the deciding factor, he told the legislature. He added that a poll of growers controlling 85 per cent of the vegetable acreage indicated 63.5 per cent were in favor of the agency.

COVER STORAGE

The new proposal would cover only storage vegetables while other plans covered the whole vegetable sphere. It would also represent the industry from grower to retailer while the earlier proposals called for a producer marketing board, run only by the growers.

With the new concept, the government went ahead over the protestations of a vocal group of growers and the provincial opposition.

Regulations gave the agency authority to pool and establish grades and to determine when and where to sell and how much to charge.

It can sell or cancel growers' licences, inspect books and premises and search vehicles, set minimum and maximum prices and seize illegally sold goods and keep the proceeds.

Fines for violations are $25 to $500 for an individual, up to $1,000 for corporations. A Brandon grower caught selling to a restaurant was fined $25.

Mr. Enns says most of the growers ignoring the law are small producers but an estimated 100,000 bags of Manitoba's $4,500,000 potato crop is bypassing the commission control.

The vegetable producers association, a group formed to oppose the agency with about 300 members, says small growers are being forced to break the regulations or go out of business.

Austerity Plan Came Too Late

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Cecil Harmsworth King, one of Britain's top newspaper and business executives, says he doesn't think Prime Minister Wilson's austerity moves will solve Britain's financial problems — "They have come too late."

Mr. King, chairman of the labor-supporting Daily Mirror Newspapers Ltd., and chairman of the Reed Paper Group, was here for Saturday's opening of a new $84,000,000 Prince George pulp and paper mill in which the Reed group has joint ownership.

In an interview this week he said he did not think the new British austerity program would get support from labor.

"The trouble with labor," he said, "is that the worker wants more money but is not prepared to justify a boost in wages with increased productivity."

He made it clear that while he supports Labor policy he doesn't think much of Prime Minister Wilson.

BEEF PRICES MAY DROP

CALGARY (CP) — Wholesale beef prices in western Canada may drop by about 5 per cent in the next few days, as a result of the rail strike, A. J. E. Child, president of Burns Foods Ltd., said in Calgary Wednesday.

He said this could mean lower retail prices. While prices may decline here, a sharp increase is expected in eastern Canada — possibly as high as 10 per cent in the Montreal area.

Burns has reduced beef production at its five Prairie plants by about 30 per cent, he said.

Burns has reduced beef production because the company could not take delivery of cattle because there was no way of shipping the beef out.

Farmers are being asked to hold back their cattle while the strike is on.

He said lack of refrigerated trucks is preventing deliveries to the east, causing a shortage in that part of the country, and a surplus here.

Pilot Plant Opens

EDMONTON (CP) — A multi-purpose pilot plant and laboratory built at a cost of $1,505,078 for the Alberta Research Council, was opened Wednesday by Premier Manning in suburban Clover Bar. Among the activities planned for the facility are metallurgy, chemical processing, fertilizer examination and petro-chemical research.

Growers Want Disaster Insurance

KELOWNA (CP) — Okanagan Valley fruit growers, recovering from frosts which virtually wiped out the 1965 soft fruit crop, hope to be better prepared for any future disaster.

The B.C. Fruit Growers Association now is dickering with the provincial and federal governments to set up a disaster insurance plan, similar to those offered in other fields of agriculture.

Government aid — to a maximum $4,000 an orchard and $2.50 for each tree killed — was whipped up after the frosts in December, 1964, but the association said it was "an assist, not compensation."

Meanwhile, fine weather left prospects rosy in the valley, although growers said so many trees — an estimated 200,000 — were killed or damaged that the 1964 bumper crop would not be equalled.

Still, said BCFGA president Allan Claridge: "We'll have an adequate supply this year." Last year, there were no commercial peach sales, apricot shipments totalled only five 14-pound boxes.

Growers suffered an estimated $10,000,000 loss last year. But early estimates of this year's crop put its value at $22,000,000 to $30,000,000 before deduction of packing and handling costs.

"We've made a splendid recovery," said W. J. Green, spokesman for B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., marketing body for the 3,300 growers. "But some individual growers were very badly hit."

They were hit again by heavy rain over the July 1 weekend, which damaged about 35 per cent of the cherry crop. But it still totalled 6,800,000 pounds compared with 1,000,000 last year and 12,000,000 in 1964.

Growers were happier with the peach crop: an estimated 900,000 17-pound cases, nowhere close to the 1,750,000 cases of 1964, but better than having to sell a few from the crate at the roadside as last year.

"Last year was worse than any other past frost," said Mr. Green. "So many trees were damaged . . . but it would have been worse without the growers' tree-planting program; there are quite a few new trees."

Walked Off Jobs

MONTREAL (UPI) — The General Motors assembly plant at Ste. Therese, located on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River near Montreal, shut down Thursday as 450 hourly wage earners walked off their jobs. The walkout followed a July strike vote.

The plant re-opened in August following a month-long shutdown for retooling in July. At the time of the walkout the shift was still not up to full strength.

Applies for Change

CALGARY (CP) — Mobil Oil Canada Ltd. Wednesday applied to the Alberta Mines Department for a route change of a southern extension of the Rainbow Lake Pipeline operated by Mobil. The proposed change shortens by 15 miles the distance Rainbow Lake oil will travel to Edmonton pipeline terminals.

Extra $5,700 Required To Keep Square Dazzling

An extra $5,700 will be needed by early next year to keep Centennial Square looking its best.

Victoria parks committee Wednesday gave parks administrator Herbert Warren the task of finding the money out of other parks money votes.

He explained a $411 over expenditure had already occurred and that unexpected factors are likely to bring the total cost of maintaining the square this year to $11,000, or $4,700 more than this year's $6,300 appropriation.

Another $1,000 would likely be needed to make further changes in the planting program to provide more color in the square as the mayor and aldermen have suggested.

WEED PROBLEM

Estimated costs were based on operations during only part of the 1965 season, Mr. Warren said.

The soil used in planted areas was "very weedy," containing morning glory, Canada thistle, horse tail and others, requiring "a lot of work to eradicate them."

Planters are costing more to maintain than anticipated, but reducing the changes from five to two per year will bring this down, he suggested. Spring flowers could be eliminated if necessary.

Spraying trees has cost more due to an early wet season and grass cutting costs are higher, he said.

Mayor A. W. Toone asked what would happen if the extra money is not provided.

Mr. Warren said grass-cutting could be retarded and work on flower tubs reduced, which would be reflected in appearance of the square.

"It would be a mess," Ald. Cecil Parrott said.

"If there is any place in the city we should keep up it is this," said Ald. Hugh Stephen.

RUSSIANS MAKE BID FOR AIRCRAFT SALES

MALMOE, Sweden (Reuters) — The Soviet Union Wednesday launched its first campaign to sell passenger aircraft outside Eastern Europe and Africa when technicians demonstrated the Ilyushin 18-D plane to a Swedish charter company. The 122-seat turbo-propeller aircraft is competing with the American Boeing 727 to replace the company's fleet.

Reds Use U.S. Maps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Information from an undisclosed source in the Commerce Department has sent Rep. Wendell Wyatt, (R-Ore.,) into a fury of rage.

Wyatt said in a telephone call to Portland Wednesday night that he has learned that Soviet fishermen off the West Coast may be using charts supplied by the U.S. Coast Guard and Geodetic Survey.

Wyatt said he was told that licence for export of 2,000 charts to Russia had been granted by the Commerce Department in May of this year and that the charts were sent in July.

He said he would demand a "full and complete accounting from the Johnson administration."

Referring to the battle of Northwest fishermen to remove the Russians from offshore fish resources, Wyatt said: "The government has taken no effective action, and this incredible move is the last straw."

Program Of $$$-For-Marks To Expand

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

HOPE — Details of a promised major expansion plan for the six-year-old "money-for-marks" scholarship program were revealed to an election crowd of 700 here by Premier Bennett Wednesday night.

He said Social Credit would pay 75 per cent, instead of the current 50 per cent, of tuition fees for all students who obtain 80 per cent or better on government examinations.

The scholarship for second-class standing — between 70 and 80 per cent — would be raised to 50 per cent of tuition fees, instead of the current 33 1-3 per cent, and the number would be expanded from 3,500 to 7,000.

Mr. Bennett first announced a re-elected Socred administration would increase the size of the program when he opened his campaign in Campbell River Aug. 18.

COST $800,000

More than $800,000 was forecast as the cost of the government's scholarship and bursary programs last year but exact totals for the past academic year and forecast for the coming one still are not available.

Statistics compiled so far show that 1,441 students last year who wrote the government examinations qualified for first-class grants which averaged $215.

These included 458 who were in University of Victoria, University of B.C., Notre Dame University and 11 who were in the B.C. Institute of Technology. Another 598 Grade 12 and Grade 13 graduates won first-class grants.

AVERAGES $145

A total of 2,456 students qualified for second-class grants which averaged $145 — including 843 high school graduates and 1,987 attending the three universities and institute.

This year, students entering and attending Simon Fraser University and the Vancouver City College, will be able to write the examinations too.

The total number of second-class grants authorized has never been fully taken up because many students do not take the voluntary examinations to establish qualifications — particularly those going to the education field where there is considerable "in service" training.

The money-for-marks program was established in 1959 with 50 per cent tuition fee grants offered all first-class students and one-third grants for the first 2,000 second-class students. It has been amended three times, to raise the second-class limitation total to 2,500, 2,750 and, at last spring's session, 3,500.

Floods Ravage India

CALCUTTA (AP) — Floods sweeping 3,700 square miles of land in North Bihar state in Eastern India have destroyed about $35,000,000 worth of corn crops and damaged 25,000 homes, Irrigation Minister F. A. Ahmed said Wednesday. Newspapers attributed four deaths to the floods.

'Crystal-Set Era Rules Modern Broadcasting'

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian broadcasters face the space age of communications under policies that have not been challengd since the era of the crysal set, a top broadcaster maintains.

Don Jamieson, head of radio and television stations in Newfoundland, saddles Parliament with the major blame for the confusion and controversy that have become commonplace in Canadian broadcasting.

In a new book, The Troubled Air (Brunswick Press), the broadcaster calls for two main steps to clear up the muddle:

1. A re-examination of every aspect of broadcasting with "an honest, objective determination of whether or not it is right for the state to be involved to the present extent, or even at all. . . ."

2. Immediate authorization by Parliament of "whatever sums are necessary" for an impartial study of what broadcasting is doing to Canada and Canadians and how it can be used to create a more enlightened and unified country.

Mr. Jamieson attributes the bulk of private broadcasting shortcomings to a combination of rigid state control, the single-mindedness of advertisers and the struggle to make a living.

Despite his natural stance against strict state control, he makes a strong case for review of the tenets on which broadcasting legislation has been based.

He may soon get a look at the industry from Parliament. He has been picked as Liberal candidate for a Sept. 19 federal byelection in Newfoundland's Burin-Burgeo riding.

NDPer SELLS BOTTLES TO FINANCE CAMPAIGN

DAWSON CREEK (CP) — The New Democratic Party campaign manager in the South Peace River riding says his party is scraping the bottom of the campaign fund barrel.

Cyril Shannon complained Wednesday that, while big business is financing the Social Credit and Liberal campaigns in the Sept. 12 election, his party is almost starving financially.

Mr. Shannon said supporters of NDP candidate Raymond Cowan have tried everything to raise money for a token campaign—including selling beer bottles.

$1,000 Bill For Sea-Going Hit-Run Crash

That's how much city engineer James Garnett estimates it will cost to replace an eight-pile dolphin protecting the northeast pier.

ALL INNOCENT

Mr. Garnett told public works committee Wednesday: "All skippers who went through there that day have been contacted and they are innocent as all get out.

Usually when the bridge is involved in a collision the ship owner responsible confesses and the damages are paid up by insurance.

"On this occasion we have no idea who did it," Mr. Garnett said.

The bridge operator reported no such accident, but his station is located on the opposite side of the bridge out of sight of the broken dolphin.

Mr. Garnett said the crash could have occurred unknown to the skipper, possibly when a barge under tow was swept against the pier.

Repairs will be out of the contingency fund.

Tow-Away Zone Offences To Cost More?

A suggested $10 fee to cover parking fine and towaway charge would be assessed whether or not a car is towed away.

Standard overparking fine now in a tow-away zone is $5, with a maximum $4.70 added for towing.

The increase would enable the city to absorb the towing charge that is now payable by the parking victim to the tow truck firm.

This Is Where I Stand

In my view, the B.C. Succession Duty Act should be repealed. There should be one tax in Canada dealing with the estates of deceased persons, and like the income tax, collected by federal government, and shared with the province. This is how it used to be done."

In B.C., some estates are only exempted to the extent of Ten Thousand Dollars. Others have an exemption of only Twenty-five Thousand Dollars. Whether there is tax or not depends on the relationship of the beneficiary to the deceased.

Modest estates should not pay death duties.

When the Premier decided to levy a Succession Duty, I said that this would result in multiplication of work, expense and confusion on the part of the taxpayer and tax collector alike. I said it would lead to double taxation, double cost and double confusion.

Professor Ralph Loffmark, who had not then gone into politics and who was a tax authority at U.B.C., said — "Bennett should have ironed out his differences with Ottawa, rather than introduce a separate tax."

Now that he is a Social Credit Cabinet Minister, his views have changed and he supports B.C. Succession Duties.

Is this what happens to a "critical, if necessary" voice when it ends up "within the government"?

LOOKS AT SPORTS

The nicest thing about summer holidays is that most children let their parents come along with them.

This year our offspring had three weeks.

They had a wonderful time.

Us?

Would you believe it's great to be back at the salt mine?

No child in his right mind would want to do anything very athletic on his vacation.

Just because pater earns grocery money writing about men who play boy's game: doesn't mean that the kids would be interested in sports, does it?

Naturally.

The first night out in western Washington a stop was made at Silver Lake, supposedly reeking with fish. The last of the great Izaac Waltons loaded up on worms, hailed a boat and set forth with two scions.

The scions were eager but the signs of fish were remote. Cheerfully, after an hour of nothing, I said: "Let's call it off."

"Call what off?" asked a tad. "We never started." He'll be fine as soon as that bump on his head goes down.

Pretty Well It's Dog-Eat-Dog . . .

In Portland, the children were encouraged to broaden their horizons by visiting the royal canine museum.

No children uner 12 are permitted at the dog races, presumably because they would have difficulty reaching the two dollar mutuel windows.

Fairview Park, operated by the Multnomah Kennel Club, lets people in for 25 cents. For 35 cents they give you a form-chart program, 11 races, a quinella on every race and two daily doubles. Anybody who can't get all the action he wants better see a psychiatrist.

They are loaded into a flip-top box (the dogs, not the men) and there is a hush while a white electrical rabbit gathers speed and whirls around the outside on the track to the announcer's titillating cry of "Here Comes Rusty!"

When Rusty passes the starting gate, the lids flip open and the commotion is on. They don't pay much attention to traffic laws like staying in your own lane. Pretty well, it's like modern society trying to make a buck. Dog eat dog.

Among Great Discoveries—Reading

It's all over before you can finish your beer (they run from 550 to 700 yards) and the prices flash on a tote board big enough to print Gone With the Wind on.

Tote boards don't exiote my enzymes (except when I have the right tickets in my hand) but this one shows the odds of every quinella combination in the 10-dog field.

On a Saturday the attendance was 15,330 and the play $390,000.

I've bet on some real dogs in my day and now I've bet on some dogs that are real.

Downtown, Minnesota Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers were making a professional football exhibition of themselves before some 22,000 who paid a flat $5. For half-time entertainment they brought out two Oregon college teams demonstrating the virtues of English Ruggah! By jove, the natives loved it.

There was time spent catching up on a quaint practice, Reading.

A session with James Baldwin's Another World offers hope that Hemingway et al may yet survive Gilligan's Island and Batman.

On the southern Oregon coast, breakers bashed a beach and invited little girls to step in and get wet toes. Often the little girls got wet, period, all the way up to their chins.

The Joys of Being a Little Boy

Too late a tourist learned the month to visit is June when the winds are soft. Still, in their harshness they convey strength and power and offer some insight into the vastness of things we see but do not always appreciate or understand.

This was a holiday . . .

And after a long day of swimming and playing catch and listening to a boy's prayers, being asked: "Did you like to be a little boy, dad?"

"Yes, Shawn."

"That's good. I like being a little boy, dad. Good-night."

'NICE TO MEET YA', BUT . . .'

Fleet Ken Neilsen, Winnipeg Blue Bombers' fine young end, seems to be shaking the hand of Montreal Alouettes' Phil Brady in game Wednesday at Winnipeg. Actually Neilson is trying to elude Brady's embrace and get about his business. For the Bombers, business was poor. Montreal won 4-2 as former British Columbia Lion Peter Kempf scored all the Larks' points. (CP Wirephoto).

Lions Could Use Kempf's Toe Now

Former Leo Puts Boot To 'Peg Bombers, 4-2

WINNIPEG (CP)—Third time was far from lucky for Winnipeg Blue Bombers Wednesday night in a Canadian Football League interlocking game they lost 4-2 to Montreal Alouettes.

Dick Wozney, just recovered from an injury, fumbled the third punt he got his hands on and brief moments later, with 96 seconds left to play, Peter Kempf hit the third with his third field goal attempt for Montreal.

The recovery allowed Kempf, who had to settle for a single on a wide field goal try early in the fourth quarter, to collect all Montreal's points for the second consecutive match. He did it last week in a 16-8 sweep past Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who now have Alouettes beside them in second place in the Eastern Conference.

DEFENSIVE STRUGGLE

Kempf was dealt to Montreal by the B.C. Lions after they picked up centre-place kicker Bill Mitchell from Edmonton.

Kempf has scored 35 of Alouettes' 48 points on two touchdowns, six field goals, four converts and a single.

A wet field created by heavy pre-game rain and a tough Montreal defence guided by Roger Lalonde, George Kinney and Jim Walter were the instruments of Winnipeg's second defeat in six outings, stalling them as co-holders of first place in the Western Conference with Saskatchewan Roughriders.

"The defence had the advantage," said Bomber head coach Bud Grant. So much so, that the Bombers had to settle for a 2-0 lead entering the final 10 minutes on two booming punt singles by Ed Ulmer. Their offence never got closer than the Montreal 33 yards.

SIX MISSED

The absence through injury of Funston, Norm Rauhaus, Billy Cooper and Ernie Pitts — may have had something to do with it.

Grant was surprised that both clubs produced 200-plus yards on offence. Winnipeg had 159 rushing and 96 passing on 14 first downs; Montreal 41 passing and 184 rushing on 13 first downs.

There were the odd exciting moments for 20,510 fans—Dave Raimey ground - roaming for 93 Winnipeg yards; Bob Paremore and Don Lisbon churning out 86 and 84 yards for Montreal—but action was primarily of the push-and-slide variety concentrated between the 35-yard lines.

Denied well - placed receivers by the uncertain footing, Kenny Ploen managed to complete just seven of 15 pass attempts for Winnipeg. He had four knocked down at the line of scrimmage and one intercepted.

LEWIS SAYS GOOD-BYE

Bernie Faloney and George Bork had to cope with similar restrictions on the Montreal side. They managed four completions in 10 attempts and gave up one interception.

Billy Martin probably had the toughest Bomber assignment. He replaced halfback Leo Lewis, who bid farewell to Winnipeg in a pre-game ceremony and faded into retirement after 10 great seasons.

Martin, a waiver pickup from Edmonton Eskimos, did a bang-up job, collecting 54 yards on seven rambles and the game's longest ground gain, 25 yards.

QUEBEC WINS

B.C. Gets Tie On Late Goal

WINNIPEG (CP)—British Columbia and Quebec virtually assured themselves a spot in the final match as they moved into comfortable leads in their respective groups in the Canadian soccer championship tournament Wednesday.

B.C. salvaged a 1-1 tie with Manitoba in group A and Quebec edged Alberta 1-0 in group B. Both teams now lead their groups with five points each.

Today, winless Manitoba meets Ontario in a group A match that could decide a playoff spot. In group B Alberta faces Saskatchewan.

A determined Manitoba team, losers to B.C. 4-1 and to Ontario 2-0 in the double round-robin series in previous action, grabbed a 1-0 lead in the 24th minute when halfback Jim Baird's free kick from 30 yards out cracked into the corner of the B.C. net.

The youth-laden West Coast squad tried desperately to tie the game but the experienced Manitoba team controlled play at midfield. The hometown defence stood solid until the 88th minute when B.C. tied the score 1-1.

GETS REBOUND

The score kept Manitoba's hopes alive for a playoff spot but they must defeat Ontario today. B.C., a 6-0 winner Tuesday over Ontario, still has to play the easterners Friday.

The winner of group A goes against the winner of group B in the final match while the runners-up in the two groups also meet in a playoff to decide third and fourth spots. Both games are scheduled for Saturday.

RAIN-SOAKED GROUND

Quebec scored in the 10th minute on a goal from Sean McGill that stood up all the way for a 1-0 victory in a hard-fought contest on a rain-soaked slippery ground which resulted in erratic passing and difficult ball control.

Quebec goalkeeper Peter Greco, a standout in his team's 5-1 win over Saskatchewan Tuesday, pulled off three fine saves for his first shutout.

Paper Fans, Pirates Drive Dodgers Crazy

Associated Press

Pittsburgh's fans fanned the Pirates past Los Angeles Dodgers, but Juan Marichal enjoyed anything but a freeze against New York Mets.

Some 31,000 spectators were on hand with their paper fans as the Pirates edged the Dodgers 4-3 while Marichal sweated out his 20th victory as San Francisco Giants nipped the Mets 2-1.

The results left the Pirates and Giants tied for first place in the National League with the third-place Dodgers falling three games back.

The fans who came to watch the Pirates play received free fans as they entered the park. They put them to use in the fourth inning after Roberto Clemente reached first base on Jim Lefebvre's error.

When everyone in the stands started waving the fans, the Dodgers complained to the umpires. And while the umpires waited for the breeze to stop, the game was delayed for five minutes.

TOSSED FANS

The spectators didn't wave the fans much in the next inning, but quite a few — of the paper kind — were tossed onto the field as the Pirates erupted for four runs.

One of Marichal's problems, on the other hand, was that the Giants didn't do any erupting at all. They trailed 1-0 until the seventh inning and didn't go ahead until the ninth.

Another problem for the ace right-hander was the backstrap muscle he pulled in his right shoulder while striking out Ron Hunt in the ninth inning.

"I felt something pull," Marichal said after the game. "It worries me, but I hope it's nothing serious."

Elsewhere Philadelphia Phillies whipped Houston Astros 10-5, Cincinnati Reds trimmed Chicago Cubs 7-5 and Atlanta Braves defeated St. Louis Cardinals 8-5.

Gene Alley drove in the first two runs of the game for the Pirates with a two-out single. Clemente and Willie Stargell then singled across the other two runs. The Dodgers rallied for their three runs in the sixth on Willie Davis' homer.

JOINS SMALL GROUP

In joining teammate Gaylord Perry Los Angeles' Sandy Koufax and Minnesota's Jim Kaat in the 20-victory circle, Marichal limited the Mets to four hits.

The Giants won the game in the ninth after Willie Mays led off with a triple. One out later, Jim Hart lofted a fly to Cleon Jones in shallow centre field. Mays held at third as Jones' throw went to the plate; but the Giant star then sped home as catcher Jerry Grote fired the ball into left field, trying to nail him at third.

Rich Allen collected four hits, including a two-run homer in the first inning. For the Phillies John Callison, Bill White and Cookie Rojas also drove in two runs each.

In the American League, Jim Kaat won his 21st game as Minnesota dumped Boston 11-2, Chicago took two from Detroit, 7-6 and 3-1; Washington and Kansas City split, 3-0 and 0-4; Baltimore rapped Cleveland 5-1, and California bounced New York 5-1.

Flying Kerry Shows Trotting's Big Boys

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP)—The filly Kerry Way put the big boys in their place in the Hambletonian on Wednesday.

The big, strong daughter of famed Star's Pride, sire of the last three winners of the historic classic for three-year-old trotters, won in straight mile heats Wednesday and set a world record.

Kerry Way became the 11th filly in the Hambletonian's 41-year history to win the trophy and the first since Emily's Pride in 1958.

"She has to be the greatest filly I've ever driven," said Frank Ervin. "After all, she set a world record. We got the job done with Kerry Way's grit and determination. I had been worried about her because of that poor showing she made in Chicago last week.

INJURED KNEE

"She went off stride then but we found that a tooth cap had cut her mouth. She also banged a front knee. We took out the cap and got the swelling out of her filled knee and then we went out and won the big one."

Kerry Way, owned by Gainesway Farm of Lexington, Ky., sped the two opening heats in 1:58 4-5 and 1:59 3-5 for a combined time of 3:58 2-5—a world record for three-year-old trotting fillies on a mile track.

It erased the old mark of 3:58 45 by Elaine Rodney at Lexington in 1960. Ervin, a native of Pekin, Ill., captured his second Hambletonian in 15 appearances and now has 101 drives of two minutes or lower.

Polaris, the Yonkers Futurity winner reined by George Sholty finished second in both heats, being defeated by 3-4 length in the first and a neck in the second in a thrilling stretch battle that brought some 23,000 fans to their feet.

There were 40,000 inside the fairgrounds, and those who could not find room in the stands heard the race called on loud speakers.

With a field of 12, the Hambletonian grossed $122,540, fourth largest. Kerry Way boosted her two-year earnings by $60,044 to $207,186.

SURPRISING THIRD

Polaris collected second money of $30,022 for owners Patrick Digennaro and Anthony Lecesse of Scottsville, N.Y. Shatter Way, at unofficial odds of 25 to 1 for the betless race, was a surprising third after a 4-3 finish. The horse was shipped from Sweden for the event and earned $14,410 for owner Kurt Hellberg of Mellerud, Sweden.

BURNABY LAKE FOUR . . . . . IN WORLD MEET

Rowing Rebels Head for Bled

The rebel team that last month turned back all opposition at the Canadian Henley Regatta in St. Catharines, Ont., is coraposed of stroke Max Wieczorek, 27, Daryl Sturdy, 26, Roger Jackson, 25, and Bob Stubbs, 27.

With them will be spare Wayne Osterhout, 23, a member of the University of British Columbia rowing team.

All trained with the UBC team until early this year when, according to Wieczorek, "a difference of opinion in rowing style and rowing stroke" forced the primary crew to sever connections.

Wieczorek, Sturdy, Jackson and Stubbs, subsequently joined the Burnaby Lake Rowing Club.

Wieczorek, who as stroke will determine what pace the team sets in competition, has been rowing since the fall of 1960. He participated in a previous world championship at Lucerne, Switzerland, and at the British Empire Games in Perth, Australia, in 1962.

In 1963, he rowed in the Pan-American Games at Chicago, and in 1964 competed at the Olympic Games in Tokyo.

Jackson, formerly a member of teams at the universities of Toronto and Western Ontario, was a gold-medallist at the 1964 Olympic Games. He rowed with George Hungerford of Vancouver in the pairs.

Sturdy and Stubbs have also had considerable international experience.

Laurie West, coach of the Burnaby Lake crew, said: "Their success will depend a lot on the equipment they have to use."

THIS IS FINAL SEASON FOR BOBBY RICHARDSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Second baseman Bobby Richardson, of the American League New York Yankees, said on a taped television program on Wednesday that he is retiring from baseball at the end of this season.

"This will be my last year as far as playing baseball with the New York Yankees," Richardson said on the program.

Richardson, 31, is in his 11th year with the Yankees. He took a .268 lifetime batting average into this season and currently is hitting .261. He has played in seven World Series, batting .305.

AL SMITH

'Fastest Farmer' Seeks Daff Award

In local auto racing circles Al Smith is sometimes referred to by the unlikely title of "fastest farmer in Canada".

Unlikely? Unusual.

Smith is an unusual type of driver.

In fact, the lone Victoria entry in the Canadian American Modified Racing Association's Daffodil Cup Race which will take place at Western Speedway Saturday, Sunday and Monday, could almost be described as an out-and-out Jekkyl and Hyde.

On racing days, when he steps behind the strong throbbing engine of his modified racer, Smith becomes a determined, daring competitor whose wide-open style of driving has provided a great number of heart-stopping moments for track racing fans in recent years.

If Smith should win the Daffodil Cup, the trophy would become a fitting symbol which

It is Vantreight, Smith's employer, who makes the annual presentation of the Daffodil trophy. If Smith can cop top honors in the Speedway event, the well-known trophy will sit year round in Vantreight's office on the farm where "the fastest farmer in Canada" works.

The most hungry competitor in the field could be Norm Ellefson, Edmonton's current point leader in the CAMRA circuit.

Ellefson and Smith will be out to prove who's best in the Daffodil Cup competition at Western Speedway this weekend.

MERGER COMING?

AHL-WHL Aim For Top Status

Somebody has roused a "sleeping dog" and brought increased attention to plans by professional hockey's two most influential minor leagues to grab the financial tidbit that goes with nation-wide television.

Talk of a merger between the American and Western Hockey Leagues was heated up Wednesday.

It began in Rochester when the Democrat and Chronicle predicted the two leagues "will merge next month but delay regular-season competition between east and west for a year."

"The new circuit, the paper added, will be called the American Hockey League.

Although the interlocking schedule won't take effect until 1967-68, league winners will play off for the overall championship next spring, the Rochester paper said.

TO FRONT BURNER

In Seattle, Al Leader, WHL president, said no merger decision had been reached "but you might say the matter has been moved from the back to front burner."

Leader said committees of the two leagues will meet Sept. 20 in Chicago to discuss a possible merger, which has been under consideration for three years.

"But there are a lot of things to be ironed out yet."

Leader said if the circuits merge the American Hockey League name would be retained "because of the traditional National and American League alignment in other sports, such as baseball and football."

MAJOR LEAGUE

Asked if this remark meant the two minor leagues hoped to join in a second major hockey league, Leader replied: "That's the thinking behind it, but it would take some time."

Victoria Maple Leafs' manager A. J. (Buck) Houle said the merger plan "has been a sleeping dog."

"Both leagues are anxious to merge, and we talked about it in June. But the feeling then was that it would take about two years to bring about the merger . . ."

The possibility of lucrative financial returns from nation-wide television is the big reason both east and west are anxious for the merger.

TWO DIVISIONS

In all probability, the new AHL will be composed of 12 teams — six in both eastern and western divisions.

At present, there are nine teams in the AHL and seven in the WHL. They are Rochester, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Quebec, Providence, Hershey, Springfield, Baltimore, Portland, Vancouver, Seattle, San Diego, Los Angeles, Oakland and Victoria.

Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and San Francisco (Oakland) are scheduled to step up to the National League next season.

Presumably, any team not included in the plans of either the AHL or NHL would wind up in the Central Professional League.

Problems at Toronto Worry Ottawa Brass

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders are on top of the Eastern Football Conference and headed toward one of their best attendance marks but Red O'Quinn sees trouble ahead next year.

"We could be in for a bad time if we can't get more balance in the league," he said during an interview.

His main concern is the way the 14 - game schedule shifts each year. Last season Ottawa had two home games against both Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes—weak sisters in the four-team loop.

SCHEDULE PERFECT

This year the schedule is a perfect for Ottawa—with the four remaining home games bringing Hamilton Tiger-Cats to town twice and Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Saskatchewan, the Western Conference leaders, making single trips. The Riders already have played three home dates — against Toronto, Montreal and Calgary Stampeders.

"With only four teams in the East, a weak club is always a threat to hurt your gate, especially in a small city like Ottawa," O'Quinn said.

"What the individual clubs do is their own business but when it affects the whole league I think the league should take a good, hard look at the situation."

O'Quinn said Montreal seems to have solved most of its problems, but another weak Argo team next year could be a disaster to Ottawa's gate receipts, "especially when they provide the opposition for two of our seven home games."

"I know the Argos have had a lot of key injuries this year, but there may be other problems.

"To build a winner in this league you need top Canadian talent and this takes a few years to develop. Maybe we should look for a way to help the weak teams until their development programs start to pay off."

Colwood Team Wins

'Still Long Way to Go' Says Cool Kel Nagle

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — The slope-shouldered Aussie farmer with the pork pie hat grinned a little and said, "There's still a long way to go."

That's the cool way Kel Nagle of Australia, still a mighty figure in professional golf at the age of 47, viewed the rest of his battle in the 72-hole $200,000 world championship golf tournament, worth $35,000 to the winner.

The former British Open champion, who keeps his hand in by playing the U.S. circuit, fired a five-under-par 68 over the par-73 Royal Birkdale 7037-yard seaside course Wednesday.

He went into the second 18 holes today two shots up on Peter Thomson, his fellow Australian; Bob Charles, the left-hander from New Zealand and a pair of Englishmen, Peter Butler and Hedley Muscroft.

At 71 were nine golfers and among the 11 who shot 72s was Jack Bissegger of Val Morin, Que., who led the nine-man Canadian contingent. Bissegger had a pair of 36s.

24 BREAK PAR

Altogether, 24, in the field of 165 broke par and another 14 equalled it in remarkably good playing conditions for an area notorious for its sudden bad weather.

Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg shot 36-39—75; Moe Norman, the colorful Guford, Ont., pro, had 38 - 37 — 75; Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., shot 39-37—76; George Knudson of Toronto, who has shown well in recent U.S. tournaments, had 40-38—78, and Gerry Proulx of Montreal 39-40—79.

COURSE IS TRICKY

Dry and fast, Birkdale played tricky instead of savage and many otherwise low - scoring golfers shot up into the high 70s and 80s.

Hunters Await Access Verdict

Another bird shooting season opened today for Vancouver Island hunters, but only a few shots were echoing around the hills and fields as band-tailed pigeons became legal game.

It could be a different story Saturday when seasons open on blue and ruffed (willow) grouse.

Only a small number of hunters work seriously to bag the migratory band tails, but the resident grouse always get plenty of attention.

Threatening to reduce the usual big invasion of the woods by gunners on the opening weekend of the grouse season are dry conditions, which may result in many logging companies closing their gates to public access.

DECISION TODAY

Officials of most companies are expected to decide today if logging areas will be closed because of the fire hazard.

Since there has been no indication of a general forest closure, it appears almost certain that crown lands, at least, will be open to hunters this weekend.

However it is probable that timber companies operating on privately-owned lands will post "no access" signs if the hazard if such that logging crews are not working full time.

While they are awaiting the decision, hunters are oiling guns and expecting similar shooting success to last year. Reports indicate little change in the grouse populations from a year ago, when a few hunters found fast shooting on opening weekend while most had to work hard to find birds.

LAWNS

A beautiful, well-groomed, year-round, green lawn is a valuable asset to any home and neighborhood. That's why so many homeowners spend every year much effort and expense for fertilizers and weed-killing ingredients in order to obtain a first-class looking lawn. Unfortunately the results are, as a rule, disappointing because lawns, even when constantly well-watered and looked after, can only stand up to the impact of hot, dry summer weather if they are protected by a heavy layer of turf. Top-dressing of existing lawns is the only way to obtain such a layer of turf.

Contrary to general belief, summer is the best time for lawn top-dressing. For a free estimate and expert advice regarding the top-dressing of any particular lawn area, we suggest you contact the Layritz Nurseries. If they take on the job they guarantee results.

Our Candidates Say . . .

DORCAS H. BLAIR

HAROLD T. ALLAN

Perhaps you are about to vote for the first time . . . or you're not happy with the answers you've been getting to questions like these:— What is the N.D.P. all about? Who started it? Who runs it? What does it stand for?

To help you sort things out, here is the N.D.P. Story:—

Back in the early "30s, people in western Canada were having a very rough time. They felt that Canada was run by easterners for big business and that the west was going short. Farmers banded together to try to improve their conditions. Laborers banded together for the same reason. In 1932 these two groups decided to form a new political party of their own. Mr. J. S. Woodsworth was elected leader of the new party. The C.C.F. was born!

It was the forerunner of our present New Democratic Party.

The policies and platform of the New Democratic Party (N.D.P.) are worked out from the ideas and experience of all its members. As ideas change, policies change to keep up with them. But the main idea never changes . . .

People Come First with the N.D.P.

The N.D.P. began as a political party formed by the common everyday people of Canada to protect their own interests and to get themselves a better deal. It's purpose is still the same right here in B.C. It gets no support from Big Business. That is why we in the N.D.P. cannot afford expensive newspaper Ads or T.V. coverage . . . or big 8-page double sheets of costly photos to put our message across.

In British Columbia the N.D.P., led by Bob Strachan, wants a law passed that all political parties must file full records showing where their money comes from. No other party wants this . . .

So, if anyone tries to frighten you away from supporting the N.D.P., just remember the old saying, "He who pays the piper calls the tune." Ask yourself, "Why am I being scared off? Which side is he on?"

Vote New Democratic Party . . .

Victoria Daily Times

Arthur Mayse

Last week, you may recall, energetic Oak Bay Marina operator Bob Wright came up with a plea for the dogfish. What we should do, Mr. Wright suggested, is attempt to glamorize this slinky saltchuck bandit with the mean eye, the underslung chin, and the dental equipment that makes nothing of nylon leaders.

Like practically every other sport fisherman in these parts, I greeted the proposal with a loud haw-haw. The dogfish is a pest . . . a bait-thieving nuisance who deserves nothing better than a bang on the snoot and a gingerly unhooking when he loafs up from the depths.

Then in came a chum from a trip to Deep Cove with an account which gave me pause.

He was trolling a course off the cove mouth when the American visitor close alongside hooked a coho salmon, winched it in, and released it.

Minutes later, the tourist hit another coho, which he also played to the boat and set free.

"Hey," our fellow hollered across, "how come?"

"If these blankety-blank salmon would quit pestering," his neighbor replied, "may be I could catch one of those little sharks. You know . . . dogfish? I want one to mount for my collection, and I'm not having any luck."

All of which goes to show that glamor, like beauty, lies in the eye of the beholder. Still, I wish his bad luck would happen to me!

This is the good time of the year when everything's ripe or ripening . . . when the milky-kerneled local corn has ousted the discouraged. California ears from the market bins, and the first of the Netted Gem potatoes are ready for mashing.

There's worse to be done with a spare hour or two on a smoke-tinged afternoon than go stand-prowling along the roads, with a jingle of quarters in pocket or purse, and a couple of fifty-cent pieces.

You may find fresh carrots that parted from the soil that morning, or great sunbursts of August dahlias sheafed in fruit-juice cans. It may be a treasure of juicy golden plums, or small potatoes with the garden dirt still behind their ears, or corn nubbins at a giveaway price, to take home for freezing.

The stands used to be closer in; but city streets and city ways are extending ever farther along the peninsula, and our country customs retreat before the invasion.

But it's a good excuse for an airing, especially if your route takes you past dogwoods in second bloom, and home when a pumpkin moon is rising.

Except for our senior educators, nobody is much concerned with school between June's end and the start of September.

However, the time's fast approaching when our generation of big-footed young will be cramming summer's toes into autumn's shoes, and signing up for another round of high-school courses.

For these, a suggestion:

If you can possibly manage it, and no matter what you propose to work at when sprung, make typing one of your courses.

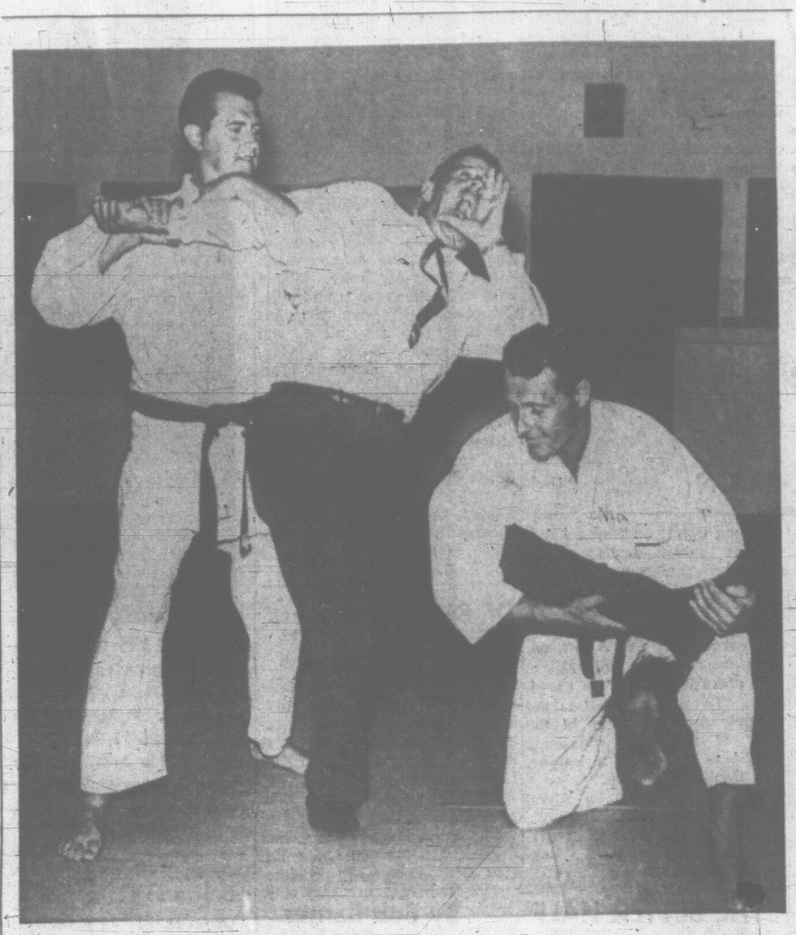
You have no idea how important this relatively simple accomplishment can prove in later years.

It can mean a job in hand which, without typing ability, would be lost to you, or more dollars on your pay cheque.

If you ever undertake to run your own small business, reasonable typing proficiency will help you cut the overhead. By the same token, it's a darn useful gift to bring to a marriage.

In newspapering, the ability to belabor a mill is, of course, essential, and the rare new reporter who lacks it must learn under forced draft how to think through a typewriter. There's no time on a modern paper for copper-plate.

Shorthand you may or may not require, depending on what line you plan to follow. But do yourself a good turn, and consider touch typing under competent instruction an educational must!



He hollered UNCLE and agreed the crowds at Saanichton Fair this weekend will cry for MORE! That was the experience of the fair's entertainment organizer Bud Mesher when he asked black-belt members of Victoria Judo Club to show him some of the "stuff" they'll be demonstrating in an outdoor display at the exhibition. Obliging him are Garry Bosence, left, president of the Judo Club, and Nick Van de Ruyt, vice-president. In addition to the judo show, Mesher promises a top-rate gymnastic display by the YMCA to include athletes from various parts of Canada who are attending a "camp" here now prior to going to the world championships in Europe. The two groups will perform Monday afternoon while on Saturday and Monday entertainment will be provided also by the Midnight Ramblers, local western music group. (Times photo.)

Fire Alarm Costs Jump For Suburbs?

Saanich council is expected to approve at its next meeting in two weeks a revised scale for payment of municipal handling of emergency fire alarms from outlying areas.

The higher charges will affect Colwood, Langford, Central Saanich, Sidney and View Royal.

At present these areas pay $840 a year to Saanich for receiving fire alarms and then calling the local volunteer brigades.

The base charge is $1,000 plus $7 per call for each call during 1966.

Coun. Alan Newberry, chairman of the Saanich fire committee, said the new scale will be an increase of $300 for some outlying areas and $1,000 for others.

The charges have been unchanged for the last three years and he called them "woefully inadequate."

Even with the higher charges, he said, it will be cheaper for the outlying areas to have Saanich handle emergency calls rather than hire their own alarm staff.

Coun. Newberry said the new charges will pay approximately the cost of one fourth-year firefighter in Saanich.

Citizens' Aid Asked In Nabbing Vandals In City Cemeteries

Mayor A. W. Toone today appealed to citizens to help stop a wave of cemetery vandalism.

He referred to Ross Bay damage the weekend of Aug. 13 and 14 in which grave stones were toppled, broken or dislodged at a cost of $4 to $400 for individual repair work.

Total damage amounted to $2,100 for repairs to 39 plots, the mayor said. Plot owners must bear the cost of repairs, themselves, he added.

"It appears to me to be more or less continuing acts of vandalism," he remarked, "rather than any particular time."

"Police patrols have been stepped up and they are keeping a very close eye on it.

"But I think we should receive every co-operation from citizens as well and not expect the police to do it all."

The mayor asked citizens to report any acts of vandalism they hear about or witness.

Crash Victim Leaves Paintings to Gallery

Mrs. Norma MacDonald — the Victoria art lover who died in a plane crash at Tokyo, Japan, last March 4—bequeathed 12 paintings from her private collection to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

This was disclosed in her will probated at Victoria Law Courts Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. MacDonald directed that the gallery should choose any 12 paintings from her collection "as a gift from me."

She left estate to the gross value of $532,217, including her house at 1021 Deal Street, Oak Bay, and made various bequests to members of her family.

Of the many paintings in her collection, she decreed that Murillo's Madonna should go to a personal friend.

ON BUYING TRIP

Mrs. MacDonald was on a buying trip for her arts and crafts centre in Victoria's new Century Inn when she met her death in a CPA air crash at fog-bound Tokyo Airport.

During her 20 years in Victoria, she was a liberal supporter of the arts and gave help and encouragement to many singers, musicians and artists.

In 1946 she purchased the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from the late Major William Merston and operated it with her family until 1963. During this time she served as president of the International Hotel Association and travelled widely.

Mrs. MacDonald was the widow of H. C. MacDonald, a Vancouver real estate man.

Last March 28 more than 40 Victoria entertainers donated their talents to a variety concert in memory of Mrs. MacDonald which packed McPherson Theatre.

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 77?

The highway death toll will take a leap this weekend as motorists take to the road for the Labor Day holiday.

While Victoria motor vehicles branch reports an increase in British Columbia deaths for the first seven months of this year, the Canadian Highway Safety Council grimly forecasts 77 additional deaths throughout the country this weekend.

Last Labor Day 71 people died. The year before there were 82.

So far this year in British Columbia 244 people have been killed in traffic mishaps, an increase of 24 on the first seven months of 1965.

In July alone, 45 people died, 19 fewer than the previous year. But injuries were up 20 per cent from 1,491 to 1,792.

In the overall period, 9,909 people were injured, up 19 per cent from a year ago.

Estimated property damage caused by vehicles was up 17 per cent to $2,215,285.

Mishaps in July were also up 13 per cent over last year at 3,512.

Advised a safety council spokesman: "Drive defensively this weekend, be courteous, watch out for the other guy and be alert to dangerous situations."

Five-Year-Old Termed 'Fair' After Collision

Struck by Truck On Glanford Ave.

Saanich police said David Freer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Freer, 584 Judah, was knocked or carried 10 to 20 feet when he ran into the path of a sedan delivery driven by William James Armstrong, 27, of 808 Mann.

The accident happened in front of Glanford School. The boy had moved to the centre of the road and tried to retrace his steps when Mr. Armstrong honked his horn, officers said.

In another Saanich accident Wednesday evening, Dawson Fairchild, 77, of Oregon City, Ore., was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with back injuries following a rear end collision at Glanford and the Pat Bay highway.

Reported in good condition today, he and his wife, Iva, with Miss Volda Hogg were passengers in a car being driven by Barbara Fairchild, which was struck from the rear by an auto driven by Nancy Saunders, 1231 Judge Place.

Children Suspect In Fires

A chimney fire which spread to a basement wall caused an estimated $150 damage to a house at 1128 Leonard St. Wednesday afternoon.

City firemen had to chop into the wall at the home of J. McMaster to get at the blaze.

Children are suspected of setting a fire under the steps at 391 Conway the same afternoon which spread to the kitchen but caused only minor damage.

H. L. W. Pruim told firemen he believed faulty wiring may have touched off the blaze. The cause is still under investigation.

Damage was estimated at $50 when the front seat of a car parked at Fort and Wharf caught fire later in the afternoon. The car is owned by John Starch. Firemen suspect a cigarette butt.

Firemen today questioned a young boy believed to have started a similar fire earlier in the afternoon in the upholstery of an abandoned car parked in a vacant lot in the 1000 block Carberry Gardens.

Run to Freedom Ends in Crash

Roadblock Stops Convict

An escaped convict ended his freedom amid the shattered debris of a stolen car early today after a heart-stopping chase at 100 miles an hour along the Malahat.

George William Plowman, who escaped from William Head prison Monday night, suffered only minor injuries when he failed to squeeze his car past an RCMP roadblock near Mill Bay.

In a desperate bid to shake pursuit he tried to swing his speeding car around a tractor-trailer straddling the highway.

TURNED OVER

His auto hit the road embankment, was thrown against the truck and flipped over.

He was taken to Veterans' Hospital in Victoria where he was expected to be turned back to police later today.

Colwood and Duncan RCMP detachments combined to catch the 22-year-old Winnipeg man who was serving time for breaking and entering when he escaped from the minimum security prison 10 miles west of Victoria.

The chase began about 2 a.m. when Constable John McDiarmid of the Colwood detachment spotted a stolen car at the Thetis Lake overpass. The auto had been taken from a Colwood service station the night of Plowman's escape.

RADIOED FOR HELP

The 10-year-old stolen auto sped north on the Trans-Canada Highway with the Colwood cruiser in pursuit.

Constable McDiarmid radioed for help from the Duncan detachment and Constable Jim Swanson comandeered a Weston's Bakery tractor trailer for a roadblock about five miles south of Mill Bay. The huge transport was parked to straddle the road.

TOO NARROW

The chase ended when Plowman's car found the gap in front of the barricade too narrow.

A William Head spokesman said today the escapee likely will not be returned to prison until he has faced further charges.

Plowman had been transferred from prison in Winnipeg, he said, to assist in his rehabilitation.

CO-OP HOUSING COMING FOR STUDENTS AT UVIC

A co-op housing system is being planned by University of Victoria students to start this term.

The Uvic students' council plans to rent houses to be used for living accommodation for students.

To start, the council plans to operate a single residence to house from 6 to 15 male students.

'Cougar Alert' At Gordon Head

Saanich police moved through the Gordon Head area Wednesday afternoon warning children to stay clear of the bush after four people spotted a cougar.

A Nanaimo hunter and his cougar hounds were called in but had failed to nab the big cat by noon.

SUNNING

A staff nurse said today she saw a large brown animal which appeared to be sunning itself on the beach.

Denis Wilders of Nanaimo and his hunting dogs are working with local fish and game officers in trying to track the cougar down. He was expected to return to Nanaimo today.

Wednesday's report is the latest in a series of sightings in recent weeks. People have reported seeing cougars near Beaver Lake Park, and the Observatory hill.

One animal was shot near Deep Cove last week.

Cake 'Crumbs' To Be Sold By Kiwanians

"It's a piece of cake" will be the rallying cry of Victoria Kiwanians as they descend on Safeway stores in the area this weekend.

They will be trying to sell what's left of their two-ton Centennial cake to gourmet shoppers between 4 and 9 p.m. Friday and 9 to noon Saturday morning.

Proceeds from the cake sale are used to finance the building of a camp for the handicapped at Lake Cowichan.

Ask The Times

Q. Are there any figures showing how serious Canada's "brain drain" actually is? I am referring specifically to scientists. C.G.

A. A survey by the United States Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) showed that for the year 1959 32.3 per cent of Canada's graduating scientists and engineers migrated to the U.S. The survey also suggested that this 32.3 per cent was of better quality than the two-thirds who stayed home.

STRONG CONTINGENT READY FOR MAPLE BAY REGATTA

Six-Metre Yachts Recapturing Former Glory

By PAT DUFOUR

Sansum Narrows will resemble a four-lane freeway this weekend as 300 yachts make their way to the Maple Bay Yacht Club for the annual Labor Day Regatta Saturday and Sunday.

Making a spectacular comeback to former glory will be a large fleet of six-metres. Once the "darling" of Olympic competitors, the six-metre waned in popularity for a few years when it was replaced in Olympic competition by the 5.5-metre because of the high cost.

Yachtsmen of the Pacific Northwest, particularly members of the Seattle and Corinthian Yacht Clubs, can be credited with saving the efficient yacht for present competition. While other skippers replaced the six-metres, yachtsmen on this coast bought boats from all over the world, many from Norway and Denmark. Today, this area boasts the largest fleet (24) of six-metres in existence, seven of which are owned and raced by Canadians.

Among those competing at Maple Bay is John Todd's Llanoria. Todd is a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and the Maple Bay Yacht Club.

Another Canadian six-metre to compete in the Labor Day Regatta is Hanko, owned by shipping magnate, Llanoria won gold medals in both the 1948 and 1952 Olympics.

Formerly owned by an internationally known Norwegian Brian Lake of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. This yacht was once owned by King Olaf of Norway. She placed third in the recent Lipton Trophy series, raced at Port Townsend.

Also competing in the regatta will be Lipton Trophy first and second-place winners, May Bee VII, owned by Sunny Vyne of the Seattle Yacht Club, and Goose, skippered by Vic Palmer, MBYC.

Also in the one-design category, Thunderbird and Cal 2 sloops which form the two largest RVYC fleets, are also expected to contend in formidable numbers. Sailing officials expect that records will be set in the number of one-design yachts competing.

LIPTON TROPHY

Series races for all classes will be held Saturday and Sunday. The last day will also feature the Lipton Trophy race for B and C cruising classes.

With regatta competition under wraps, C and D class yachts of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club can look forward to another day of racing on Monday, when they compete for the Maurice Green Trophy. Beginning at 9 a.m., they will sail from the Musgrave Rock buoy to James Island, a distance of 14 miles. Time limit for this race will be six hours.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Pamela Joan Wintrup, only daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Wintrup, San Francisco, Calif., to Sub.-Lt. Richard John Bonnell, RCN, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Bonnell, 398 Fraser Street. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 1 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral with Dean Brian Whitlow officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rushton, 1011 Pakington Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their only daughter, Judith Anne, to Mr. Kenneth Gwynne Griffin, son of Mr. G. W. Griffin and Mrs. M. Zabrick, both of Victoria. The wedding will take place on Saturday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m. in St. John's Anglican Church. Rev. G. Baker will officiate. (Jorgen V. Svendsen).

The forthcoming marriage has been announced of Marion Glenice Bentley, only daughter of Mrs. Sadie Bentley, 2726 Prior Street, to Mr. John Philip Crampton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Crampton, 1650 Hovey Road, Saanichton. The wedding will take place on Saturday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m., in Centennial United Church. Dr. S. J. Parsons will officiate. (Chevrons Studio.)

SHOPPING GUIDE

Tightest Tops Eased With These Devices

By Penny Saver

Sealers and jars just weren't made for women . . . one almost has to be a muscle-bound he-man to open them! It can prove to be quite embarrassing. I overheard one sweet young thing telling her friend about the impressive dinner she planned for her beau. All went well until dessert. She had a jar of her mother's prized preserves, but couldn't get the lid off. She soaked it in water, tapped the edge as silently as possible, and tried other rash techniques, but nothing happened. Rather than admit defeat to the young man, who apparently didn't think she could cook a complete meal, she gave up on the jar and served something else.

One shop has the key to unlock all the goodness in jars without any trouble at all. It's a jar opener that opens all sizes of tops on bottles and jars. The secret is solid-grip pincers that clamp tightly onto the top. A handle on the top of this device loosens and tightens the pincers. This handle is made of wood and the mechanical part, steel. The machine is a boon to every household for 98 cents.

A friend of mine has just moved to a new apartment. That is, the move was new, but the apartment is in an old building. My friend has made fabulous plans for redecorating the old place. She started her renovation scheme by fixing up tarnished fixtures and rusted door knobs, not to mention scratched switch plates and scarred drawer handles. She used a metallic decorator finish that's waterproof and rust proof. This liquid comes in chrome and brass finish for 75 cents the one-ounce bottle, and in copper for 59 cents.

To use this fantastic enamel, shake the bottle vigorously so that the particles in the fluid will be in perfect suspension. Then brush on with the brush attached to the cap. Use even strokes for perfect coverage. The enamel dries quickly, but should not be touched for at least two hours after it has been brushed on.

Watch tarnish vanish with this metallic enamel. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she shopped.

Couple Wed in Vancouver Ceremony

RALPH-SHORTHOUSE VOWS HEARD

A wedding of interest to many in Victoria took place in Fairview Baptist Church, Vancouver, when Barbara Gayle Shorthouse became the bride of Bryan Findlay Ralph.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shorthouse of North Vancouver and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ralph, 3954 Cumberland Road, Victoria. White gladioli and apricot carnations decorated the church for the candlelit service at which Rev. John G. Edwards officiated.

Organist Mrs. Berton Smythe accompanied Alan Houliston who sang "My World" during the signing of the register, and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie, styled on empire lines. The bodice of Guipure lace featured Persian sleeves, and the gown was fashioned with a split penguin train sweeping back from tiny bridal bows. A coronet of Guipure lace held her softly misted veil of Brussels net, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white butterfly roses and stephanotis, surrounding white philanopsis orchids.

Matching gowns of watermelon chiffon over gold taffeta, accented with velvet ribbons at the empire waistlines, were worn by the bride's attendants. Self-fabric pillbox headpieces, studded with rosebuds, and crescent bouquets of white glamelias and apricot carnations, completed the outfits.

Maid of honor was Miss Claire Shorthouse, bridesmatrons were Mrs. R. Allen and Mrs. G. Plewes, and bridesmaid, Miss Susan Shorthouse.

Best man was Jim Taylor, Victoria. Ushering the guests were Tom Hodson, David Dawson and Lionel Forrester.

The University Women's Club, "Hycroft" was the setting for the reception which followed. The head table was centred with a four-tier cake, topped with white stephanotis and tulle. Campbell Bridgeman proposed the toast to his niece and another uncle, Harry S. Hay, Saskatoon, was master of ceremonies.

The couple will make their home in Vancouver, following a honeymoon trip to California. For travelling, the new Mrs. Ralph donned a dress and coat ensemble of green and taupe frosted brocade. Her hat and accessories were in shades of green, and her corsage was a white catalaya orchid.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Things Could Be A Lot Worse

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I wish they would outlaw baseball! My husband is such a big sports fan he has two TV's going in separate rooms, and he carries a transistor radio around to keep track of a third game. When we go out for an evening he has to have the transistor plugged in his ear to keep up with a baseball game somewhere.

We can't go to bed at night until he finds out how the teams did all over the country. He ignores me completely, and we have been married only four months. I am not an old bag either. I am 36-24-36.

STRIKING OUT

DEAR STRIKING: If Sports Fan ignores you during the seventh inning stretch and after the scores are all in and the lights are all out, he could have bigger problems than you. Let me hear how you wind up the season.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who just loves to write letters. I think she must be a frustrated novelist. She will start a letter on Monday, add to it on Tuesday, keep adding to it every day until she finally closes on Friday. One of her letters can be 15 or 16 typewritten pages — single spaced.

She never has any news, it's just a lot of drivel. But what really gets me is this. She works for a doctor, and she uses his business stationery, his envelopes, and I'm sure his stamps and his TIME. To me, it's out and out stealing. Is there some tactful way to bring this correspondence to an end?

HATES TO WRITE

DEAR HATES: Yes. Don't answer.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married on the spur of the moment and we didn't have time to order formal announcements, so I wrote letters to our immediate family telling them about our new son-in-law. I also enclosed a picture of the couple taken on the day of their marriage.

Of the 11 letters I wrote, nearly five months ago, only one relative bothered to send my daughter a wedding gift. I have sent dozens of lovely gifts to those relatives for graduations, weddings, etc., so naturally, I was stunned.

My husband says they are under no obligation to acknowledge our daughter's marriage because we sent no formal announcements and had no wedding. Don't you think a handwritten announcement should have brought some acknowledgement?

SHOCKED

DEAR SHOCKED: An "acknowledgement," yes. A gift, no. Gifts are ALWAYS optional.

Confidential To "B" In Cleveland: "Impotence" is not grounds for annulment in the state of Ohio. But "unsound mind" is — so see a lawyer. You may have a case.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Take Your Time to Feel Pull in Doing Exercises

Exercise doesn't have to be strenuous to be effective. In fact in building up, it is important to hold the contraction a few moments and not hurry the exercise. When reducing, the stretch is essential. Take time to feel the pull.

Lowman

There are many easy motions which anyone in good health can do. The one I am bringing you today tenses the abdominal muscles and exercises the muscles of the chest, arms, and legs. It also develops co-ordination.

Lie on the floor on your back with your arms resting on the floor overhead. Bend both knees up close to the chest, toes pointing down. Straighten the right leg up as you bring the left arm down to the floor. Bend your right knee as you raise your left arm and return to starting position. Next time, straighten your left leg and bring your right arm down to the floor. Return to starting position. Continue, alternating. Keep your back flat on the floor during this exercise.

The older person will profit by stimulation of surface circulation. A bath should be followed by a brisk rub with a towel, until the skin is pink. The following routines are also good. Simply shake your arms, rapidly, with the wrists and fingers absolutely limp. You should feel as though your hands might fly off into the air at any moment.

Another; stand facing a wall or a table. Place your hands on the wall or table. Raise the right leg backward and shake it briskly. Have the ankle loose just as the hands were in the preceding exercise. Do the same thing with the left leg.

Another; lie on a bed, twist, and turn in all directions. Reach with the arms, legs, and twist the torso. If you will yawn while doing this, it helps.

If you would like to have my relaxing exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

I LIKE TO BRING A LIGHT TOUCH to Autumn meals with a luscious dessert — like CHOCO-NUT PARFAIT. I prepare 1—5 oz. package Shirriff Coconut Cream Pie Filling according to package directions. Divide in half; leave one half plain; add 3 tbsp. cocoa and an additional 1½ tsp. butter to the other half. Layer in parfait dishes, ending with a plain layer. Garnish with grated semi-sweet chocolate. Serves 4—perfectly! For many other delectable desserts, Shirriff Bud Pie Fillings, containing the famous "Flavour Bud" with liquid flavour sealed in an airtight sugar shell, are the happy answer. Try Shirriff smooth and creamy Pie Fillings soon.

BARBARA BRENT'S SEPTEMBER SUGGESTION: With the long holiday week-end coming up, why not serve a succulent pot roast? Here's a recipe I find fool-proof. First I visit my DOMINION STORE butcher and he recommends the cut I should buy that day — usually about 4 to 5 lbs. I place it in heavy duty aluminum foil, sprinkle one package of dehydrated onion soup on top, pour over one-half cup apple juice and seal tightly in the foil. Place in 300 degree oven for 3 or 4 hours. Top it off with a delicious dessert — or pie — made from one of the new SHIRRIFF pie fillings — Banana Cream or Coconut Cream!

Lace Accents On Tiers Of Organza

Tiers of organza accented with lace gave back interest to the gown worn by Linda Joan Bartram recently when she became the bride of Ronald Craig O'Brien. The lace bodice of her floor-length gown featured sleeves ending in lily points. A pearl tiara held her four-tier, scallop-edged veil, and she carried a bouquet of white bud chrysanthemums and red roses. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls and pearl earrings, a gift of her father.

Rev. H. B. Illsey officiated at the ceremony in Esquimalt United Church, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Bartram, 1158 Wychbury Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O'Brien, Shediac, N.B. Mr. Bartram gave his daughter in marriage.

Identical gowns of aqua peau de soie, styled with A-line skirts, were worn by the bride's trio of attendants, maid of honor Miss Dorothy Wackeh and bridesmaids the Misses Coleen Lambert and Laureen Ferguson. A band of the same material accented the empire bodices, which featured round necklines. Headpieces were roses made of the same material, with two-tier veils. They carried bouquets of white carnations with turquoise net.

Bud Jensen proposed the toast to the bride and the reception which followed in Holyrood House.

For travelling on honeymoon to California, the new Mrs. O'Brien chose a silk dress in beige tone, with a matching three-quarter length coat of beige lace. Brown accessories and a corsage of mauve orchids complemented her outfit.

When they return, the couple will live at 1184 Esquimalt Road.

Groom's Parents Travel to City For Bennett-Thomson Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Bennett travelled from their home in Claresholm, Alta., to attend the wedding last Saturday of Sharon Elaine Thomson and their son, Ralph Redmond Vincent Bennett. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson, 1733 Feltham Road.

St. Luke's Anglican Church was decorated with pink and white gladioli for the double-ring service at which Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff officiated.

Organist Herman Bergink played "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven" as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father. During the signing of the register Miss Judy Kirby sang "O Perfect Love", and "The Church's One Foundation."

EMBROIDERED GOWN

The bride's floor-length gown of embroidered organza over taffeta featured a bateau neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Back interest was created by a full train extending from tiny bridal bows. Crystals and seed pearls accented the organza headpiece which held her four-tier veil. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings. The cascade bouquet contained gardenias and stephanotis.

Identical gowns of sky-blue frosted crystal peau were the choice of maid of honor, Miss Wendy Ross, and bridesmaids, the Misses Susan Ross, Heather Thomson, the bride's sister, and Deborah Head, cousin of the bride. They wore matching bows in their hair. Jewelry was pearl earrings, gift of the bride. They carried bouquets of white gladioli, centred and edged with pink rosebuds and trimmed in lacy net.

BEST MAN

Ralph Williams was best man and ushering guests were John Bennett and John Thomson, brothers of the principals, and Glyn Williams.

Pink tulle and rosebuds surrounded the three-tier wedding cake which centred the bride's table at the reception following in the Olde England Inn. The cake was made by the bride's mother and decorated by Miss Emily Philpott. The newlyweds used silver goblets, gifts of the groom's grandmother Mrs. Jack Bell, to drink the toast proposed by Ron Carberry, Duncan. Ralph Williams was master of ceremonies.

For travelling on honeymoon to Long Beach, the new Mrs. Bennett donned a three-piece knit suit of pale blue, accented with navy accessories. Completing the outfit was a corsage of gardenias and the groom's gift of diamond earrings.

Hand-embroidered appliques highlighted the full sweeping skirt of the gown worn by Sharon Ann Foster, recently, when she became the bride of Robert Frederick Holler.

The gown of norganza featured a fitted bodice styled with a sweetheart neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. A floral headpiece held her three-tier chapel-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Canon Grahame Baker officiated at the ceremony in St. John's Anglican Church, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Foster, 1229 Tattersall Drive, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Holler of Rosetown, Sask. Mr. Foster gave his daughter in marriage.

Drive-In Doctors

It's a motel-like, drive-in clinic, with built-in privacy — and it keeps patients isolated from each other.

All Mom has to do is drive in with her child, park in front of a vacant diagnosis room and enter. Inside, she locks the door, and flicks a switch to notify the doctor of her arrival.

"In our old offices, we saw cases at least once a week of a well child's catching measles or mumps from another child in the waiting room," Garner said in an interview.

"This has been cut drastically," said Dr. Olin Shivers, another of the pediatricians.

All rooms are connected with an intercom system.

Necklace Bridal Talisman

Her grandmother's necklace of seed pearls was "something old" for Joan Carol Edwards, recently, when she became the bride of Donald Gordon Hincks.

The necklace was the only jewelry accent to the bride's gown of chiffon over net. The lace bodice was styled with a scalloped neckline and lily point sleeves, and the bouffant skirt was starred with lace appliques. Her shoulder-length veil misted softly from a headpiece of tiny chiffon roses and lily of the valley, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses.

Baskets of gladioli and chrysanthemums in white and yellow tones decorated Metropolitan United Church when Rev. A. E. King heard marriage vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Edwards, 2150 Kendal Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. B. Hincks, 760 Goldstream Avenue. Mr. Edwards gave his daughter in marriage and Mrs. C. Benoit was soloist.

Matching gowns of soft apple green peau de soie, topped with pale yellow lace jackets, were worn by the bride's attendants, her cousin, Miss Susan Aitken, Edmonton, and the groom's sister, Miss Sheila Hincks. They wore self-fabric headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of feathered white carnations.

Best man was Bill Hebden. Ushering the guests were brothers of the principals, Harvey Hincks and Bob Edwards.

An arrangement of yellow roses topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception in the Uplands Golf Club. H. H. Somerville, Edmonton, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will make their home at 1250 Richardson Street, following a honeymoon trip up-Island. For travelling, the new Mrs. Hincks donned an Italian knit suit in off-white tones, with accessories en tone and peacock blue hat. Red roses and white carnations were in her bouquet.

MARRIAGE 'SQUEEZE'

War Babies Grow Up—Minus Hubby Material

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The United States is caught in the middle of a marriage squeeze.

It looks as if 500,000 or more young girls are going to have to postpone their first marriage, or get hooked to somebody they would have passed up in normal times, or — worst of fates — not get married at all.

The cause is the baby boom that followed the Second World War. The babies are grown up now and the girls are looking for husbands.

The trouble is that gals get hitched younger than guys — ages 18 to 22 for females versus 20 to 24 for males. And most of the guys who were born during the baby boom aren't old enough, statistically speaking, to march to the altar.

It was all described to the American Sociological Association convention by two men from the U.S. census bureau, Paul C. Glick and Robert Parke Jr. In a paper they said:

"Generally speaking, the squeeze can be resolved in any or all of several ways:

"By the boys marrying for the first time at younger ages,

"Or by the girls marrying for the first time at older ages,

"Or by the girls marrying men, or older single men who might otherwise have never married.

"Or"—and here the paper let out the brutal news—"it is possible that more girls will ultimately not marry at all."

The hard facts are that in the late 1950s there were 99 marriage-age young men for every 100 marriage-ready girls. But in the early 1960s, the figure dropped to 94 guys for every 100 gals. Now it is down to 93 fellows for every 100 females.

In the cautious phrases of the scientist, Glick and Parke struck a statistical blow for the American male:

"The evidence so far suggests that in the first part of the 1960s, the marriage squeeze was resolved in large part by changes in the marriage patterns of the women, and not by alteration of the trend of ages at first marriage for men . . .

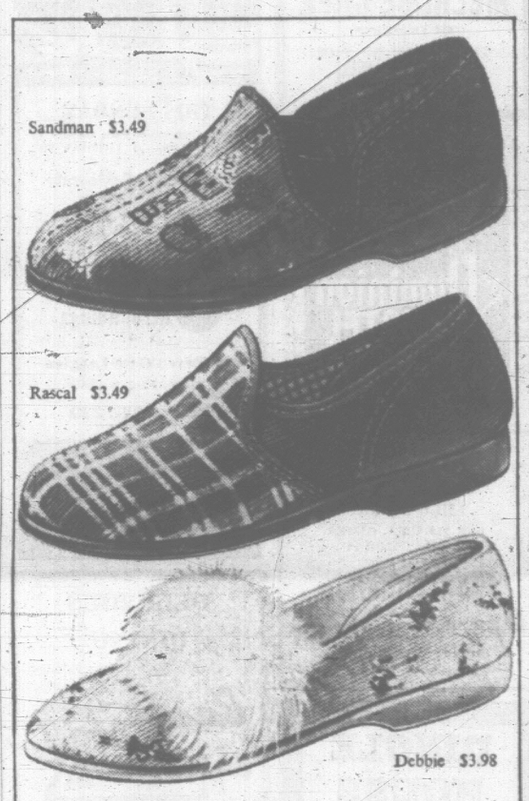
"The young men have been successfully warding off any pressure from the mounting numbers of marriageable young women."

If the pattern continues, the sociologists said, more than "a half-million women will have to postpone getting married."

But the young bachelors had better enjoy it while they can. In the 1970s, the ratio will return to 99 guys to 100 gals.

Women's Status

MONTREAL (CP)—Women in many developing countries have gained greater professional status than Western women, says Hazel Bennett, a University of Montreal professor who recently returned from the Middle East. "They have pushed themselves into law, medicine and politics in an effort to better their country."



Foamtreads take care of your children's feet when they take off their shoes

The right children's slipper is just as important as the right children's shoe. A slipper should help growing feet grow right. Foamtreads do just that! They have a special heel counter that can't be broken down, moulded foam rubber soles that won't wear out and leather outsoles that won't mark floors. And the soles are guaranteed not to separate from the uppers. Foamtread slippers come in a variety of styles and patterns. There's a Foamtread slipper to fit and please your child.

Lions Bringing Famed Dragon To China Night

Cymbals, drums and gongs will sound in Centennial Square next Wednesday night as tigers, rabbits and a 20-foot dragon prance around in Oriental attire.

The event will be the China Night Fantasy, presented by the Victoria Chinatown Lions Club and part of a string of special Centennial celebrations next week.

Starting at 7:30 the open-air show will feature the Chinese zodiac story, told by a cast of 40 who will dance and mime their way through the 12-cycle zodiac.

In the Chinese zodiac there is an animal for each year — rat, ox, snake, boar, monkey, cock and others — and a person's fortune may be told from learning what year he was born in.

GOOD LUCK

Another highlight will be the celestial lion dance, an ancient Chinese dance, to be performed by boys of the Chinese Freemasons Athletic Club. The dance is done only on special occasions and is said to bring good luck and joy to all who see it.

The square will be decorated with Chinese lanterns and a large sign of the zodiac.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

Fined in traffic court Wednesday for charges of careless driving were:

NEVER TOO OLD is motto of George Jessel, 68, who took one look at Audrie Magee, 24, of Midland, Texas, at Houston, Monday, and said, "I'm going to propose to this girl". Miss Magee had no comment on the entertainer's ambitions, but said they will marry. (AP Wirephoto.)

Groups Combine To Put on Show

It's not often the B.C. government, the Royal Canadian Navy, Victoria Symphony Society, the city of Victoria and Victoria Labor Council pools efforts to put on a concert.

The exception is Labor Day on Monday when there will be a concert in front of the Legislative Buildings starting at 3 p.m.

It will feature Victoria Symphony Orchestra, under its conductor Otto-Werner Mueller, and the band of HMCS Naden, conducted by Lieut. Peter Metcalf.

The symphony and the Naden band will give individual selections under their own conductors then combine for augmented performances directed by Mr. Mueller.

ALTERNATIVE

If it rains the concert will be held in Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m.

In either case, it will be a free show. The musicians will be paid.

"But for the co-operation of all the groups involved, we could never have put on this concert," said Arne Bo, secretary of Victoria Musicians' Association, local 247 of the Recording Industries of America.

Mr. Bo said it is a joint effort, supported in cash and services by the B.C. Centennial Commission, the Royal Canadian Navy, Victoria Symphony Society, the city of Victoria, the Labor Council and its affiliated locals, and the Victoria Musicians' Association.

"A number of seats will be available in front of the Legislative Buildings, but we suggest the aged and infirm should be given priority," said Mr. Bo.

FASHION HIGHLIGHTS

Bloomers Snap Back in Show

VINTAGE VICTORIA
Victoria Theatre Guild
Langham Court Theatre
By NORMAN CRIBBENS

What does a mere man do when confronted with a display of women's fashions ranging from 1810 to 1926?

He cannot match the feminine eye for detail. He cannot discuss such intimate items of underwear as bodices and bloomers, and he has only a hazy idea of the difference between a chemise and a camisole.

Yet the broad historical sweep of Avis Walton's dress parade, set to music, is something which fires the imagination. It opened Wednesday at McPherson Playhouse.

It is amazing to realize that Victoria has such a tremendous heritage of fine costumery — much of it reaching back to the early years of the 1800s when our city was not even a fort.

Early settlers brought these feminine treasures to Vancouver Island and somehow they have been preserved and renewed so that, on the stage of the Langham Court Theatre, they glow with color and vitality.

PEG TOP SKIRT

There is a gown which was worn at Queen Victoria's wedding. A peg-top skirt bought by Avis Walton's uncle in Madrid in 1904. A black silk dress worn by Mrs. W. N. Chant in 1920 when the present B.C. minister of public works proposed to her!

There is also an amusing display of period unmentionables and beach costumes of a bygone era.

The dress parade is rather loosely strung together with an improvised commentary by Mrs. Walton ard relieved by the singing of Peggy Walton Packard, Virginia Maggs, Nora Kellie, Alan and Mimi Robertson and Jennifer Macdonald.

Mrs. Packard is in her element in the old Irish folk song The Kerry Dancers and the First World War ballad There Are Smiles.

LAST ROSE

Nora Kellie is heard in a highly satirical performance of The Last Rose of Summer. Alan and Mimi Robertson, always a delightful duo, present The Frozen Logger and an old French Canadian folk song, Fare Thee Well.

In her commentary Wednesday night Mrs. Walton recalled that Victoria started as a small fort in 1843. Soon, she said, miners from California were pouring into B.C. and B.C. Governor Sir James Douglas was aware of the dangers of lawlessness.

Mrs. Walton talked of the early beginnings of Victoria Theatre Guild. One of its earliest productions, The Women, made $1,000; a later presentation, Toad of Toad Hall, raised $1,100.

She invited members of the first-night audience to assist the Guild in the kind of work they like best — acting, decorating, scene-shifting or advertising.

Vintage Victoria was produced by Mrs. Walton with the help of assistant directors Joan Guest, Elizabeth Mayne, Doreen Curtis and Lynn Pitkethley.

Virginia Maggs, Cheryl Borris, Jennifer Macdonald, Barbara Gottfried, Daphne Walsh, Elisabeth Mayne, Evelyn Panton, Peggy Gosley, Joan de Castri, Joan Guest, Margaret Pretty.

Maria Stewart, Ruth Cox, Nora Kellie, Mimi Robertson, Erica Learoyd, Vera Harris, Julie Windwick, Caroline Pitkethley, Gwen Allin, Lynda Mills, Janice Boutelle, Daphne Borris.

Linda Ross, Trudi Barclay, Edith Walte, Hope Newton, Dolly Potentier, Phyllis Gaskell, Ceredwyn Richards, Grania Learoyd and Peggy Walton Packard.

The restoration committee working on old gowns, hats and dresses included:

Ethel Thompson, Shirley Brown, Gina Golby, Kay Salaway, Diana Grieve, Barbara Smythe, Pat Lott, Agnes McConnachy, Jean Ward, Teresa Hartnell, Livia Erdos, Stephanie Cwihun, Dorothy Cope, Mary Webb, Avis Walton, Muriel Rines and Louise Wunderlick.

Vintage Victoria will be repeated every evening until Saturday at 8:15.

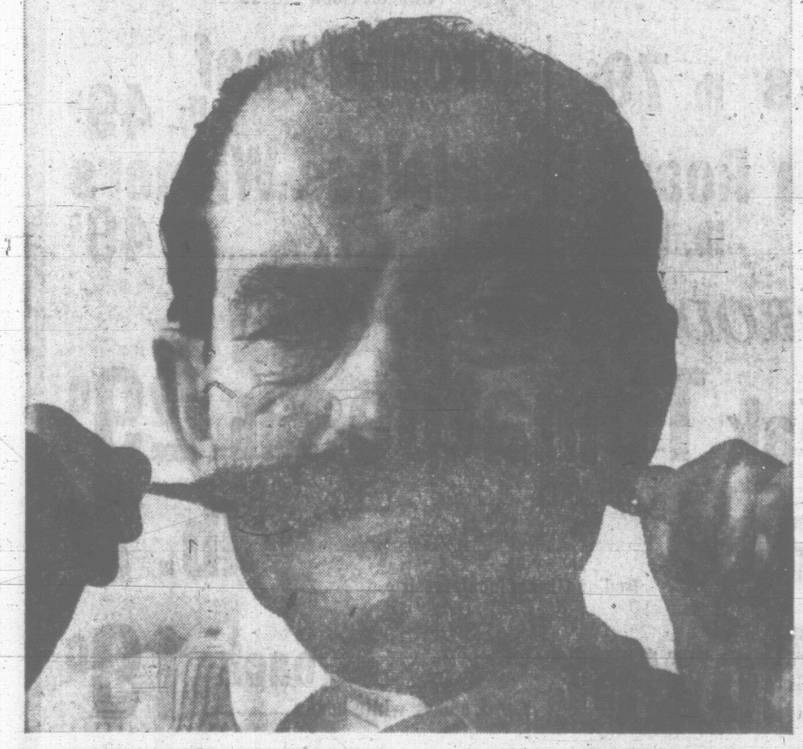
Do you have to grow a moustache to enjoy Old Style Beer?



Not really, but it helps if you're able. You see, Old Style is still every ounce a man's beer. Still brewed the way it always was – bold and vigorous, with all its original flavour. If that sounds like your style, hold out for Old Style. You're man enough for it even without the moustache.

Milkman Gets Around Without Fooling Around

By GORDON RITCHIE

All these stories you hear about milkmen—that's generally all they are, stories—says milkman Glen Priestley.

A little twinkle sneaks into the corner of his eye as he talks.

"You just don't have the time," he objects. "It's pretty much a steady go all day. A guy doesn't have the time to fool around."

With a hundred stops to make an hour you're kept moving, he points out as he pulls away from the loading platform and heads for his Mt. Tolmie route.

Back in the days before the milkmen won the 45-hour week things were different. You could take your time on your rounds, get to know your clients better. Sometimes your rounds would take nine, 10 hours.

"The only time I was accused of anything improper," he chuckles, "was when a nosy woman down the street noticed my truck parked in front of one house for 20 minutes nearly every morning.

COFFEE WITH HUSBAND

"She called the husband to warn him.

"The joke was on her," he laughs. "It was the husband I was drinking coffee with."

As we roll along Shelbourne he remembers that he left a high-sounding, low-paying job in a department store to sign on as a milkman on a temporary three-month basis — 14 years ago.

He never looked back.

In his 14 years as a milkman he has covered every one of the company's 44 area routes. The Mt. Tolmie route is the most beautiful of them all.

The sleeping city lies spread out beneath us. Thick morning mist blankets the straits giving the majestic peaks an illusory appearance of nearness as they jut proudly out of the fog to bask in the warmth of the young sun.

He pulls the truck to a squeaking halt and springs lightly down, his carrier in his hand.

Up the walk he lopes only to find he doesn't have exactly what the little yellow note stuffed in the mouth of an empty bottle calls for.

ALL DIFFERENT

"Some people put an envelope in the door if they don't want any delivery," he says as we get under way again. "With others that means they do.

"Some put tops in their empties to indicate what they want. Some mark their order in ink on the bottles. Others leave out the number of bottles they want.

"Everyone different," he complains.

He is required to take the carrier with him wherever he goes, but he doesn't object.

"I keep it between me and the dogs," he explains.

Again the squeaking brakes herald a stop.

SQUEAKY WARNING

"The squeak is helpful," he comments. "It warns them I'm coming."

A little girl pokes her head out to fetch the milk for her mother.

"There's something fascinating about a milkman to a little kid," he says.

"I wish I knew what it was," he adds wryly. "Some of them, their whole day's ruined if you don't wave back to them."

He has four children of his own—three girls and a four-year-old boy. Their birthdays all come between the 19th of December and the third of January.

"Beware the Ides of March," he chuckles.

$500 MONTHLY

The average milkman makes about $500 a month he figures. A basic salary plus a commission on everything he sells. Glen makes a little more.

That should make for a die-hard free-enterpriser but in fact he has been agent and campaign manager for the CCF-NDP.

"That's about the only thing we're not allowed to discuss with our clients," he says.

He remembers one irate old gentleman who cancelled his delivery and threw the milkman off his property because he wouldn't promise to vote Conservative.

PRIESTLEY

Look Closely; It Might Be 'Mr. Money'

He could be Mr. Centennial, and recognizing him would net you a $10 prize.

A figure dreamed up by the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, Mr. Centennial will make daily appearances at upcoming centennial celebrations.

"He will be wearing something of a national, patriotic or centennial flavor," said co-ordinator Jerry Gosley, and must be challenged with the words "You are Mr. Centennial."

"If the wording's wrong, he'll just say 'no'," said Mr. Gosley.

But if it's right, and he is Mr. Centennial, he'll give you a medallion, to be presented at the Centennial Office, 14 Centennial Square, to claim the $10 reward.

And after the first one has been recognized, don't keep looking for the same face — Mr. Centennial will be a different person every day.

Saturday, Saanich Square Dance Jamboree, at Town and Country Shopping Centre, at 8:30 p.m., and the Stagecoach Dance at Victoria Curling Club at 9 p.m.

Sunday, prize-giving for Central Saanich Centennial Fishing Derby, Anglers' Anchorage Marina, at 2:30 p.m.

Tuesday, In the Rough at McPherson Playhouse, 8:30 p.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 7, China Night Fantasy, Centennial Square at 7:30 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 8, Canadian Scottish Regiment's pipe and drum performance, Centennial Square at 7 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 9, RCMP Musical Ride, Memorial Arena, at 8 p.m.

Saturday, Sept. 10, Oak Bay Village, 10 to 11 a.m.

Sunday, Sept. 11, Centennial Yacht Race, Clover Point, 2 p.m.

Rezoning Hearing Set for Tuesday

Esquimalt will hold a public hearing on rezoning of lots in the Rockheights subdivision at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday at the municipal hall.

CANADA'S YOUTH ORCHESTRA HAILED IN LONDON

'Splendid Evening of Stylish Playing'

LONDON (CP)—Rave reviews from London music critics today greeted the European debut of Canada's National Youth Orchestra under conductor Walter Susskind.

Bouquets were heaped on 17-year-old pianist Nadine Macdonald of Toronto, soloist at Wednesday night's concert in suburban Croydon. The critics dubbed her performance of Ravel's Piano Concerto "astonishingly commanding and sophisticated," "impressive" and "superb."

The general reaction was summed up by Sydney Edwards of The Evening Standard.

"A splendid evening of stylish orchestra playing," he writes, adding that the 101-member orchestra should have made its debut to an audience of 6,000 in the Royal Albert Hall promenade concerts rather than in Croydon's 2,500-seat Fairfields Hall—packed to capacity Wednesday.

The musicians, aged between 15 and 24, "required no allowances for age." The Standard critic says. The youth orchestra showed a "distinctive musical personality," with the strings and particularly the cellos as its "chief glory."

Commenting on the "sensitivity" of playing in Dvorak's Second Symphony, Edwards remarks: "There must be excellent music teachers in Canada."

The anonymous critic of The Times says for such a youthful body the orchestra possessed "quite extraordinary capabilities both in the exceptionally disciplined ensemble and the remarkable solo qualities."

"Throughout, they showed the sense of style and awareness of internal balance which is normally associated with the processional orchestra," The Times adds.

Michael Reynolds, Daily Mail critic, comments on the "unexpectedly good string intonation and good woodwind and brass sections."

Noel Goodwin, music critic of The Daily Express, which sponsored Wednesday's concert, says the performance had a "welcome freshness and vitality," and Miss Macdonald was "superb."

The orchestra's other appearances in Britain are at the Edinburgh International Festival Saturday and Sunday, when the latter concert will be televised by the BBC. It then embarks on a four-city tour of France and West Germany.

Drink Costly When in Public

Andrew Mowat, 1330 Finlayson, was fined $50 Wednesday in central court when he pleaded guilty to a charge of consuming liquor in a public place.

Court was told Mowat was checked by police at Colwood's Western Speedway Aug. 6. He was found to be drinking whiskey from a paper cup.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Daytime television watchers will see CBC-TV's Take 30 program take on a different character this season.

The public affairs show has gradually changed from an in-studio talks program to one which now includes portions from other parts of the world.

Stephen

This season, the show will have programs filmed on location in London, Paris, New York, Newfoundland and five African countries, including Senegal, Ivory Coast, Ghana, Nigeria and the Cameroons.

In fact, while the Take 30 crew was filming in Ghana, Kwame Nkrumah was overthrown. Executive-producer Leo Rampen managed to get the news film of the coup aftermath out of the country and Canadians saw a CBC-TV news scoop.

The show's co-hosts Adrienne Clarkson and Paul Soles will return along with regulars Madame Benoit, political analyst Paul Fox, as well as Joan Sutton with fashion trends.

A new departure this year is a series of 13 French instruction programs so that mothers can keep up with their children when they ask for school homework help.

Channel 12's first annual great movies film festival was so successful last season that the station is going ahead with a second version next week.

Six award-winning movies will be played in early evening viewing hours and five of them will be in color.

Starting Sunday at 6 p.m. and continuing Monday through Friday at 9 p.m. the movies are Annie Get Your Gun with Betty Hutton and Howard Keel; Teahouse of the August Moon with Marlon Brando and Glen Ford; Guy Madison in On The Threshold of Space; Audrey Hepburn in Green Mansions; Separate Tables with Deborah Kerr, Rita Hayworth and David Niven plus the Brothers Karamazov with Yul Brynner.

Only Separate Tables will be in black and white.

CBS-TV has tied up Andy Griffith for the next three years at least. He signed separate agreements to continue his Monday night comedy series through 1967-68, and to make one special a year for the next three years.

VANCOUVER (CP) — "To hell with parties."

With that, crusty newspaper editor Ma Murray launched a "no party" campaign to cut Premier W. A. C. Bennett down to size.

She said Wednesday she has sold a Peace River district farm to finance her campaign and was in Vancouver opening the battle lines.

She said she is willing to give her life to "reduce this man's great power."

Even, she said, "go to prison or anything that is necessary to pay back something to this province that has given me so much."

The editor of the weekly Bridge River-Lillooet News said she would conduct a broadcast campaign using "my shekels to save the people from the catastrophe that threatens them now.

Meanwhile, back in Lillooet, Mr. Bennett interrupted his Sept. 12 provincial election campaign to call Ma Murray and thank her.

HELPING US

But she wasn't there.

Said Ma Murray:

"I want to pound home some common sense to the people, to encourage the young people to kick out all of the present leaders and lead themselves."

The 79 - year - old newspaper woman said she has formed her own "no party" committee.

It's goal: prevent Mr. Bennett winning 45 of the 55 B.C. seats he is reported hopeful of winning. Social Credit held 32 of 52 seats in the last house.

"Let's get the best people we can and reduce this man's great power," she said.

HE'S IN TROUBLE

Mr. Bennett didn't have to call an election until Dec. 18, 1968, she said, but did so now because he's in trouble.

"And I intend to smoke out the trouble."

Well, said Mr. Bennett: "She may not be my friend but I'm her friend and I'll be her friend when I'm the last friend she has."

In Lillooet, Mr. Bennett appeared to have infiltrated the Murray camp.

Canadian Mine, Mill Won't Wed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian section of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) said Wednesday it won't merge with the Steelworkers' Union, regardless of what happens to the unions in the U.S.

Harvey Murphy, B.C. regional president and a Canadian vice-president of Mine-Mill said: "We here in Canada have no intention of becoming handmaidens to the steelworkers."

He was commenting on an announcement by officials of both unions in the U.S. that "substantial progress" had been made towards a merger.

"What the officers of Mine-Mill do in the U.S. is their own business," Mr. Murphy said.

AWARDED the Israeli prime minister's medal "for service in the cause of Israeli development" is John Bassett, publisher of the Toronto Telegram. The medal will be presented Oct. 19 in Toronto.

John Pettersen, 1061 Foul Bay, was fined $50 Wednesday in central court on being convicted of a charge of assault.

The Stadium Looked Like Berlin Border

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Beatles have come and gone, collecting $146,000 for moaning 10 songs in 27 minutes.

By way of social commentary, the pay of the four young English singers exceeded the combined annual salaries of the president and vice-president of the United States.

To the adult, a Beatle concert must be viewed as a social phenomenon, since it is impossible to enjoy as entertainment. Even those with a failing for some of the Beatle songs can find little pleasure because of inaudibility.

The Thomas group made its third annual pilgrimage to hear the Beatles. Naney, 18 and ready for college, showed no disenchantment for the mop-tops. Janet, 14, was in the full throes of fandom. Caroline, 8, was a new entry and not lacking in enthusiasm.

APPROPRIATE SETTING

This year the concert was in Dodger Stadium instead of Hollywood Bowl, and it seemed more fitting for the event to take place in a sports arena than in a citadel of longhair (the other kind) music.

Dodger Stadium looked somewhat like the Berlin border. Burly guards stood at the bottom and midway of each stairway leading to the field. Uniformed policemen with helmets and billyclubs lined the field, some of them communicating with walkie - talkies. Behind them were three rows of hurdles and a newly-erected wire fence.

Preliminary acts poured a torrent of noise through the public address system while the 40,000 onlookers grew restless and stared at each other. There was much to stare at. One bearded chap on my aisle wore the headdress and robes of an Arab sheik, another sported a green velvet cape.

SHE'S A HE

The girl next to me with the orange page-boy bob turned her head and I discovered she was a fellow.

At 9:33 the Beatles came out of the dugout at third base and it was noisy. Oh yes, it was. Signs began to unfurl all over the grandstand.

The guards at the bottom of the aisles eyed the masses uneasily. There was a charge of excitement in the crowd as a handful of teen-agers leaped out of the bleachers and raced toward the bandstand at second base.

Police quickly captured the invaders and led them off in handcuffs as the onlookers booed. Later, an officer on the field was hit in his rear by an orange hurled from the upper deck. The crowd cheered.

Review by the Thomas girls:

"They didn't sing enough new songs . . . George's hair was a mess . . . Paul was the only one who tried to please . . . They seemed bored . . . but they're cool . . . yes, they're cool . . . . I love the Beatles."

Russia Condemns Chinese

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin's leaders, for the first time since the fall of Nikita Khrushchev two years ago, have verbally blasted China.

The Communist party's ruling central committee Wednesday night blamed China for provoking a sharp deterioration in Sino-Soviet relations and said Peking's hard-line "cultural revolution" helped only the imperialists.

Need 300 Workers

PENTICTON (CP)—The Okanagan Valley Employment Service announced Wednesday it will launch a province-wide hunt next week for 300 farm laborers to replace students returning to school. "We don't expect any officulties in finding the labour," a spokesman said.

Air Rescue 'Copter Here

A dream came true Wednesday for Vancouver Island lighthouse keepers, remote area residents and men who follow the sea.

To be stationed permanently on the west coast, the seven-seater chopper will be a boon to rescue, search and emergency supply projects.

In particular, the turbine-powered craft will speed up present evacuation procedure for sick and injured men.

In the past, the department of transport has depended mostly on the small two-seater Bell helicopters.

But with a top speed of only 95 miles an hour, and no equipment for night flying, the Bells have proved very limiting.

Now, with the Alouette's superior speed — it can cruise at 130 miles an hour — and night-flying equipment, even the most remote spots of Vancouver Island are but a few hours away.

Said the department's chief pilot, Bob Masters: "With the Alouette we can pick up an injured man in Port Hardy and have him back in Victoria, all in the same day.

"Using the Bell it would be a two-day operation."

In addition, there is room beneath the huge rotor blades for extra luggage.

To test the $300,000 machine, if left Victoria's as yet unopened heliport today, to carry out a carpentry repair job at Chrome Island near Nanaimo.

Eagles, Alligators Secret Lives Shown

The film, Inherit the Wild, will be shown at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School auditorium by Canadian Audubon Society lecturer D. J. Nelson.

It gives an intimate look at wildlife in their natural state, including shots of an eagle taking a bath and an alligator building its nest and laying eggs.

Other films to be shown in the series are The Vanishing Sea, by Robert W. Davison, Nov. 4 and 5, a conservation story of life in the Great Basin of the western U.S.; Canada's Mountain Wilderness, by Edgar T. Jones, Jan 6 and 7, about wildlife inhabitants of the Canadian Rockies; and Land of the Drowned River, by Charles J. Stine, Feb. 10 and 11, about animals and birds of Maryland and Virginia.

The four are among 1,500 Audubon Wildlife Films shown each year in Canada and the U.S., and are considered the finest natural history films available. This is the 21st season they have been shown in Victoria.

Tickets are $1 each, season tickets $3 for four films. Student admission is 25 cents, and season tickets $1. Tickets are available at the Dogwood Gift Shoppe, 2224 Oak Bay Vve. and 1801 Fort, at Ford's Book Store, 641 Yates, and at the office of the Provincial Museum.

Minister Visits Northern Europe

Rev. Robert J. D. Morris of Victoria's First United Church is now en route to Moscow.

He will also visit Leningrad, Helsinki, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Amsterdam and London, England, before returning to Canada to attend a general council of the United Church at Waterloo, Ont., on Sept. 17.

He is expected to return to Victoria around Sept. 25.

Mr. Morris sailed from Yokahama, Japan, last week for the Rusian port of Nakhodka, and was to travel to Moscow by train.

For the past two months he has been engaged on missionary work for the Church of Christ in Japan under auspices of the board of world missions of the United Church of Canada.

CREATIVE SUMMER

In a letter to the congregation of First United Church, Mr Morris wrote:

"I would like to thank you all for the wonderful summer you have made it possible for me to spend in Christian service in Japan.

"It has been a most creative summer for me, and I trust it will enrich my ministry among you."

Rev. Marvin Fowler, assistant minister at First United, said Mr. Morris's visit to Russia had no direct connection with his missionary work.

"But he will undoubtedly have something to say about religious life under the Communist regime," Mr. Fowler said.

Sign Park Lease

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal Works Minister McIlraith will be in Vancouver Tuesday to sign a 99-year lease giving the city of Vancouver the former RCAF station at Kitsilano Beach for $1 a year. Mayor William Rathie will accept the land on behalf of the city, which will develop it for parkland.

'Ottawa Unrealistic On Hospital Needs'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A provincial Social Credit candidate accuses the federal government of being "blind and unrealistic" in its aid to hospital construction in British Columbia.

Dr. Lawrence Ranta, running in Point Grey, said Tuesday night Ottawa's $2,000-a-bed contribution hasn't changed since it cost $10,000 to provide a bed. It now costs $25,000 to $30,000.

"Let them (the federal government) keep their supreme confusion . . . but give us the money and we will build the kind of solid hospital services we need here."

He told a campaign meeting for the Sept. 12 provincial election the formula used to calculate federal contributions is "antiquated" and should be based on changing costs.

Dr. Ranta has been widely mentioned as the probable successor to retiring Health Minister Eric Martin, should he be elected.

HOLD BACK DISEASE

Nursing Home Takeover Urged

The provincial government should enter the nursing home business to relieve individuals of the high cost of chronic care, Oak Bay Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane suggested Wednesday night.

"The government should purchase all existing private hospitals and run them at a modest rate," he told about 50 persons at St. George the Martyr Anglican Church Hall in Cadboro Bay.

Mr. Macfarlane said he has been told the private nursing home operators would probably ask for $10,000 a bed.

To purchase the 3,800 beds in the province would cost $38,000,000 "and it's not as though the money is not there," he said.

"Last year the government spent $41 million to pay off the ferry debt which was supposed to be self-liquidating and they spent an additional $25 million to buy the remaining shares in the PGE railway.

MONEY AT HAND

"After doing all that we still had a $75 million surplus — the money is there."

Mr. Macfarlane said chronic care has been the subject of government promises "ever since I can remember."

He said five out of six Social Credit MLAs representing constituencies on Vancouver Island have not stood on their feet to ask for relief.

"But any government members who did speak out in the last legislature are not running in this election — they have been kicked out.

LOST FREEDOM

"There isn't freedom of expression in that house and this is proof of it," said Mr. Macfarlane.

He also attacked the government's role in settling labor problems.

He said an example of this is the government's refusal to discuss municipal-provincial tax-sharing agreements.

One way to accomplish labor peace would be to appoint a full-time labor minister, he said, instead of one minister holding both labor and education portfolios.

ONE-MAN RULE

He said there are other government members who would be well-suited for either position "but the cabinet is a very select group run by one man."

Mr. Macfarlane favored civil servants having collective bargaining rights "just like anybody else.

"But it is quite impossible to have people in the public service on strike and jeopardizing the economy."

He described Premier Bennett's home-buyers grant as a "bribe" and said the Liberals in Ottawa "weren't bright or callous enough to do the same thing with their $500 winter works building incentive grant."

Mr. Macfarlane forecast that unless a new municipal-provincial tax agreement is made homeowners taxes will rise and rise.

He said the Greater Victoria area would be in a particularly bad position because of large municipal spending on sewers and transportation in the near future.

No Food For Masses In 60 Years

LONDON, (UPI) — An American scientist has predicted here the world's doomsday will come Nov. 13, 2026 when it can no longer feed its population which by then should nearly be stumbling all over itself.

Dr. Robert White-Stevens, an American expert on fertilizers and insecticides, predicted the world on that day in the year 2026 the world's population will have reached 50 billion—or the point where there are more mouths to feed than food available and more bodies to house than land.

White-Stevens said such a large population would mean there would have to be 10,000 persons to every square mile of land in the world, including Antarctica and the Sahara Desert.

The scientist said the ultimate practical population of the world is 7 billion. It now has a population of 3.2 billion which is expanding by 7,000 persons a day, he said.

Ship Collision

LONDON (AP) — The British guided missile destroyer Devonshire and the British Sovereign, an oil tanker, collided in fog Wednesday in the approaches to the Kiel Canal in German waters, the defence ministry reported. Damage was minor.

Children Told 'Boss Yourself' At This School

OTTAWA (CP)—Sometimes you'd think that kids were invented so other people would have somebody to order around.

Mums and dads, schoolteachers, other kids—there's always someone pushing valuable information like "Open your books at page 103, class" or "If you do it that way, you'll wish you hadn't"

It gets so that when the orders stop, the kids do too.

"Some people are so used to being bossed around that they can't use freedom very well," says Eleanor Sim.

For the last 10 years, she has been helping children learn to tell themselves what to do at a summer school at Strathmere, her family farm near here.

Called the Valley School of the Arts, it had 103 children from nine to 14 this summer. They were spread over the working farm's 400 acres, singing, dancing, acting or painting with adult counsellors, hiking, swimming or playing baseball with other campers.

Or they could just sit around and talk or chew a stalk of hay and think if that's what they wanted to do.

"Ordinary camps are too regimented," says Mrs. Sim, a tall, attractive blonde with three children, Heather, 23, David, 20, and Robert, 18. She is a sociologist and her husband Alex, also a member of the school's board, is an anthropologist.

The kids at Strathmere arrive at 10 a.m. in two busloads after a 30-mile drive from Ottawa. The commuter-campers are divided into nine groups of 12, each with its own teen-age counsellor and club house.

PLAN OWN ACTIVITIES

In the morning each group meets and decides what it will do that day. Its members may decide on drama followed by art and playing in the hayloft. But whatever they do they do as a group.

"We hope they will become good leaders through being good group members," says Mrs. Sim. "Every member of an ideal group is a leader, and they rotate."

Dance counsellor is Elizabeth Langley, an Australian from the University of Ottawa physical education department. She says the idea of dancing offends the mind of a young boy but that the kind of dancing she introduces isn't what they expect.

One dance has the boys and girls moving "as imaginatively as possible" around group - designed arrangements of steps and blocks. Backward somersaults and walking on your hands are permitted.

Groups that choose art are helped by Montreal sculptor Edgard McIntyre in a converted one-room schoolhouse. The young Picassos turned the inside into an aquarium with swinging mobiles and fishy murals.

The emphasis is on group effort and individual works of art or writing are never exhibited alone. "Through working together the children learn that their individual effort means something in the total picture," Mr. McIntyre says.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Joe Goodwin, age 13, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:

What is the miller moth?

In olden times the farmers took their grain to the miller who ground the hard kernels into powdery flour. This was a dusty job and the grain grinder was often a very dusty miller. The miller moth was named for the dusty, white powder on its wings.

The miller is a noctuid member of the Noctuidae moth family. These insects are plentiful, and chances are the suicidal moth around the patio lantern is a miller. Their scientific family name is coined from the Latin word for night owl because the noctuids have remarkable eyes that glow like golden owl eyes in the dark. A more common name for them is the owlet moths, and at least 2,500 species make their homes in North America.

Owlet moths of the tropics are big and beautiful. Some have colorful, velvety wings a foot wide. Most of our owlets wear sober shades of mottled browns and greys, and their wingspan is no wider than two inches. When captured, they shed a cloud of dusty powder that reminds people of the dusty miller of olden days.

The winged millers are adult insects. Like all the moths, they go through an egg, a larva and a pupa stage before emerging as winged adults. The adults sip sap and other sweet juices from flowers, fruit and leafy plants. This can be a destructive habit, especially in an orchard. But the damage is nothing compared to that done by the larval caterpillars of the miller moth.

Thrive on Sprouting Seeds

These greedy pests are the cutworms who thrive in loose soil and piles of garden trash. They thrive on the tender shoots of sprouting seeds. If the seeds you planted in your vegetable garden fail to produce shoots, you can suspect cutworms. The greedy little monsters devour our future crops of beets and beans, peas and pumpkins before they have a chance to grow their first leaves.

Sometimes the miller caterpillar population builds up and the cutworms are called army worms. Acres of crops are destroyed and, like the lemmings, the army worms run out of food. However, unlike the lemmings, they do not depart on suicidal journeys to find fresh supplies.

The adult millers rest with their wings outspread. Their colors match their backgrounds of wood and bark and fallen vegetation, making them almost invisible. They tend to rest by day, hiding in the cracks of tree trunks. Some are slim enough to crawl under the bark, and some of the miller moths hibernate through the winter as adults.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Karen Tittsworth, age 10, of Rockford, Ill., for her question:

What exactly is peat moss?

We buy bags of this lovely springy stuff and spread it on the ground to make the garden grow. This material is dead, dried peat moss. It was once a thick carpet of green growing mosses. Living peat moss likes moist, boggy soil and chances are it grew in or around an old lake. Many swamps and marshes and stretches of drowned land are clogged with layers of peat moss.

The top layer is often vivid green. Below it are other layers of dead, soggy mosses. Sometimes the swamp dries up and the land drains. People may then dig out the spongy old peat moss and use it instead of coal to make fires. If an old peat bog is left for millions of years, the ancient mosses may change into real coal.

BEFORE STORMS

Raising Of Green This Fall

The department of transport has called for tenders for removal of the Green before Oct. 31.

Max's historic vessel has been lying on the bottom of the Inner Harbor since April this year when, after many years, the rotting hull finally gave up the ghost.

Although it poses no threat to shipping lanes at present, the DOT feels it should be moved before winter storms wash it from its present position into the harbor's main channel.

Despite an earlier bid by a private group to have the Green restored and preserved as an historic monument, no money has been forthcoming for this purpose.

Said marine agent Larry Slaught: "Although Mr. Lohbrunner isn't technically financially responsible for the Green's removal, the department has offered to foot the bill."

Native Rights Champion On N.W.T. Bench

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of William Morrow of Edmonton as judge of the territorial court of the Northwest Territories was announced Wednesday by Justice Minister Cardin.

A member of the bars of Alberta, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, Mr. Morrow has represented Eskimos and Indians in a number of important cases and has argued appeals on their ancient hunting and fishing rights before the Supreme Court of Canada.

'Engine Orchestra' On Soviet Satellite

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet mystery satellite Luna XI contains "an entire orchestra of rocket engines," Pravda said Wednesday.

The Communist party publication gave the first brief description of some of the equipment aboard the unmanned spaceship but gave no hint of the 3,615-pound vehicle's mission.

Luna XI went into orbit around the moon Saturday night. Monday night it sent back picture signals which were picked up at Britain's Jodrell Bank tracking station. Signals from Luna XI were picked up at Jodrell Bank again Tuesday night, but scientists there said these were not picture signals.

The Soviets announced the moon orbit some 36 hours after it was achieved but have said nothing about pictures being taken.

Vladimir Orlov, writing in Pravda from the ground centre controlling Luna XI, said the spaceship contained in addition to its main power system a breaking engine installation and "four directing engines with comparatively small thrust."

Orlov said the directing engines worked on compressed gas.

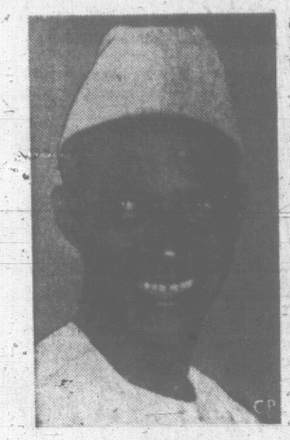
SIERRA LEONE PM:

'Get Tougher With Rhodesia'

LONDON (CP)—The prime minister of Sierra Leone, a long-time advocate of the use of force to put down Rhodesia's illegal government, said today the only alternative to force is mandatory sanctions.



SIR ALBERT
. . . Smith must go

"In my view nothing else will even shake the illegal regime in Rhodesia," Sir Albert Margai told a press conference.

Sir Albert, here to attend the conference of Commonwealth prime ministers beginning next Tuesday, said the Rhodesia issue seems to be weakening the Commonwealth already.

Sierra Leone is "ready to withdraw from the Commonwealth if there are not satisfactory promises of action" at the prime ministers' conference, he said. "That will have to be decided, but I do not rule it out."

The fact that only 14 of 23 Commonwealth nations would be represented by their heads of state at the conference "is a sign of what might happen to the Commonwealth as a result of this Rhodesian issue."

"So many people are fed up with this issue, that perhaps some of them thought it would be the best thing to stay away rather than to aggravate their relations with Britain."

ADVOCATED FORCE

Sir Albert, a heavy-set 55-year-old barrister, was described mockingly by Prime Minister Wilson last January as the "great military stragetist" for advocating the use of force against Rhodesia.

Asked about the comment today, Sir Albert insisted that the "only correct and perhaps the easiest and least costly solution would be military intervention to achieve the restoration of democratic government in Rhodesia."

If Britain would take the lead in such intervention, she could then "be assured that she would not be lacking aid from the Commonwealth."

The Sierra Leone leader kept up a jocular tone throughout the press conference, but insisted firmly that the breakaway government of Ian Smith in Rhodesia must be brought down.

Soviet Bans Warren Report

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Soviet government has ordered the U.S. embassy in Moscow to stop distributing the Russian-language text of the Warren commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The U.S. embassy spokesman said 653 copies of the report had been distributed to Kremlin leaders and prominent correspondents when the ban was imposed.

He said John Guthrie, charge d'affaires, was called to the foreign ministry Aug. 24 and told to halt the distribution of the book.

The distribution of the report was an attempt to make known the official American view of the assassination and the circumstances surrounding it.

HOME GARDEN

Colchicums Blooming Throughout District

By HILDA BEASTALL

These goblets rise out of the bare soil almost overnight, and within a few days a cluster of five or six are likely to appear from the one large, smooth-skinned bulb.

Hilda

Colchicums (pronounced kol'-ki-kims) are charming, and over the years of gardening in Victoria, I have never tired of them. They act as a pleasant warning of the passage of time, reminding me of all the summer tasks to be completed or at least attempted, before the fall shows begin.

Having no leaves at flowering time, colchicums rely solely on their own color, texture and shape for popularity.

While the mauve-pink color of Colchicum autumnale major (still sometimes listed as C. byzantinus) is the most commonly seen, there is a pure white C. speciosum album. And in one special garden 10 years ago I saw some that were dark wine-red, the name of them has escaped me, but I see a hybrid named Violet Queen listed in a Dutch wholesale catalogue as "deep purplish-violet."

Descriptions of colchicum colors are as arbitrary as ever, for their colors deepen after they emerge from the bulb, and change according to the amount of light around them.

Early morning light perhaps brings out most color, yet another gardener will love the colchicums most just before dusk, others in the full warm sun of noon.

How true it is that beauty lies in the eye of the beholder!

The colchicum bulbs can still be planted, since they commence rooting as flowering ceases, and once in the garden will increase over the years.

An important point of their culture as with all bulbs is to permit their large, broad leaves, which appear in spring, to mature naturally before removing them.

'Broaden Divorce Grounds'

WINNIPEG (CP)—Sub-sections of the Canadian Bar Association endorsed a host of recommendations — among them resolutions calling for new grounds for divorce and a national law reform commission—as they reached the halfway point in annual convention Wednesday.

In an all-but-unanimous vote, the civil justice section sent to the resolutions committee a recommendation that desertion without just cause, voluntary separation of husband and wife for a three-year period, incurable unsoundness of mind or wilful refusal to consummate a marriage be added to adultery, rape, sodomy and bestiality as grounds for divorce.

And the administrative law section was solidly behind a resolution that a national law reform commission be established.

The divorce resolution is aimed at ensuring that children of broken marriages are protected when their parents part.

Under terms of the draft proposal no divorce decree would be issued unless the court was satisfied in respect to children under 16 that:

—Arrangments for the care and upbringing of the child had been made and were satisfactory or were the best that could be devised in the circumstances, or

—It was unpractical for the party or parties appearing before the court to make any such arrangements.

GROUNDS FEW

In most areas of Canada adultery is generally the sole ground for divorce with cruelty an additional ground in Nova Scotia.

The resolution calling for a law reform commission did not specify how such a commission might be organized, but it passed with no amendments following a seven-member panel discussion.

Hon. Sir Edmund Davies, English High Court judge who sat on the panel, suggested that a law reform commission should be concerned with the form, arrangement that procedures of law as much as with its substance.

Edward W. Kuhn, president of the American Bar Association, also supported a law reform commission — he noted that there was no such body in the U.S. — but other panellists hedged on the proposal.

Perrault Casgrain of Rimouski, Que., vice-president of the CBA, said he could not see that a law reform commission would be very useful.

Parliament makes the law, he said, "which implies reforming them."

Mr. Casgrain suggested that law reform commissioners might have less competence in making law than judges and parliamentarians and a parliamentary commission, appointed to review laws, might be more effective.

CITES ONTARIO

A. Gordon Cooper of Halifax, honorary treasurer of the CBA, said a law reform commission could concern itself only with federal law. He used Ontario's commission as an example of what might be accomplished by provincial law reform conferences.

Another resolution Wednesday —by the criminal justice section—suggested that persons charged with causing death by criminal negligence or threat to murder be allowed to elect trial by magistrate or by judge and jury.

The criminal code stipulates that the two charges can be tried only by judge and jury.

The same section of the CBA also endorsed a resolution requesting a new law making it illegal to fail to observe a condition of a court-imposed recognizance.

The commercial law committee did not produce a resolution but did hear a call for commercial lawyers to become more interested in the individual citizen and less in big business.

Jacob Ziegel, chairman of the Saskatchewan Bar Association's committee on commercial law, said the rights of the individual citizen are as important as the rights of the business community, but the business community has far better legal representation.

Injunctions 'Desirable'

WINNIPEG (CP)—The use of injunctions in labor disputes is a desirable necessity, the Canadian Bar Association was told Wednesday.

In a majority of cases, said J. D. Lambert of Vancouver, criminal prosecution is not available to curb illegal picketing.

Mr. Lambert told the labor relations section of the association, holding its annual meeting here, that the alternative remedy of damages leaves much to be desired.

One drawback is that damages can be enormous in labor cases, he said, and collecting them can be an impossible task.

'Legal Murder' If Abortion Laws Changed

HAMILTON (CP) — Delegates attending the closing sessions Wednesday of the national conference of the Catholic Womens' League of Canada were warned that widening the country's abortion laws would make murder legal.

Most Rev. Thomas McCarthy, Bishop of St. Catharines and the league's national director, said the Roman Catholic Church allows therapeutic abortion, but only in the case where the fetus is growing outside the womb.

The concept of abortion beyond that could lead within the next 10 years to the practice of destroying newborn babies, he said, because they are deformed.

More than 150 delegates attending the four-day convention unanimously approved a motion urging the federal government to resist all efforts to broaden the existing abortion laws in Canada.

Bishop McCarthy said therapeutic abortion at present is allowed when three doctors rule a mother's life is endangered by the pregnancy.

'THIS IS MURDER'

If the law is broadened, Bishop McCarthy said, it would allow abortions for all reasons, not just for therapeutic purposes. "The only stand we can take as Catholics is to convince people that this is murder."

In other resolutions the CWL asked the federal government to increase the tax exemption for dependent children to $400 from the present $300 and raise the exemption for married persons to $3,000.

The league also appealed to the attorneys - general of the provinces to enforce the section of the Criminal Code dealing with pornographic literature.

A recommendation urging league members to inquire about the attitudes and opinions on all matters of candidates seeking public office also passed.

In an earlier address, William Dyson, executive director of the Federation of Catholic Charities, said Canada should establish the world's first research centre on social affiars if the country is serious about waging war on poverty.

Poor Run Blamed On Sprays

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indiscriminate use of insecticides at Interior Shuswap Lake in 1963 was indirectly blamed Wednesday for a relatively poor Adams River sockeye run this year.

The 1966 Fraser River sockeye season ended Wednesday with a negligible catch — the entire Puget Sound fleet caught only 8,500 fish in the last week.

Dr. Lloyd Royal, director of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, said the Adams River run suffered a serious loss in 1963; and many more fry may have died in 1964 from after effects of the spraying. But, he added, low ocean survival of unknown cause could have been the chief factor in the decline of this year's run.

Seiners in the Strait of Juan de Fuca on Tuesday and Wednesday averaged only five salmon per boat, while gilnetters averaged three.

"Never in history," said Dr. Royal, "have we had a run drop off as suddenly as this year."

Despite an upsurge expected from the Adams River escapement now sitting in the Gulf of Georgia waiting to go up the Fraser, the commission recommended that there be no further sockeye fishing this season.

STILL HOPING

The commission was optimistic there would be a fair number of Adams fish returning to spawn but less than 1,000,000 fish are expected and this was judged insufficient for re-opening the season.

Despite claims that the Adams run was affected by insecticides, the Seymour run, which is also of Shuswap origin, was not damaged, suggesting the high mortality rate was caused by the unknown factor in the ocean.

TROUT, TOO

Dr. Royal felt, however, that the Chinook salmon run was almost wiped out by the 1963 spraying campaign in the Shuswap area.

He said the spraying of small lakes and creeks is bound to have adverse effect on trout and salmon populations.

Dean of Science

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Klaus E. Rieckhoff, 38, Wednesday was appointed Dean of Science of Simon Fraser University. Dr. Riekhoff arrived here as a landed immigrant in 1952 with only seven dollars. He eventually found work and put himself through university, obtaining his B.Sc. from the university of B.C. in 1958, his master's degree in 1959 and a doctorate in 1962.

'SUFFERING IN VIET NAM . . . . . A REPROACH TO HUMANITY'

Thant Quits; Cites Hopeless Task

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U Thant announced today he will quit as United Nations secretary-general when his current five-year term expires Nov. 3 and will not seek re-election.

In a 1,000-word letter of resignation, Thant cited the UN's financial difficulties and the grave international situation, which he said he believed was remorselessly leading to major war.

He said the sufferings of the people of Viet Nam were "a constant reproach to the conscience of humanity" and that "tragic error" was being made in reliance on force in the "deceptive pursuit of peace."

An informant said Thant asked the Security Council to recommend a successor to the General Assembly.

The decision of the soft-spoken Burmese, taken despite heavy pressure from UN members, including Russia and the United States raised the prospect of an east-west clash over selection of a candidate for the post.

Thant also alluded to the absence of Communist China from the UN, saying that he had "a sense of dissatisfaction with the fact that the organization has not yet achieved universality of membership." He said:

"I believe I am not alone in this feeling. Many of the problems facing the world today, be they regional or global, become more intractable because of this circumstance.

"This is true, for example, of the lack of progress in such vital fields as disarmament."

The text of the letter, sent to every member state's delegation here, was not immediately released officially by the UN, but the contents became known from early recipients of the document.

Thant said he was sure his decision not to stand for a second term would not be misconstrued and he was leaving the Security Council unfettered in the appointment of his successor.

Informed sources said urgent consultations now would be held privately among council members and the council might meet behind closed doors within a few days, though probably not during the weekend.

Thant's decision raised the prospect of new East - West wrangling over a successor, similar to that in 1961, before the Burmese was chosen.

18% Not Ceiling PM Tells House

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today that the 18-per-cent wage increase over two years provided in the government's strike-ending railway bill can be revised upwards through mediation or, possibly, arbitration.

He was replying to David Lewis (NDP-York South) who maintained that earlier statements by cabinet ministers had left the impression that 18 per cent would be a ceiling.

Mr. Pearson spoke in the Commons after the government formally proposed an amendment to write 1967 minimum wage increases into its bill to halt the strike which began last Friday. The bill already contained 1966 increases of 4 per cent, retroactive to January 1, and another 4 per cent retroactive to July 1.

The government's move was immediately followed by demands from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government also add a general statement of principle to remove the railwaymen's "fear of a continuing reduction of jobs."

Labor Minister Nicholson, replying to Mr. Diefenbaker, said the government gave assurance Wednesday night that fringe benefits and job security would be dealt with when the relevant section of the bill was reached.

'Moral Guarantee,' Says Gov't.

Several government spokesmen — including Mr. Pearson, Immigration Minister Marchand and Health Minister MacEachen — had argued that because the 1966 increases followed the recommendations of two conciliation board reports, the bill carried a "moral guarantee" that workers would end up with no less than the 18 per cent recommended by the boards for two years. The 18-per-cent proposals were rejected by the unions and the railway companies.

The Commons met at 10 a.m. — 4½ hours earlier than usual — to continue study of the 11-clause strike bill.

Mr. Pearson said fears that the 18 per cent will become a ceiling are based on "invalid and unwarranted" interpretations of government statements.

Mediation and, if that fails, arbitration would be free to revise that figure.

"There is nothing to justify the interpretation that this is a ceiling," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker poked fun at Mr. Marchand and Mr. MacEachen for their previous defence of the bill as written.

When the government changed its mind and agreed to the amendment the two ministers "were laid out flat on the floor."

"Even Casslus Clay never equalled knocking out two ministers within a few minutes," he said with a chuckle.

Demanding inclusion in the bill of a general statement of principle about fringe benefits and job security, Mr. Diefenbaker said he had in mind the fact that the unions rejected the conciliation board reports recommending 18-per-cent increases.

Each Individual to Get 18%

Mr. Pearson in reply said he can't speak for the union leaders but that he has confidence in the law-abiding character of Canadians.

Mr. Nicholson accepted a proposal by H. A. Olson (SC — Medicine Hat) that the bill provide a specific guarantee that each individual employee receive at least an 18 per cent increase if the dispute goes before an arbitration board.

Mr. Olson had argued that the railways, by averaging out the various wage rates, might wind up granting an 18 per cent average increase that left some classes of employees with increases of less than that.

Meanwhile, leaders of the unions refused comment today after holding an hour-long meeting in a downtown hotel.

"We want to see the legislation as passed before making any statements," said W. J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

(In Vancouver leaders of the province's 10,000 strikers said their members likely will reject the latest back-to-work proposal.

(The chairman of the workers' strike committee said the unions want more than the 18 per cent increase included in the Commons bill "and we don't believe there is much chance" of this under the bill.

("If the legislation passes and the men don't go back, it will be interesting to see the government try to arrest more than 100,000 men," said John Patrick O'Brien.

Compulsory Arbitration Big Fear

(Mr. O'Brien said the men are "afraid of compulsory arbitration," provided for in the legislation if no agreement is reached through further negotiation by Nov. 15.)

The break in a fractious three-day debate came at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday when Labor Minister Nicholson announced the amendment to the legislation.

The original bill introduced Monday set down a four-per-cent increase effective last Jan. 1 and another four per cent effective last July 1. Wage rates for 1967 were left to negotiation or arbitration.

This eight-per-cent interim settlement was denounced as totally inadequate by strike leaders and the Conservative and New Democratic parties.

Threats were voiced that the workers would defy Parliament and remain on strike.

The cabinet met several times Wednesday and ministers began

95 Die in Crash Of U.K. Airliner

WRECKAGE of chartered British airliner lies under trees on Yugoslavia hillside after crash killed 95 of 117 persons aboard. (AP Wirephoto.)

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — A British airliner carrying 117 persons on a vacation to Yugoslavia crashed and burned today as it came in for a landing and 95 persons were killed.

Officials here said 80 persons died when the plane plunged into a woods shortly after midnight Wednesday night in cloudy weather near the airport of this mountain city.

The other victims died in hospitals or on the way. Officials said that of the 22 survivors, two were in serious condition but the others were out of danger.

Rescue workers said those who survived had nearly all been seated in the back of the plane.

WEPT WITH SHOCK

When the first rescuers appeared, about a dozen survivors were stumbling about, weeping in shock and hysteria.

The plane had just cleared the snow - covered peaks of north Yugoslavia's Julian Alps which rim this prosperous and modern capital of Slovenia. It was coming in for a normal landing when it crashed in a field near the runway.

ALL TOURISTS

In the confusion of the crash there were conflicting reports whether the plane crashed while landing or while taking off on a return flight. But authorities confirmed that the crash occurred as the plane was coming in from London, two hours and 25 minutes after takeoff.

The Brifannia 102 plunged into a field near Ljubljana's Brnik Airport in the vicinity of the village of Modemnda.

COMPANY CHARTERS

Britannia Airways does charter work for British travel agencies. The company was formerly called Eucavia Limited, and is a subsidiary operation of Lord Thomson, Canadian-born publisher.

The plane that crashed was a Britannia airliner of a type that used to be known as "the whispering giant." The plane and the airline have the same name by coincidence.

The last major crash involving a British - owned airliner was on March 5 when a British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 jet crashed near Tokyo with the loss of 124 lives.

Britannias have a generally good safety record. The last one to crash, also a charter plane, came down in the mountains near Innsbruck, Austria, in February, 1964, killing 83 persons.

BOAC used to run a fleet of Britannias which are powered by four Bristol Siddeley turboprop engines. But the state-owned airline withdrew them from service when pure jet planes became available in large numbers.

The Ljubljana disaster was Britannia Airways' first accident since the company was formed five years ago.

CABINET TOO BUSY

Elections First, Then Ferries

Premier Bennett will not go out of his way to meet with licensed officers of the British Columbia ferry service who are threatening to quit en masse if their demands for collective bargaining are not met by next Thursday.

Capt. Cecil Rhodes, secretary of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, today said he will make further efforts to see Mr. Bennett today to arrange an immediate meeting.

He was unable to contact Mr. Bennett in Vancouver Wednesday although reporters did and were told by the premier that the guild will have to go through regular channels.

Mr. Bennett said the representatives of the 250 licensed officers involved should see the ferry authority and civil service commission officials first about their problems.

If they still are not satisfied, they can arrange to meet with the cabinet in the normal way, he said.

"However, it would be difficult to arrange a meeting with the cabinet this week since they're all out campaigning in different parts of the province," Mr. Bennett said.

PM to List Priorities

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the government will announce legislative priorities, including medical care insurance, as soon as the Commons completes study of rail strike and transportation legislation.

GI Shoots Vietnamese Woman

SAIGON (CP) — A Vietnamese woman selling bread on a busy Saigon street was killed today when an American soldier took a shot at a taxi driver.

The shooting took place just before noon in a block crowded with bars, restaurants and American billets. Within minutes the area was swarming with American military police and Vietnamese policemen on the alert for Viet Cong violence aimed at disrupting the Sept. 11 election.

PFC Wallace Frazier, 21, of Philadelphia was detained in connection with the death. Two other soldiers with Frazier were taken into custody but were released later.

An official said an American soldier got out of the taxi at the busy intersection and an argument with the driver took place.

One pistol shot was fired, hitting 33-year-old Dam Thi Mong, who was selling bread a few yards away, in the heart.

Her husband and children wept over her body as it lay beside laden food baskets.

Mayor Seeks Troops

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — A Nego man was critically wounded by a shotgun blast in front of his home early today, touching off sporadic violence in Dayton's predominately Negro west side. The mayor declared a state of emergency and asked for national guard troops to keep order.

DE GAULLE ON VIET NAM:

States Won't Lose Prestige on Pull-Out

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters)—President de Gaulle of France today urged the United States to agree to withdraw its forces from Viet Nam and accept internationally-guaranteed neutralization of the Indochina area.

In a major speech before 60,000 persons in Phnom Penh's vast Olympic Stadium, the French president declared the United States is so powerful and has such prestige that it could afford to give up an "expedition" in a faraway land that has no benefit or justification.

Acceptance of an international arrangement bringing peace to this important area would in no way finally injure American pride, thwart U.S. ideals or jeopardize its interests, he said.

De Gaulle said France is certain the Viet Nam war will lead to no military solution, "short of the universe moving toward catastrophe."

ISN'T COMMUNIST VIEW

De Gaulle did not call for withdrawal of American forces as a prelude to negotiations—as North Viet Nam and its Communist supporters have demanded—but said:

"The possibility and even more, the opening of such a vast and difficult negotiation (to end the war) would obviously depend on the decisions and commitments which America would previously have chosen to take and enter into to repatriate its forces at an appropriate and fixed period of time."

De Gaulle took a gloomy view of the results if the U.S. does not follow the course he suggested.

"If this does not happen," he said, no mediation will offer any prospect of success, and this is why France, for its part, has never envisioned and does not envision proposing any."

While admitting that "it is unbelievable that the American military display should ever be annihilated in the field," de

Tanker Adrift

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (UPI) — The Coast Guard reported today an Italian tanker with 40 men aboard was adrift in storm tossed seas. The ship's engine room was reported flooding and at least one man was dead.

The Coast Guard said the tanker Alberto Bennatti was being pounded by "75 to 80 mile an hour winds" from the outer fringes of hurricane Faith.

'COME UP HERE AND WRESTLE,' SAYS LOFFMARK

Ralph Takes Up Arms Against Hecklers

By TERRY IZZARD

The Social Credit party's secret strongarm man revealed himself Wednesday night.

He's Ralph Loffmark.

His challenge came during an explosive 10-minute slanging session after Mr. Loffmark said there were no working men among NDP members in the legislature.

"Are there any in the Social Credit government?" shouted one excited member of the audience.

When no one wanted to twist arms, he taunted:

"I've met your sort before and they last about two days (doing a hard day's work)."

While no one was prepared to test their physical strength against the fighting minister, there was no shortage of verbal contestants.

Several members of the audience were provoked by Mr. Loffmark's comparison of the New Democratic Party with East Germany's socialist party.

"If the socialist state of East Germany is convinced a socialist government is good for them, would they need machine-guns?" asked Mr. Loffmark.

LOFFMARK . . . fighting fit

"These guns are pointed at the people being held in there — at people who want to leave. They see no future for themselves.

"These are the issues today."

Shouted someone from the floor: "You can do better than that."

"Tell us about Viet Nam," said another.

And another: "What about the machine-guns?"

The chairman twice tried to restore order but each time was waved back to his seat by Mr. Loffmark.

Arthur Mayse

Last week, you may recall, energetic Oak Bay Marina operator Bob Wright came up with a plea for the dogfish. What we should do, Mr. Wright suggested is attempt to glamorize this slinky saltchuck bandit with the mean eye, the underslung chin, and the dental equipment that makes nothing of nylon leaders.

Like practically every other sport fisherman in these parts, I greeted the proposal with a loud haw-haw. The dogfish is a pest . . . a bait- thieving nuisance who deserves nothing better than a bang on the snoot and a gingerly unhooking when he loafs up from the depths.

Then in came a chum from a trip to Deep Cove with an account which gave me pause.

He was trolling a course off the cove mouth when the American visitor close alongside hooked a coho salmon, winched it in, and released it.

Minutes later, the tourist hit another coho, which he also played to the boat and set free.

"Hey," our fellow hollered across, "how come?"

"If these blankety-blank salmon would quit pestering," his neighbor replied, "may be I could catch one of those little sharks. You know . . . dogfish? I want one to mount for my collection, and I'm not having any luck."

All of which goes to show that glamor, like beauty, lies in the eye of the beholder. Still, I wish his bad luck would happen to me!

★

This is the good time of the year when everything's ripe or ripening . . . when the milky-kerneled local corn has ousted the discouraged. California ears from the market bins, and the first of the Netted Gem potatoes are ready for mashing.

There's worse to be done with a spare hour or two on a smoke-tinged afternoon than go stand-prowling along the roads, with a jingle of quarters in pocket or purse, and a couple of fifty-cent pieces.

You may find fresh carrots that parted from the soil that morning, or great sunbursts of August dahlias sheafed in fruit-juice cans. It may be a treasure of juicy golden plums, or small potatoes with the garden dirt still behind their ears, or corn nubbins at a giveaway price, to take home for freezing.

The stands used to be closer in; but city streets and city ways are extending ever farther along the peninsula, and our country customs retreat before the invasion.

But it's a good excuse for an airing, especially if your route takes you past dogwoods in second bloom, and home when a pumpkin moon is rising.

Except for our senior educators, nobody is much concerned with school between June's end and the start of September.

However, the time's fast approaching when our generation of big-footed young will be cramming summer's toes into autumn's shoes, and signing up for another round of high-school courses.

For these, a suggestion:

If you can possibly manage it, and no matter what you propose to work at when sprung, make typing one of your courses.

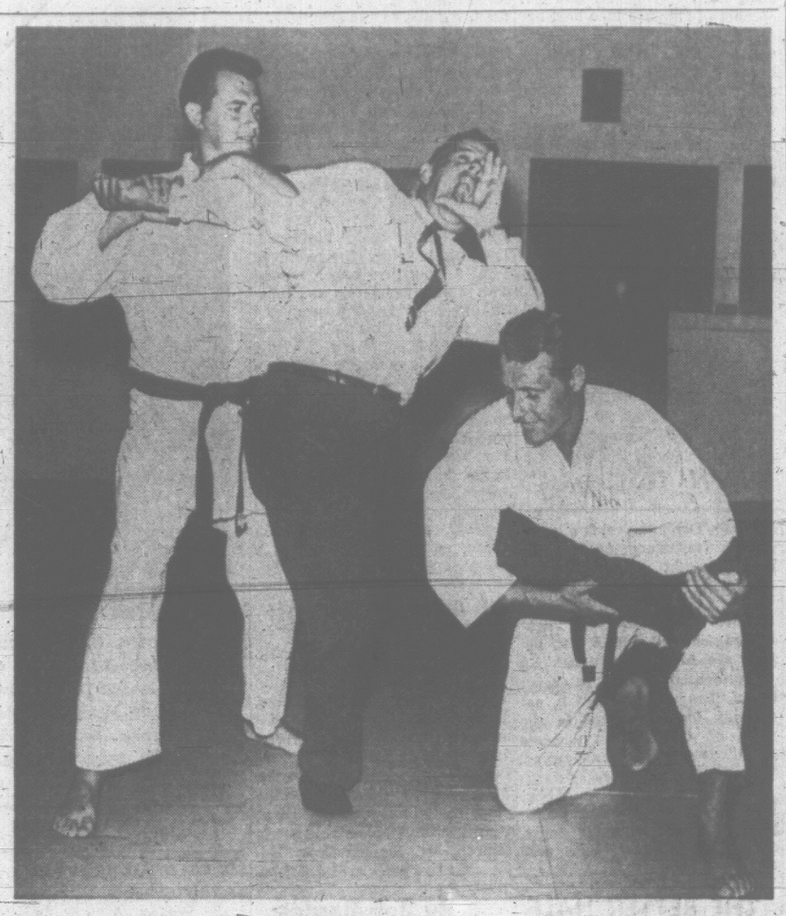
You have no idea how important this relatively simple accomplishment can prove in later years.

It can mean a job in hand which, without typing ability, would be lost to you, or more dollars on your pay cheque.

If you ever undertake to run your own small business, reasonable typing proficiency will help you cut the overhead. By the same token, it's a darn useful gift to bring to a marriage.

In newspapering, the ability to belabor a mill is, of course, essential, and the rare new reporter who lacks it must learn under forced draft how to think through a typewriter. There's no time on a modern paper for copper-plate.

Shorthand you may or may not require, depending on what line you plan to follow. But do yourself a good turn, and consider touch typing under competent instruction, an educational must!



He hollered UNCLE and agreed the crowds at Saanichton Fair this weekend will cry for MORE! That was the experience of the fair's entertainment organizer Bud Mesher when he asked black-belt members of Victoria Judo Club to show him some of the "stuff" they'll be demonstrating in an outdoor display at the exhibition. Obliging him are Garry Bosence, left, president of the Judo Club, and Nick Van de Ruyt, vice-president. In addition to the judo show, Mesher promises a top-rate gymnastic display by the YMCA to include athletes from various parts of Canada who are attending a "camp" here now prior to going to the world championships in Europe. The two groups will perform Monday afternoon while on Saturday and Monday entertainment will be provided also by the Midnight Ramblers, local western music group. (Times photo.)

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 77?

The highway death toll will take a leap this weekend as motorists take to the road for the Labor Day holiday.

While Victoria Motor Vehicles Branch reports an increase in British Columbia deaths for the first seven months of this year, the Canadian Highway Safety Council grimly forecasts 77 additional deaths throughoiut the country this weekend.

Last Labor Day 71 people died. The year before there were 82.

So far this year, 244 people have been killed in traffic mishaps, an increase of 24 on the first seven months of 1965.

In July alone, 45 people died, 19 fewer than the previous year. But injuries were up 20 per cent from 1,491 to 1,792.

In the overall period, 9,909 people were injured, up 19 per cent from a year ago.

Estimated property damage caused by vehicles was up 17 per cent to $2,215,285.

Mishaps in July were also up 13 per cent over last year at 3,512.

Advised a safety council spokesman: "Drive defensively this weekend, be courteous, watch out for the other guy and be alert to dangerous situations."

Five-Year-Old Termed 'Fair' After Collision

Struck by Truck On Glanford Ave.

Saanich police said David Freer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Freer, 584 Judah, was knocked or carried 10 to 20 feet when he ran into the path of a sedan delivery driven by William James Armstrong, 27, of 808 Mann.

The accident happened in front of Glanford School. The boy had moved to the centre of the road and tried to retrace his steps when Mr. Armstrong honked his horn, officers said.

In another Saanich accident Wednesday evening, Dawson Fairchild, 77, of Oregon City, Ore., was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with back injuries following a rear end collision at Glanford and the Pat Bay highway.

Reported in good condition today, he and his wife, Iva, with Miss Volda Hogg were passengers in a car being driven by Barbara Fairchild which was struck from the rear by an auto driven by Nancy Saunders, 1231 Judge Place.

Children Suspect In Fires

A chimney fire which spread to a basement wall caused an estimated $150 damage to a house at 1128 Leonard St. Wednesday afternoon.

City firemen had to chop into the wall at the home of J. McMaster to get at the blaze.

Children are suspected of setting a fire under the steps at 391 Conway the same afternoon which spread to the kitchen but caused only minor damage.

H. L. W. Pruim told firemen he believed faulty wiring may have touched off the blaze. The cause is still under investigation.

Damage was estimated at $50 when the front seat of a car parked at Fort and Wharf caught fire later in the afternoon. The car is owned by John Starch. Firemen suspect a cigarette butt.

Firemen today questioned a young boy believed to have started a similar fire earlier in the afternoon in the upholstery of an abandoned car parked in a vacant lot in the 1000 block Carberry Gardens.

Run to Freedom Ends in Crash

Roadblock Stops Convict

An escaped convict ended his freedom amid the shattered debris of a stolen car early today after a heart-stopping chase at 100 miles an hour along the Malahat.

George William Plowman, who escaped from William Head prison Monday night, suffered only minor injuries when he failed to squeeze his car past an RCMP roadblock near Mill Bay.

In a desperate bid to shake pursuit he tried to swing his speeding car around a tractor-trailer straddling the highway.

TURNED OVER

His auto hit the road embankment, was thrown against the truck and flipped over.

He was taken to Veterans' Hospital in Victoria where he was expected to be turned back to police later today.

Colwood and Duncan RCMP detachments combined to catch the 22-year-old Winnipeg man who was serving time for breaking and entering when he escaped from the minimum security prison 10 miles west of Victoria.

The chase began about 2 a.m. when Constable John McDiarmid of the Colwood detachment spotted a stolen car at the Thetis Lake overpass. The auto had been taken from a Colwood service station the night of Plowman's escape.

RADIOED FOR HELP

The 10-year-old stolen auto sped north on the Trans-Canada Highway with the Colwood cruiser in pursuit.

Constable McDiarmid radioed for help from the Duncan detachment and Constable Jim Swanson comandeered a Weston's Bakery tractor trailer for a roadblock about five miles south of Mill Bay. The huge transport was parked to straddle the road.

TOO NARROW

The chase ended when Plowman's car found the gap in front of the barricade too narrow.

A William Head spokesman said today the escapee likely will not be returned to prison until he has faced further charges.

Plowman had been transferred from prison in Winnipeg, he said, to assist in his rehabilitation.

CO-OP HOUSING COMING FOR STUDENTS AT UVIC

A co-op housing system is being planned by University of Victoria students to start this term.

The Uvic students' council plans to rent houses to be used for living accommodation for students.

The residences would be entirely student-run and would offer low-cost living for students, plus "an atmosphere that would be interesting, to say the least," predicted one student official.

To start, the council plans to operate a single residence to house from 6 to 15 male students.

'Cougar Alert' At Gordon Head

Saanich police moved through the Gordon Head area Wednesday afternoon warning children to stay clear of the bush after four people spotted a cougar.

A Nanaimo hunter and his cougar hounds were called in but had failed to nab the big cat by noon.

SUNNING

A staff nurse said today she saw a large brown animal who appeared to be sunning itself on the beach.

Denis Wilders of Nanaimo and his hunting dogs are working with local fish and game officers in trying to track the cougar down. He was expected to return to Nanaimo today.

Wednesday's report is the latest in a series of sightings in recent weeks. People have reported seeing cougars near Beaver Lake Park, and the Observatory hill.

One animal was shot near Deep Cove last week.

Cake 'Crumbs' To Be Sold By Kiwanians

"It's a piece of cake" will be the rallying cry of Victoria Kiwanians as they descend on Safeway stores in the area this weekend.

They will be trying to sell what's left of their two-ton Centennial cake to gourmet shoppers between 4 and 9 p.m. Friday and 9 to noon Saturday morning.

Proceeds from the cake sale are used to finance the building of a camp for the handicapped at Lake Cowichan.

Ask The Times

Q. Are there any figures showing how serious Canada's "brain drain" actually is? I am referring specifically to scientists. C.G.

A. A survey by the United States Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) showed that for the year 1959 32.3 per cent of Canada's graduating scientists and engineers migrated to the U.S. The survey also suggested that this 32.3 per cent was of better quality than the two-thirds who stayed home.

Q. Who domesticated the turkey? P.M.N.

A. The turkey, indigenous to America, was domesticated by New Mexico Indians thousands of years ago.

Fire Alarm Costs Jump For Suburbs?

Saanich council is expected to approve at its next meeting in two weeks a revised scale for payment of municipal handling of emergency fire alarms from outlying areas.

The higher charges will affect Colwood, Langford, Central Saanich, Sidney and View Royal.

At present these areas pay $840 a year to Saanich for receiving fire alarms and then calling the local volunteer brigades.

The base charge is $1,000 plus $7 per call for each call during 1966.

Coun. Alan Newberry, chairman of the Saanich fire committee, said the new scale will be an increase of $300 for some outlying areas and $1,000 for others.

The charges have been unchanged for the last three years and he called them "woefully inadequate."

Even with the higher charges, he said, it will be cheaper for the outlying areas to have Saanich handle emergency calls rather than hire their own alarm staff.

Coun. Newberry said the new charges will pay approximately the cost of one fourth-year firefighter in Saanich.

Escorts Return To Esquimalt

One month to the day after leaving Esquimalt, the ocean-escorts Beacon Hill and Jonquiere returned today.

While away, the two vessels visited San Francisco, San Diego and Alaska.

Citizens' Aid Asked In Nabbing Vandals In City Cemeteries

Mayor A. W. Toone today appealed to citizens to help stop a wave of cemetery vandalism.

He referred to Ross Bay damage the weekend of Aug. 13 and 14 in which grave stones were toppled, broken or dislodged at a cost of $4 to $400 for individual repair work.

Total damage amounted to $2,100 for repairs to 39 plots, the mayor said. Plot owners must bear the cost of repairs, themselves, he added.

"It appears to me to be more or less continuing acts of vandalism," he remarked, "rather than any particular time."

"Police patrols have been stepped up and they are keeping a very close eye on it.

"But I think we should receive every co-operation from citizens as well and not expect the police to do it all."

The mayor asked citizens to report any acts of vandalism they hear about or witness.

Crash Victim Leaves Paintings to Gallery

Mrs. Norma MacDonald — the Victoria art lover who died in a plane crash at Tokyo, Japan, last March 4—bequeathed 12 paintings from her private collection to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

This was disclosed in her will probated at Victoria Law Courts Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. MacDonald directed that the gallery should choose any 12 paintings from her collection "as a gift from me."

She left estate to the gross value of $532,217, including her house at 1021 Deal Street, Oak Bay, and made various bequests to members of her family.

Of the many paintings in her collection, she decreed that Murillo's Madonna should go to a personal friend.

ON BUYING TRIP

Mrs. MacDonald was on a buying trip for her arts and crafts centre in Victoria's new Century Inn when she met her death in a CPA air crash at fogbound Tokyo Airport.

During her 20 years in Victoria, she was a liberal supporter of the arts and gave help and encouragement to many singers, musicians and artists.

In 1946 she purchased the Oak Bay Beach Hotel from the late Major William Merston and operated it with her family until 1963. During this time she served as president of the International Hotel Association and travelled widely.

Mrs. MacDonald was the widow of H. C. MacDonald, a Vancouver real estate man.

Last March 28 more than 40 Victoria entertainers donated their talents to a variety concert in memory of Mrs. MacDonald which packed McPherson Theatre.

Proceeds went toward the purchase of a concert grand piano for Victoria School of Music.

STRONG CONTINGENT READY FOR MAPLE BAY REGATTA

Six-Metre Yachts Recapturing Former Glory

— By PAT DUFOUR

Sansum Narrows will resemble a four-lane freeway this weekend as 300 yachts make their way to the Maple Bay Yacht Club for the annual Labor Day Regatta Saturday and Sunday.

Making a spectacular comeback to former glory will be a large fleet of six-metres. Once the "darling" of Olympic competitors, the six-metre waned in popularity for a few years when it was replaced in Olympic competition by the 5.5-metre because of the high cost.

Yachtsmen of the Pacific Northwest, particularly members of the Seattle and Corinthian Yacht Clubs, can be credited with saving the efficient yacht for present competition. While other skippers replaced the six-metres, yachtsmen on this coast bought boats from all over the world, many from Norway and Denmark. Today, this area boasts the largest fleet (24) of six-metres in existence, seven of which are owned and raced by Canadians.

Among those competing at Maple Bay is John Todd's Llanoria. Todd is a member of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and the Maple Bay Yacht Club.

Formerly onwed by an internationally known Norwegian shipping magnate, Llanoria won gold medals in both the 1948 and 1952 Olympics.

Another Canadian six-metre to compete in the Labor Day Regatta is Hanko, owned by Brian Lake of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club. This yacht was once owned by King Olaf of Norway. She placed third in the recent Lipton Trophy series, raced at Port Townsend.

Also competing in the regatta will be Lipton Trophy first and second-place winners, May Be VII, owned by Sunny Vyne of the Seattle Yacht Club, and Goose, skippered by Vic Palmer, MBYC.

Also in the one-design category, Thunderbird and Cal 20 sloops which form the two largest RVYC fleets, are also expected to contend in formidable numbers. Sailing officials expect that records will be set in the number of one-design yachts competing.

LIPTON TROPHY

Series races for all classes will be held Saturday and Sunday. The last day will also feature the Lipton Trophy race for B and C cruising classes.

With regatte competition under wraps, C and D class yachts of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club can look forward to another day of racing on Monday, when they compete for the Maurice Green Trophy. Beginning at 9 a.m., they will sail from the Musgrave Rock buoy to James Island, a distance of 14 miles. Time limit for this race will be six hours.

Takeover First Aim Of NDP

By JIM HUME
Times Staff Reporter

MERRITT—An immediate government takeover of automobile insurance was promised by NDP Leader Robert Strachan Wednesday when he addressed his most enthusiastic audience of the present election campaign.

Mr. Strachan told the 150-strong, constantly applauding crowd that the time had come to end the money-gouging tactics of private insurance companies.

Speaking in support of William Hartley who is involved in a two-way fight with Social Credit in the Yale-Lillooet riding, Mr. Strachan was again sharply critical of Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

"This man has failed the farmer completely," he said. "He is the biggest problem agriculture has in this province."

For the first time on his present tour Mr. Stradhan said his party was fully prepared to form a government on Sept. 13.

CABINET PLANS

"We could and will have a cabinet of outstanding men with outstanding ideas when the people throw out the Socreds on Sept. 12."

One of the major promises made by Mr. Strachan was a complete revision of social welfare payments.

"In 1952 $137,000 dollars was paid out in social assistance in this riding," he said.

"Some of that money went to physically disabled and deserted wives but the vast maiority went to able-bodied men who do not have a job.

"In 1966, those payments will reach $470,000 in this riding and Social Credit is bragging about this. They should be thoroughly ashamed. When we are elected we shall introduce a program to bring secondary industry to the province of B.C. and wipe out the need for welfare payments by finding jobs for every able-bodied man and woman."

7-YEAR ITCH

Mr. Strachan referred to Mr. Bennett's seven year program as "A seven-year itch."

"Three years ago he introduced a seven-year plan which has never been even partially fullfilled. Now he calls another election with another seven-year plan. I think that before calling the present election he must have consulted the entrails of a chicken.

Mr. Strachan was scheduled to speak in Vancouver at noon today, in Abbottsford tonight and tomorrow morning flies to Prince Rupert and Terrace.

NEW QUEEN of Pacific National Exhibition is Judy Collyer, 17, of New Westminster. She was chosen from 28 contestants Wednesday night. . . . PULL-OUT

Gaulle said that only an agreement along the lines of the 1954 Geneva accord could settle the war.

"Exactly as for the agreement of 1954, the object of this one would be to establish and guarantee the neutrality of the peoples of Indochina and their right of self-determination as these people actually are and leaving to each of them full responsibilities for its own affairs.

SUGGESTS LIST

"The contracting parties, therefore, would be the real powers in action there and, among the other states, at least the five world powers."

The five world powers as defined in the United Nations charter are France, Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China. Since France recognizes Communist China, de Gaulle apparently included that government among the five.

The speech, regarded as the most important of de Gaulle's around - the - world tour, came after a 35-minute talk he had here with a high North Vietnamese government representative, Nguyen Thuong.

A French spokesman said de Gaulle was given a personal message from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh Wednesday as he met privately with Thuong.

The spokesman said the note was being studied.

At a dinner given by Prince Norodom Sihanouk for the visiting president Wednesday night, the Cambodian premier toasted de Gaulle as the one man who might be able to exert moral pressure to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

Police Hunt More Bodies

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Police started a search in heavy fog today in an area two miles outside the city limits, on the possibility that there may be more bodies there beside those of two women already found.

'Indira Gandhi Quit'

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — More than 80,000 Communists shouting "Indira Gandhi quit" marched on Parliament here today to back the party's demand for the resignation of the government.

Mr. Nicholson made it official by reading an amendment providing for two increases in 1967 — four per cent Jan. 1 and six per cent July 1.

Today's sitting was to continue without a break until the bill passed all stages.

Senate approval, royal assent and proclamation of the law in the Canada Gazette were due to follow quickly.

The 122 Liberals backing the measure were joined by eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs, independents Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke) and J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) and a Conservative who broke the party line, J. Patrick Nowlan (Digby-Annapolis-Kings). (See story on Page 3.)

Earlier, an amendment by Mr. Diefenbaker to kill the bill in its original form went down 138 to 110.

HAD EXCHANGE

Wednesday's debate, running more than five hours longer than usual for Wednesdays, featured a sharp exchange between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker.

The Conservative chieftain said the minority government had its back to the wall and had no alternative but to amend its bill to make it more equitable.

Mr. Pearson shot back that he would not imitate the "chaotic excitability" of the Opposition leader. He accused Mr. Diefenbaker of trying to exploit a grave national emergency in a narrow, partisan way.

He charged that his long-time rival was more interested in ending the government than ending the strike.

Complaints by CPR President Ian Sinclair that the government's plan for ending the strike does not compensate the railways for the increased 1966 wage costs involved were rejected Wednesday by Mr. Pearson.

"I suggest to Mr. Sinclair that he read the bill a little more carefully," Mr. Pearson said in a brisk reply to Thomas A. Bell (PC — Saint John-Albert.)

29,000 on Strike

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) — Zambia's huge copper-mining industry was virtually at a standstill today as the number of African strikers rose to more than 29,000—about 85 per cent of the labor force.

It also threatened to raise once again the Soviet issue of a "troika" — or three - pronged — directorate which theoretically would represent East, West and neutrals.

There still was a possibility of a movement among security council members to draft Thant for the job, and even a possibility that he might succumb to the pressure being applied by many nations.

(In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said today he hopes it will be possible to convince Thant to remain in his post. He told the Commons that he and Prime Minister Pearson have already urged the secretary-general to carry on.)

However, there seemed a note of finality in Thant's words.

The statement from Thant immediately gave rise to conjecture over possible successors. Many have been mentioned, but it was too early to say whether any one man had anything near an inside chance.

Africans mentioned include Mongi Slim, former assembly president from Tunisia; UN Ambassador Chief S. O. A. Debo from Nigeria and some others. Asians include UN Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, who is the only candidate for the presidency of the General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

Thant, a 57-year-old Burmese Buddhist, was elected secretary-general after the death of Dag Hammarskjold, a Swede, in a plane crash Sept. 17, 1961, in Africa. Thant's five-year term as secretary-general runs out Nov. 3.

Saanich Asked For $19,400

Saanich will be asked to pay $19,400 for Gorge Park land which was priced by an independent appraiser.

Victoria city finance committee today recommended council adopt the price tag, figured on a value of 70 cents per square foot.

'HE'S A LIAR' CHARGES JOEY

CORNER BROOK (CP) — Premier Smallwood denied flatly today that there have been any secret negotiations between Newfoundland and Quebec over the Labrador boundary.

In a statement issued here he said former Quebec premier Jean Lesage is "an unmitigated liar" if he said such a thing.

The volatile Newfoundland leader, now in the midst of a campaign for the September 8 provincial election, said Churchill Falls "will run through eternity without being developed rather than change one single inch of the Labrador-Quebec boundary".

In Quebec Wednesday Mr. Lesage said he believes it is impossible for Quebec to sign an agreement to buy Churchill Falls power from Newfoundland without first settling the Labrador boundary question to Quebec's satisfaction.

* * *

"If Mr. Lesage is correctly quoted, then he is an unmitigated liar," Mr. Smallwood said today. "In all my negotiations with him, over three years in private and in public, I rejected and spurned every demand, request, suggestion he made to change the Labrador boundary by even one inch. I did so in jack-blunt, categorical fashion.

"I made it clear beyond any possibility of misunderstanding that his decision was final and unchangeable. I rejected with equal emphasis all of his crazy demands or proposals in connection with the development of Churchill Falls.

"Mr. Lesage speaks of secret negotiations to change the border. All the negotiations for more than three years were secret and always the answer was the same, namely, that Newfoundland rejected and spurned any demand, request or suggestion to change the boundary by as much as one inch."

ever socialism's been tried it has been rejected.

He showed he hadn't lost his sense of humor by replying to a question on the cost of an election:

"About the same as it is in Saskatchewan."

BREAK BARRIERS

On Canadian trade, he said: "We must break down the barriers between Canada and the United States and Great Britain.

"This doesn't mean to say we should be dictated by them. It is essential so we can sell in their markets."

He denied there was any such thing as alienation of Canada's natural resources.

With the audience a little more subdued, Mr. Lotfmark got on to education.

Asked if he agreed out-of-town students should receive more aid than in-town students, Mr. Loffmark said:

"Certainly. I've supported this idea for the past 30 years.

'TOUGH TIME'

"Out-of-town students have a tougher time than the commuter. I think it's only fair that out-of-town students should be treated differently than the commuter.

"I also think it should be different for female students as they are unable to earn as much in the summer.

Asked if the government would be prepared to endorse a policy for out-of-town students to receive an equalization grant, the minister replied:

They Made It Around Island In 19-Footer

"Mr. Vancouver" proved he could live up to his namesake Captain Vancouver when he sailed into Victoria harbor late Wednesday.

Battling high seas, fog and mechanical difficulties, they pulled into Nootka on the west coast Aug. 29, the same date on which Capt. Vancouver met the Spanish explorer Quadra in the same spot.

Esquimalt Liberal candidate David Elrix will speak at an election meeting at 8 tonight at Sooke Community Hall.

The meeting will be chaired by C. A. MacDonald.

More Time Given Parking Offenders

Beginning today, overtime parking offenders will have an additional 24 hours' grace before paying the full $2.50 fine.

Victoria traffic court office has announced offenders will be charged up to 72 hours after a ticket is issued.

The previous time limit was 48 hours.

'Can't Prosecute 118,000 People'

OTTAWA (CP) — A striking railway worker ignoring a government back - to - work order could face a two-year prison term under the Criminal Code.

But sources here said today the difficulties of prosecuting and enforcing the penalties are formidable and the government has apparently not investigated their use.

"You can't prosecute 118,000 people," said a lawyer close to the government.

He suggested that the real weapon in the strike-ending bill now before Parliament is not its punitive elements but its power to moral suasion.

"If the voice of Parliament is considered representative, it must have a very strong persuasive effect."

Section 107 of the Criminal Code says anyone contravening an act of Parliament is guilty of an indictable offence and liable to imprisonment for two years.

Any prosecutions would have to be selective and would take time to prepare and complete.

The government bill orders the companies to resume operation forthwith and the union leaders to withdraw any strike authorization or order.

Experts said one of the most difficult points in any government move would be the legal position of union leaders.

Although these leaders might counsel union members to return to work, if the union members in fact ignored the counsel it might not save the leaders from prosecution.

U Thant Quits; Cites Hopeless Task

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U Thant announced today he will quit as United Nations secretary-general when his current five-year term expires Nov. 3 and will not seek re-election.

In a 1,000-word letter of resignation, Thant cited the UN's financial difficulties and the grave international situation, which he said he believed was remorselessly leading to major war.

He said the sufferings of the people of Viet Nam were "a constant reproach to the conscience of humanity" and that "tragic error" was being made in reliance on force in the "deceptive pursuit of peace."

An informant said Thant asked the Security Council to recommend a successor to the General Assembly.

The decision of the soft-spoken Burmese, taken despite heavy pressure from UN members, including Russia and the United States raised the prospect of an east-west clash over selection of a candidate for the post.

Thant also alluded to the absence of Communist China from the UN, saying that he had "a sense of dissatisfaction with the fact that the organization has not yet achieved universality of membership." He said:

"I believe I am not alone in this feeling. Many of the problems facing the world today, be they regional or global, become more intractable because of this circumstance.

"This is true, for example, of the lack of progress in such vital fields as disarmament."

The text of the letter, sent to every member state's delegation here, was not immediately released officially by the UN, but the contents became known from early recipients of the document.

Thant said he was sure his decision not to stand for a second term would not be misconstrued and he was leaving the Security Council unfettered in the appointment of his successor.

Informed sources said urgent consultations now would be held privately among council members and the council might meet behind closed doors within a few days, though probably not during the weekend.

Thant's decision raised the prospect of new East - West wrangling over a successor, similar to that in 1961, before the Burmese was chosen.

Stop Strike Bill Passed by House

Senate Action Will Make It Law

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons today gave third and final reading to an amended government bill to halt the national railway strike. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

The bill, which imposes a minimum wage increase for 1966 and 1967 of 18 per cent and orders 118,000 striking railwaymen back to work, was passed without a formal roll-call vote.

The Senate was to convene almost immediately to deal with the measure. Informants said up to eight senators plan to speak.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today that the 18-per-cent wage increase over two years provided in the government's strike-ending railway bill can be revised upwards through mediation or, possibly, arbitration.

He was replying to David Lewis (NDP-York South) who maintained that earlier statements by cabinet ministers had left the impression that 18 per cent would be a ceiling.

Mr. Pearson spoke in the Commons after the government formally proposed an amendment to write 1967 minimum wage increases into its bill to halt the strike which began last Friday. The bill already contained 1966 increases of 4 per cent, retroactive to January 1, and another 4 per cent retroactive to July 1.

The government's move was immediately followed by demands from Opposition Leader Diefenbaker that the government also add a general statement of principle to remove the railwaymen's "fear of a continuing reduction of jobs."

Labor Minister Nicholson, replying to Mr. Diefenbaker, said the government gave assurance Wednesday night that fringe benefits and job security would be dealt with when the relevant section of the bill was reached.

Several government spokesmen — including Mr. Pearson, Immigration Minister Marchand and Health Minister MacEachen — had argued that because the 1966 increases followed the recommendations of two conciliation board reports, the bill carried a "moral guarantee" that workers would end up with no less than the 18 per cent recommended by the boards for two years. The 18-per-cent proposals were rejected by the unions and the railway companies.

The Commons met at 10 a.m. — 4½ hours earlier than usual — to continue study of the 11-clause strike bill.

Mr. Pearson said fears that the 18 per cent will become a ceiling are based on "invalid and unwarranted" interpretations of government statements.

Mediation and, if that fails, arbitration would be free to revise that figure.

"There is nothing to justify the interpretation that this is a ceiling," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker poked fun at Mr. Marchand and Mr. MacEachen for their previous defence of the bill as written.

When the government changed its mind and agreed to the amendment the two ministers "were laid out flat on the floor."

"Even Cassius Clay never equalled knocking out two ministers within a few minutes," he said with a chuckle.

Freedman Formula Proposed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Freedman formula, under which unions would be given the legal right to help shape the march of automation, boiled into a major controversy Thursday as Commons opposition attempted to rewrite the details of the government's rail strike bill.

The New Democratic Party sought first to insert a clause that would apply the full Freedman formula to the railway industry, including the right to strike if changes in working conditions due to automation were unacceptable to labor.

After almost an hour of debate, the proposed amendment was withdrawn. But Stanley Knowles (NDP — Winnipeg North Centre) served notice that his party would return to the issue at a later stage in the clause-by-clause study of the legislation.

The amendment, moved by Norman Fawcett (NDP—Nickel Belt), would have obliged the railways to negotiate with the unions before introducing any technological change that would adversely affect working conditions.

95 Die in Crash Of U.K. Airliner

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — A British airliner carrying 117 persons on a vacation to Yugoslavia crashed and burned today as it came in for a landing and 95 persons were killed.

Officials here said 80 persons died when the plane plunged into a woods shortly after midnight Wednesday night in cloudy weather near the airport of this mountain city.

The other victims died in hospitals or on the way. Officials said that of the 22 survivors, two were in serious condition but the others were out of danger.

Rescue workers said those who survived had nearly all been seated in the back of the plane.

WEPT WITH SHOCK

When the first rescuers appeared, about a dozen survivors were stumbling about, weeping in shock and hysteria.

The plane had just cleared the snow - covered peaks of north Yugoslavia's Julian Alps which rim this prosperous and modern capital of Slovenia. It was coming in for a normal landing when it crashed in a field near the runway.

ALL TOURISTS

In the confusion of the crash there were conflicting reports whether the plane crashed while landing or while taking off on a return flight. But authorities confirmed that the crash occurred as the plane was coming in from London, two hours and 25 minutes after takeoff.

The Britannia 102 plunged into a field near Ljubljana's Brnik Airport in the vicinity of the village of Modemnda.

COMPANY CHARTERS

Britannia Airways does charter work for British travel agencies. The company was formerly called Eucavia Limited, and is a subsidiary operation of Lord Thomson, Canadian-born publisher.

The plane that crashed was a Britannia airliner of a type that used to be known as "the whispering giant." The plane and the airline have the same name by coincidence.

The last major crash involving a British - owned airliner was on March 5 when a British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 jet crashed near Tokyo with the loss of 124 lives.

Britannias have a generally good safety record. The last one to crash, also a charter plane, came down in the mountains near Innsbruck, Austria, in February, 1964, killing 83 persons.

BOAC used to run a fleet of Britannias which are powered by four Bristol Siddeley turboprop engines. But the state-owned airline withdrew them from service when pure jet planes became available in large numbers.

The Ljubljana disaster was Britannia Airways' first accident since the company was formed five years ago.

'States Won't Lose Prestige on Pull-Out'

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters)—President de Gaulle of France today urged the United States to agree to withdraw its forces from Viet Nam and accept internationally-guaranteed neutralization of the Indochina area.

In a major speech before 60,000 persons in Phnom Penh's vast Olympic Stadium, the French president declared the United States is so powerful and has such prestige that it could afford to give up an "expedition" in a faraway land that has no benefit or justification.

Acceptance of an international arrangement bringing peace to this important area would in no way finally injure American pride, thwart U.S. ideals or jeopardize its interests, he said.

De Gaulle said France is certain the Viet Nam war will lead to no military solution, "short of the universe moving toward catastrophe."

De Gaulle did not call for withdrawal of American forces as a prelude to negotiations—as North Viet Nam and its Communist supporters have demanded—but said:

"The possibility and even more, the opening of such a vast and difficult negotiation (to end the war) would obviously depend on the decisions and commitments which America would previously have chosen to take and enter into to repatriate its forces at an appropriate and fixed period of time."

De Gaulle took a gloomy view of the results if the U.S. does not follow the course he suggested.

"If this does not happen," he said, no mediation will offer any prospect of success, and this is why France, for its part, has never envisioned and does not envision proposing any."

While admitting that "it is unbelievable that the American military display should ever be annihilated in the field," de

'COME UP HERE AND WRESTLE,' SAYS LOFFMARK

Ralph Takes Up Arms Against Hecklers

By TERRY IZZARD

The Social Credit party's secret strongarm man revealed himself Wednesday night.

He's Ralph Loffmark.

His challenge came during an explosive 10-minute slanging session after Mr. Loffmark said there were no working men among NDP members in the legislature.

"Are there any in the Social Credit government?" shouted one excited member of the audience.

When no one wanted to twist arms, he taunted:

"I've met your sort before and they last about two days (doing a hard day's work)."

While no one was prepared to test their physical strength against the fighting minister, there was no shortage of verbal contestants.

Several members of the audience were provoked by Mr. Loffmark's comparison of the New Democratic Party with East Germany's socialist party.

LOFFMARK

"These guns are pointed at the people being held in there — at people who want to leave. They see no future for themselves.

"These are the issues today."

Shouted someone from the floor: "You can do better than that."

"Tell us about Viet Nam," said another.

And another: "What about the machine-guns?"

The chairman twice tried to restore order but each time was waved back to his seat by Mr. Loffmark.

Takeover First Aim Of NDP

By JIM HUME
Times Staff Reporter

MERRITT—An immediate government takeover of automobile insurance was promised by NDP Leader Robert Strachan Wednesday when he addressed his most enthusiastic audience of the present election campaign.

Mr. Strachan told the 150-strong, constantly applauding crowd that the time had come to end the money-gouging tactics of private insurance companies.

Speaking in support of William Hartley who is involved in a two-way fight with Social Credit in the Yale-Lillooet riding, Mr. Strachan was again sharply critical of Agriculture Minister Frank Richter.

"This man has failed the farmer completely," he said. "He is the biggest problem agriculture has in this province."

For the first time on his present tour Mr. Stradhan said his party was fully prepared to form a government on Sept. 13.

CABINET PLANS

"We could and will have a cabinet of outstanding men with outstanding ideas when the people throw out the Socreds on Sept. 12."

One of the major promises made by Mr. Strachan was a complete revision of social welfare payments.

"In 1952 $137,000 dollars was paid out in social assistance in this riding," he said.

"Some of that money went to physically disabled and deserted wives but the vast majority went to able-bodied men who do not have a job.

"In 1966, those payments will reach $470,000 in this riding and Social Credit is bragging about this. They should be thoroughly ashamed. When we are elected we shall introduce a program to bring secondary industry to the province of B.C. and wipe out the need for welfare payments by finding jobs for every able-bodied man and woman."

7-YEAR ITCH

Mr. Strachan referred to Mr. Bennett's seven year program as "A seven-year itch."

"Three years ago he introduced a seven-year plan which has never been even partially fullfilled. Now he calls another election with another seven-year plan. I think that before calling the present election he must have consulted the entrails of a chicken.

Mr. Strachan was scheduled to speak in Vancouver at noon today, in Abbottsford tonight and tomorrow morning flies to Prince Rupert and Terrace.

More Time Given Parking Offenders

Beginning today, overtime parking offenders will have an additional 24 hours' grace before paying the full $2.50 fine.

The previous time limit was 48 hours.

bill of a general statement of principle about fringe benefits and job security, Mr. Diefenbaker said he had in mind the fact that the unions rejected the conciliation board reports recommending 18-per-cent increases.

Mr. Pearson in reply said he can't speak for the union leaders but that he has confidence in the law-abiding character of Canadians.

Mr. Nicholson accepted a proposal by H. A. Olson (SC — Medicine Hat) that the bill provide a specific guarantee that each individual employee receive at least an 18 per cent increase if the dispute goes before an arbitration board.

Mr. Olson had argued that the railways, by averaging out the various wage rates, might wind up granting an 18 per cent average increase that left some classes of employees with increases of less than that.

Meanwhile, leaders of the unions refused comment today after holding an hour-long meeting in a downtown hotel.

"We want to see the legislation as passed before making any statements," said W. J. Smith, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

(In Vancouver leaders of the province's 10,000 strikers said their members likely will reject the latest back-to-work proposal.

(The chairman of the workers' strike committee said the unions want more than the 18 per cent increase included in

Gaulle said that only an agreement along the lines of the 1954 Geneva accord could settle the war.

"Exactly as for the agreement of 1954, the object of this one would be to establish and guarantee the neutrality of the peoples of Indochina and their right of self-determination as these people actually are and leaving to each of them full responsibilities for its own affairs.

SUGGESTS LIST

"The contracting parties, therefore, would be the real powers in action there and, among the other states, at least the five world powers."

The five world powers as defined in the United Nations charter are France, Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union and Nationalist China. Since France recognizes Communist China, de Gaulle apparently included that government among the five.

The speech, regarded as the most important of de Gaulle's around - the - world tour, came after a 35-minute talk he had here with a high North Vietnamese government representative, Nguyen Thuong.

A French spokesman said de Gaulle was given a personal message from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh Wednesday as he met privately with Thuong.

The spokesman said the note was being studied.

At a dinner given by Prince Norodom Sihanouk for the visiting president Wednesday night, the Cambodian premier toasted de Gaulle as the one man who might be able to exert moral pressure to bring about a peaceful settlement of the Vietnamese war.

B.C. TO BE 51st STATE?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver Centre, independent candidate Gerard A. Gocujon was loudly booed, hissed and laughed at when he promised to introduce a private members bill, if elected, proposing that B.C. become the 51st state of the United States.

He said he thought his bill would get at least 51 per cent support from M.L.A's including Trade Minister Loffmark and Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

. . . RAILWAY STRIKE

the Commons bill "and we don't believe there is much chance" of this under the bill.

("If the legislation passes and the men don't go back, it will be interesting to see the government try to arrest more than 100,000 men," said John Patrick O'Brien.

(Mr. O'Brien said the men are "afraid of compulsory arbitration," provided for in the legislation if no agreement is reached through further negotiation by Nov. 15.)

The break in a fractious three-day debate came at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday when Labor Minister Nicholson announced the amendment to the legislation.

The original bill, introduced Monday set down a four-per-cent increase effective last Jan. 1 and another four per cent effective last July 1. Wage rates for 1967 were left to negotiation or arbitration.

This eight-per-cent interim settlement was denounced as totally inadequate by strike leaders and the Conservative and New Democratic parties.

Threats were voiced that the workers would defy Parliament and remain on strike.

The cabinet met several times Wednesday and ministers began hinting at an 18-per-cent statutory wage boost.

Mr. Nicholson made it official by reading an amendment providing for two increases in 1967 — four per cent Jan. 1 and six per cent July 1.

Today's sitting was to continue without a break until the bill passed all stages.

Senate approval, royal assent and proclamation of the law in the Canada Gazette were due to follow quickly.

The big question was whether the strikers would obey the bill and return to work as soon as it became law.

The bill cleared a major hurdle Wednesday when it received a second reading — approval in principle — by a vote of 138 to 103.

The 122 Liberals backing the measure were joined by eight Creditistes, five Social Credit MPs, independents Maurice Allard (Sherbrooke) and J. A. Mongrain (Trois-Rivieres) and a Conservative who broke the party line, J. Patrick Nowlan (Digby-Annapolis-Kings). (See story on Page 3.)

Earlier, an amendment by Mr. Diefenbaker to kill the bill in its original form went down 138 to 110.

Wednesday's debate, running more than five hours longer than usual for Wednesdays, featured a sharp exchange between Mr. Pearson and Mr. Diefenbaker.

The Conservative chieftain said the minority government had its back to the wall and had no alternative but to amend its bill to make it more equitable.

Mr. Pearson shot back that he would not imitate the "chaotic excitability" of the Opposition leader. He accused Mr. Diefenbaker of trying to exploit a grave national emergency in a narrow, partisan way.

He charged that his long-time rival was more interested in ending the government than ending the strike.

Complaints by CPR President Ian Sinclair that the government's plan for ending the strike does not compensate the railways for the increased 1966 wage costs involved were rejected Wednesday by Mr. Pearson.

"I suggest to Mr. Sinclair that he read the bill a little more carefully," Mr. Pearson said in a brisk reply to Thomas A. Bell (PC — Saint John-Albert.)

Police Hunt More Bodies

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (CP)—Police started a search in heavy fog today in an area two miles outside the city limits, on the possibility that there may be more bodies there beside those of two women already found.

Results of an autopsy announced today disclosed the second victim, still unidentifed, died of strangulation.

Her body was found Wednesday about 100 yards from where the partly-clothed body of Dorreen Lucy Hardy, 18, of MacDiarmid, Ont., was found Sunday.

Election First, Then Ferries

Premier Bennett will not go out of his way to meet with licensed officers of the British Columbia ferry service who are threatening to quit en masse if their demands for collective bargaining are not met by next Thursday.

Capt. Cecil Rhodes, secretary of the Canadian Merchant Service Guild, today said he will make further efforts to see Mr. Bennett today to arrange an immediate meeting.

He was unable to contact Mr. Bennett in Vancouver Wednesday although reporters did and were told by the premier that the guild will have to go through regular channels.

Mr. Bennett said the representatives of the 250 licensed officers involved should see the ferry authority and civil service commission officials first about their problems.

If they still are not satisfied, they can arrange to meet with the cabinet in the normal way, he said.

"However, it would be difficult to arrange a meeting with the cabinet this week since they're all out campaigning in different parts of the province," Mr. Bennett said.

. . . THANT

It also threatened to raise once again the Soviet issue of a "troika" — or three - pronged — directorate which theoretically would represent East, West and neutrals.

There still was a possibility of a movement among security council members to draft Thant for the job, and even a possibility that he might succumb to the pressure being applied by many nations.

(In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin said today he hopes it will be possible to convince Thant to remain in his post. He told the Commons that he and Prime Minister Pearson have already urged the secretary-general to carry on.)

However, there seemed a note of finality in Thant's words.

The statement from Thant immediately gave rise to conjecture over possible successors. Many have been mentioned, but it was too early to say whether any one man had anything near an inside chance.

Africans mentioned include Mongi Slim, former assembly president from Tunisia; UN Ambassador Chief S. O. A. Debo from Nigeria and some others. Asians include UN Ambassador Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, who is the only candidate for the presidency of the General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

Thant, a 57-year-old Burmese Buddhist, was elected secretary-general after the death of Dag Hammarskjold, a Swede, in a plane crash Sept. 17, 1961, in Africa. Thant's five-year term as secretary-general runs out Nov. 3.

Saanich Asked For $19,400

Saanich will be asked to pay $19,400 for Gorge Park land which was priced by an independent appraiser.

Victoria city finance committee today recommended council adopt the price tag, figured on a value of 70 cents per square foot.

'HE'S A LIAR' CHARGES JOEY

CORNER BROOK (CP) — Premier Smallwood denied flatly today that there have been any secret negotiations between Newfoundland and Quebec over the Labrador boundary.

In a statement issued here he said former Quebec premier Jean Lesage is "an unmitigated liar" if he said such a thing.

The volatile Newfoundland leader, now in the midst of a campaign for the September 8 provincial election, said Churchill Falls "will run through eternity without being developed rather than change one single inch of the Labrador-Quebec boundary".

In Quebec Wednesday Mr. Lesage said he believes it is impossible for Quebec to sign an agreement to buy Churchill Falls power from Newfoundland without first settling the Labrador boundary question to Quebec's satisfaction.

★ ★ ★

"If Mr. Lesage is correctly quoted, then he is an unmitigated liar," Mr. Smallwood said today. "In all my negotiations with him, over three years in private and in public, I rejected and spurned every demand, request, suggestion he made to change the Labrador boundary by even one inch. I did so in jack-blunt, categorical fashion.

"I made it clear beyond any possibility of misunderstanding that his decision was final and unchangeable. I rejected with equal emphasis all of his crazy demands or proposals in connection with the development of Churchill Falls.

"Mr. Lesage speaks of secret negotiations to change the border. All the negotiations for more than three years were secret and always the answer was the same, namely, that Newfoundland rejected and spurned any demand, request or suggestion to change the boundary by as much as one inch."

ever socialism's been tried it has been rejected.

He showed he hadn't lost his sense of humor by replying to a question on the cost of an election:

"About the same as it is in Saskatchewan."

Speaking in support of Saanich and the Island incumbent John Tisdalle, he eventually abandoned his speech and answered questions from the floor.

BREAK BARRIERS

On Canadian trade, he said: "We must break down the barriers between Canada and the United States and Great Britain.

"This doesn't mean to say we should be dictated by them. It is essential so we can sell in their markets."

He denied there was any such thing as alienation of Canada's natural resources.

With the audience a little more subdued, Mr. Loffmark got on to education.

Asked if he agreed out-of-town students should receive more aid than in-town students, Mr. Loffmark said:

"Certainly. I've supported this idea for the past 30 years.

'TOUGH TIME'

"Out-of-town students have a tougher time than the commuter. I think it's only fair that out-of-town students should be treated differently than the commuter.

"I also think it should be different for female students as they are unable to earn as much in the summer."

Asked if the government would be prepared to endorse a policy for out-of-town students to receive an equalization grant, the minister replied:

They Made It Around Island In 19-Footer

"Mr. Vancouver" proved he could live up to his namesake Captain Vancouver when he sailed into Victoria harbor late Wednesday.

Battling high seas, fog and mechanical difficulties, they pulled into Nootka on the west coast Aug. 29, the same date on which Capt. Vancouver met the Spanish explorer Quadra in the same spot.

'Fight to Death' Promised by Ma

VANCOUVER (CP) — "To hell with parties."

With that, crusty newspaper editor Ma Murray launched a "no party" campaign to cut Premier W. A. C. Bennett down to size.

She said Wednesday she has sold a Peace River district farm to finance her campaign and was in Vancouver opening the battle lines.

She said she is willing to give her life to "reduce this man's great power."

Even, she said, "go to prison or anything that is necessary to pay back something to this province that has given me so much."

The editor of the weekly Bridge River-Lillooet News said she would conduct a broadcast campaign using "my shekels to save the people from the catastrophe that threatens them now.

Meanwhile, back in Lillooet, Mr. Bennett interrupted his Sept. 12 provincial election campaign to call Ma Murray and thank her.

HELPING US

But she wasn't there.

Said Ma Murray:

"I want to pound home some common sense to the people, to encourage the young people to kick out all of the present leaders and lead themselves."

The 79 - year - old newspaper woman said she has formed her own "no party" committee.

It's goal: prevent Mr. Bennett winning 45 of the 55 B.C. seats he is reported hopeful of winning. Social Credit held 32 of 52 seats in the last house.

"Let's get the best people we can and reduce this man's great power," she said.

HE'S IN TROUBLE

Mr. Bennett didn't have to call an election until Dec. 18, 1968, she said, but did so now because he's in trouble.

"And I intend to smoke out the trouble."

Well, said Mr. Bennett: "She may not be my friend but I'm her friend and I'll be her friend when I'm the last friend she has."

In Lillooet, Mr. Bennett appeared to have infiltrated the Murray camp.

Canadian Mine, Mill Won't Wed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Canadian section of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.) said Wednesday it won't merge with the Steelworkers' Union, regardless of what happens to the unions in the U.S.

Harvey Murphy, B.C. regional president and a Canadian vice-president of Mine-Mill said: "We here in Canada have no intention of becoming handmaidens to the steelworkers."

He was commenting on an announcement by officials of both unions in the U.S. that "substantial progress" had been made towards a merger.

"What the officers of Mine-Mill do in the U.S. is their own business," Mr. Murphy said.

AWARDED the Israeli prime minister's medal "for service in the cause of Israeli development" is John Bassett, publisher of the Toronto Telegram. The medal will be presented Oct. 19 in Toronto.

The Stadium Looked Like Berlin Border

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Beatles have come and gone, collecting $146,000 for moaning 10 songs in 27 minutes.

By way of social commentary, the pay of the four young English singers exceeded the combined annual salaries of the president and vice-president of the United States.

To the adult, a Beatle concert must be viewed as a social phenomenon, since it is impossible to enjoy as entertainment. Even those with a failing for some of the Beatle songs can find little pleasure because of inaudibility.

The Thomas group made its third annual pilgrimage to hear the Beatles. Nancy, 18 and ready for college, showed no disenchantment for the mop-tops. Janet, 14, was in the full throes of fandom. Caroline, 8, was a new entry and not lacking in enthusiasm.

APPROPRIATE SETTING

This year the concert was in Dodger Stadium instead of Hollywood Bowl, and it seemed more fitting for the event to take place in a sports arena than in a citadel of longhair (the other kind) music.

Dodger Stadium looked somewhat like the Berlin border. Burly guards stood at the bottom and midway of each stairway leading to the field. Uniformed policemen with helmets and billyclubs lined the field, some of them communicating with walkie - talkies. Behind them were three rows of hurdles and a newly-erected wire fence.

Preliminary acts poured a torrent of noise through the public address system while the 40,000 onlookers grew restless and stared at each other. There was much to stare at. One bearded chap on my aisle wore the headdress and robes of an Arab sheik, another sported a green velvet cape.

SHE'S A HE

The girl next to me with the orange page-boy bob turned her head and I discovered she was a fellow.

At 9:33 the Beatles came out of the dugout at third base and it was noisy. Oh yes, it was. Signs began to unfurl all over the grandstand.

The guards at the bottom of the aisles eyed the masses uneasily. There was a charge of excitement in the crowd as a handful of teen-agers leaped out of the bleachers and raced toward the bandstand at second base.

Police quickly captured the invaders and led them off in handcuffs as the onlookers booed. Later, an officer on the field was hit in his rear by an orange hurled from the upper deck. The crowd cheered.

Review by the Thomas girls:

"They didn't sing enough new songs . . . George's hair was a mess . . . Paul was the only one who tried to please . . . They seemed bored . . . but they're cool . . . yes, they're cool . . . I love the Beatles."

Air Rescue 'Copter Here

A dream came true Wednesday for Vancouver Island lighthouse keepers, remote area residents and men who follow the sea.

To be stationed permanently on the west coast, the seven-seater chopper will be a boon to rescue, search and emergency supply projects.

In particular, the turbine-powered craft will speed up present evacuation procedure for sick and injured men.

In the past, the department of transport has depended mostly on the small two-seater Bell helicopters.

But with a top speed of only 95 miles an hour, and no equipment for night flying, the Bells have proved very limiting.

Now, with the Alouette's superior speed — it can cruise at 130 miles an hour — and night-flying equipment, even the most remote spots of Vancouver Island are but a few hours away.

Said the department's chief pilot, Bob Masters: "With the Alouette we can pick up an injured man in Port Hardy and have him back in Victoria, all in the same day.

"Using the Bell it would be a two-day operation."

"In addition, there is room beneath the huge rotor blades for extra luggage.

To test the $300,000 machine, it left Victoria's as yet unopened heliport today to carry out a carpentry repair job at Chrome Island near Nanaimo.

Russia Condemns Chinese

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The Kremlin's leaders, for the first time since the fall of Nikita Khrushchev two years ago, have verbally blasted China.

The Communist party's ruling central committee Wednesday night blamed China for provoking a sharp deterioration in Sino-Soviet relations and said Peking's hard-line "cultural revolution" helped only the imperialists.

Eagles, Alligators Secret Lives Shown

The first of four Audubon Wildlife Films will be shown in Victoria Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society.

The film, Inherit the Wild, will be shown at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School auditorium by Canadian Audubon Society lecturer D. J. Nelson.

It gives an intimate look at wildlife in their natural state, including shots of an eagle taking a bath and an alligator building its nest and laying eggs.

Other films to be shown in the series are The Vanishing Sea, by Robert W. Davison, Nov. 4 and 5, a conservation story of life in the Great Basin of the western U.S.; Canada's Mountain Wilderness, by Edgar T. Jones, Jan 6 and 7, about wildlife inhabitants of the Canadian Rockies; and Land of the Drowned River, by Charles J. Stine, Feb. 10 and 11, about animals and birds of Maryland and Virginia.

The four are among 1,500 Audubon Wildlife Films shown each year in Canada and the U.S., and are considered the finest natural history films available. This is the 21st season they have been shown in Victoria.

Tickets are $1 each, season tickets $3 for four films. Student admission is 25 cents, and season tickets $1. Tickets are available at the Dogwood Gift Shoppe, 2224 Oak Bay Ave. and 1801 Fort, at Ford's Book Store, 641 Yates, and at the office of the Provincial Museum.

Ambulance Due At End of Month

It was due to arrive about now but a parts shortage has caused the delay, deputy fire chief Eric Simmons said today. The ambulance chassis is being modified in St Catherines, Ont.

The city's fire department will operate the $10,000 vehicle when it arrives.

In the meantime the police paddy wagon will continue to double in brass, as it has for years, as an ambulance.

A Sooke man was fined $50 Wednesday in central court when he pleaded guilty to charge of obtaining lodgings by fraud at a Chetwynd, B.C. Hotel.

Court was told a $7 cheque tendered as payment to the hotel for a night's lodging by R. P. Brisette was returned to the hotel owner marked "NSF."

Brisette told Magistrate Ostler he had paid again by cheque but it was not received. He said he had since paid the account by money order.

Sentencing of Gertrude Raincock of Langford, who pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences, was deferred to Sept. 8 for the preparation of a pre-sentence report.

Evidence was Mrs. Raincock had given a worthless cheque to the proprietor of the View Royal Low-Cost Grocery July 8 in exchange for food and cash.
